TOWERING INFERNO — Fire blazes in all three stories of a house at 265 Cascade Avenue in Mill Valley, causing damage estimated at $200,000 to the wood-and-glass structure which once was featured in a national magazine. Fire began about 9:40 p.m. yesterday.

Fire Destroys Mill Valley Home

Fire last night destroyed a three-story Mill Valley house after flames broke out on the lower floor.

Owners of the home at 265 Cascade Avenue, John T. Badham and George S. Munger, escaped without injury, taking their three German shepherd dogs with them. But two pet South American birds perished.

Mill Valley firemen estimated loss of the wood and glass house and contents at $200,000. They said that the house, noted for its stained glass windows, had been featured in a recent issue of Playboy Magazine.

Munger said he and Badham were in an unstairs room about 9:40 p.m. when they saw a red glow reflected on the nearby trees. The raced downstairs, saw flames, and pushed an alarm button connected with the Mill Valley Police Station. They fled quickly with their dogs.

Firemen said the house, located on a steep, wooded hillside was engulfed when they arrived. Witnesses said flames were visible for a mile, attracting a crowd of bystanders. Nearby trees were scorched.

"This house is just a love affair with me," Munger mourned as he huddled under a blanket given him by a neighbor and watched his home burn.

Badham and Munger today were staying at the home of friends at Stinson Beach.

Fire units from the Also-Richardson Bay and Tamalpais Valley fire departments assisted Mill Valley firemen fight the blaze.

Firemen said today the cause of the fire was still undetermined.

Weekend Ferries A Winner

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A legal challenge to the authority of the Golden Gate Bridge District to operate midday and weekend ferryboat service has been rejected by San Francisco Superior Court.

Judge Robert J. Drewes ruled yesterday that Harbor Carriers, private operator of commuter and excursion ferries on the bay, had no legal basis for its challenge. The company had claimed that the district was operating a sightseeing service and had exceeded its legislative authority in expanding its ferry system.

The suit cost the district some $35,000 to defend. The suit had been filed in 1970.

The district argued successfully that its Sausalito ferry "goes from point to point, rather than circling the bay, playing tapes of historical points of interest."

Watergate Jurors Ask Tape Replays

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Jurors deliberating the Watergate cover-up case today asked for a replay of two tapes — June 23, 1972, when President Richard M. Nixon and H. R. Haldeman discussed using the CIA to halt the scandal, and March 21, 1973, when John W. Dean warned of a "cancer on the presidency."

U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica told reporters in the courthouse corridor that the tapes would be replayed for the jury in the closed courtroom of 2 p.m. EST. He said he would allow defense and prosecution lawyers and defendants to be present.

Haldeman was the only one of the five defendants — all of them former Nixon aides — whose voice was recorded on the tapes which the jury asked to be replayed.

Sirica said the jury's original request to hear the tapes was "a little ambiguous" and he asked for clarification. In return, he said, he received a note from jury foreman John Hoffar saying:

"Tape requests: Haldeman-Nixon discussion about using CIA to stop FBI investigation." (June 23).

"Tape request: Dean's 'there is a cancer on the presidency' — to Nixon." (March 21).

The June 23 conversation was recorded in three separate tape segments and Sirica said be presumed all three of them would be played for the jury. The disclosure of this conversation last August led to Nixon's resignation from the presidency.

Dean's "cancer" admonition was made during a long conversation in which he laid out for Nixon the full story of what now has come to be known as the Watergate coverup. Sirica said most of this tape would be replayed.

After receiving the notes from the jury, all of them written on tiny two by three inch scraps of paper, Sirica had called the prosecution and defense lawyers into his chambers.

The jury meanwhile returned for a short time to their motel for lunch, fully prepared to continue deliberations with no champagne on New Year's Eve and no television football games on New Year's Day.

The jury, which began its deliberations yesterday afternoon, showed up early at the U.S. District Courthouse and went to work in their windowless, second floor room at 9:20 a.m. EST, under guard by federal marshals.

Shortly before 11 a.m., the jury sent a note to U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica saying they would keep working through tomorrow, New Year's Day.

Their plans could change if they reached a verdict before then, but it appeared highly unlikely they would be able to quickly resolve the guilt or innocence of the five former aides to Richard M. Nixon accused of covering up the bugging scandal.

Perhaps the jurors' decision to work through the holiday was prompted by the Spartan conditions imposed for their deliberations. Horace Webb, a spokesman for the marshal's service, said all the special privileges which they enjoyed during the 13-week trial were cut off the moment Sirica sent them out to begin deliberating a verdict.

"There'll be no special celebration," Webb said, referring to New Year's Eve. He said the jurors would simply go back to their hotel and have dinner.

Home-Delivered Price Of I-J Increased To $3

The home-delivered price of the Independent-Journal will be $3 per month starting tomorrow.

"In the past year we have seen the price of newsprint rise from $177.50 per ton to $280 per ton, an increase of 58 per cent," said Wishard A. Brown, I-J publisher. "Ink prices have risen 80 per cent during the same period."

"The Independent-Journal realizes only about one-third of the cost of raw newsprint and ink from the price paid by subscribers. This price increase is only 25 cents, less than a penny a day, and a significant portion of it will go to the I-J carrier who brings you your newspaper," Brown added. "We will continue to provide our readers with the best possible newspaper at the lowest possible price."

Fire Destroys Marinwood Home

A fire of undetermined origin yesterday destroyed the Pamela Pittsford residence at 854 Greenberry Lane in Marinwood.

Damage was estimated at $55,000 to the structure and $10,000 to contents. The Marinwood Fire Department responded to the call at 10:53 a.m. and was assisted by the San Rafael Fire Department. The blaze was under control in 30 minutes.

Expected Gold Rush More Like A Trickle

Americans Not Buying As Sales Become Legal

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Buying and selling of gold in the United States began in lavish ceremonies before dawn today for the first time since 1933, but major dealers said gold prices of nearly $200 an ounce were too high and the public was not buying.

The apparent failure of a U.S. gold rush to develop in early U.S. trading forced dramatic declines in the price of gold on major European markets, where the price had risen to record levels in anticipation of quick profits when the gold ban was lifted at midnight.

"There is no gold rush," said Samuel Weiss, a major wholesaler for banks and large institutions. "It is more of a funeral march.

"The public is tired of getting ripped off. The intelligence of the American public has been underestimated. This is a good show to Europe that Americans are not as stupid as they think they are."

"You wouldn't believe the lack of traffic," said an officer of a major New York brokerage house which received only one order. "It is so minimal it isn't even funny. How many times can you rip off the U.S. public."

He said Eureopean speculators thought they were "going to let the pigeons in one more time, and they found out the Amercan public is smarter than they thought."

In Chicago, the Continental Illinois National Bank & Trust said only a handful of people showed up at the gold teller windows. There were no buyers.

There was slightly more activity on commodity exchanges where speculators order gold for immediate or future delivery in a gamble that the price will go higher by the time they take possession.

Gold opened on the New York Commodity Exchange at $189.50 an ounce. The opening price on the New York Mercantile Exchange was $195. In the first 15 minutes of trading, 168 sales were made of 2.2-pound gold bars valued at approximately $6,000 each.

On the Chicago Mercantile Exchange, 674 contracts were issued in the first 30 minutes. It was the most active opening day for any new commodity ever, the exchange said.

Trading activity actually began before dawn with lavish ceremonies. Movie stars and congressmen were among the first to buy gold, banned since the Great Depression because of hoarding.

The freedom to buy bullion was celebrated by dealers and pretty girls at the Mid-America Commodity Exchange in Chicago with a champagne party, after which $1.32 million in certificates of gold changed hands.

But in London, Zurich, Paris and Frankfurt, the world's major gold bullion trading centers, the price of gold dropped more than $5 an ounce from record-high levels.

TALL TALE TELLERS

Those Aren't Lies, Just Slightly Distorted Facts

BURLINGTON, Wis. (UPI) — Robert E. Regent of Milwaukee won the title as the world's biggest liar yesterday when he said:

"Folks think they have it tough these days. But we were so poor in our youth that our parents couldn't afford to go window shopping."

Regent was honored by the Burlington Liars Club at the group's annual worldwide competition.

Spencer Hollister of Waldo, Wis., won an honorable mention when he told the group:

"When I was a boy, it got so cold that they couldn't run the trains because the rails huddled together to keep warm."

Lowell Wolfe of Sturgis, Mich., said, "It was so hot and dry so long here in St. Joe County last summer that when it finally did rain, the local weatherman had to prime his rain gauge." He also won honorable mention.

Doone Denton of Noel, Mo., won a place on the Liars' Honor Roll with this story:

"In 1930 in the fall, I lost my dollar Ingersoll watch in the timber. The next spring I was walking in the same timber. Lo and behold, there was my watch. I checked it with my new one and it was only three minutes slow."

THE ALCOHOL STRUGGLE

Heavy Drinker Sold Herself On The Idea She Could Quit

By ERNEST MURPHY
(Eight of nine articles)

Susan, a Mill Valley homemaker and mother of three, doesn't seem like the type.

Folklore has it that alcoholics get that way from trying to escape some unbearable aspect of life, be it failure, advancing age, loneliness or boredom.

Not in Susan's case, though. Ironically, the only escaping she remembers was her decision to go away to college, mainly to get away from her drunken mother.

Booze just sort of crept up on Susan, eventually coming to dominate her whole life.

"When I lived at home I never had the urge to drink. I watched my mother drink so much, and it was so repulsive," she recalled the other day over coffee in her modest home on the slope of Mount Tamalpais.

But like many young students, Susan found her contemporaries made alcohol a major form of entertainment, and thus she drank too, at the time not noticing that she was different from the rest of her friends, whose drinking created no problems for them.

"I was always getting into trouble being drunk," she says. "At the time I didn't really notice it although it got to the point where, for instance, if I didn't have to go to class until, say, one in the afternoon, I just drank until one."

Several years and several jobs later, having settled in the Bay Area and moved in with a girl "who had one or two Manhattans before dinner every night," Susan still was unaware she might have a problem. Susan thought the aperitifs "were a marvelous idea so I joined her — only she'd have one or two and eat dinner while I'd have one or two and skip dinner, going on to three or four.

That was in the mid-1960s. Shortly afterward Susan met the man she later married.

He, too, was fond of his drinks, although he never had problems handling them. When they got married, they continued to live in the city. Neither Susan nor her husband worried about drinking because Susan was sure she could quit when she wanted to.

When she got arrested for drunken driving she didn't stop for a minute to wonder whether it just might mean something could be wrong — not Susan. "I was more concerned about having to go to court and pay a fine," she recalls.

Her husband, though, began to suspect something wasn't quite right. Both members of 25 Million Birth Control Pills Seized After Ads

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Food and Drug Administration said today it has seized 25 million birth control pills because the drug company which made them had engaged in false advertising.

The agency said the pills were seized at Lederle Laboratories' warehouse in Pearl River, N.Y., after the firm ran advertising in medical journals telling doctors that the pills were safer than other oral contraceptives.

The pills involved are called Zorane. In advertising which appeared in medical journals between February and November, the FDA said, Lederle claimed women who used the pill were less likely to suffer bad side effects such as blood clots than those who used other orands.

The agency said medical evidence does not support the claim, although it added there is nothing inherently dangerous in the tablets themselves.

An FDA spokesman said the tablets — valued at $1 million — were seized Dec. 20.

The agency complained earlier in the year about Lederle's advertising campaign and for a period the firm dropped it and ran some corrective advertising in the same journals.

But the FDA said the company later went back to the original advertising campaign, prompting it to make the seizure under charges of misbranding.

Warning Given On Burning Trees

The San Rafael Fire Department today cautioned residents not to burn their Christmas trees in their fireplaces, but instead bundle them for garbage collectors.

Fire Marshall Kenneth Mazza said Christmas trees are very combustible because of their dryness and to avoid any fire dangers they should be bundled for collection.

I-J Holiday

Observing the New Year's Day holiday, as it traditionally does, the Independent-Journal will not publish tomorrow.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Boston Contempt Deadline Set

BOSTON (UPI) — Three Boston School Committee members will be fined and stripped of their power in desegregation matters unless they vote by Jan. 7 to authorize submission of a citywide school busing plan to a federal court.

McDonough

U.S. District Court Judge W. Arthur Garrity imposed the precedent-setting sentence yesterday on the three who last week were convicted of contempt for refusing to submit an approved plan.

The penalties will begin Jan. 9 unless the contempt is "cured," Garrity said.

He ordered the three — Chairman John J. Kerrigan and members Paul Ellison and John J. McDonough — to submit statements of their financial condition to determine the amount of the fine.

IRA Concessions

BELFAST (UPI) — Britain made a series of sweeping concessions to the Irish Republican Army today and sources inside the outlawed Irish group said it would extend its holiday cease-fire for a month.

Britain said it is freeing 20 IRA prisoners from internment, giving 50 others a three-day New Year's parole and granting 100 an early release.

The IRA sources said the 11-day cease-fire, scheduled to expire at midnight Thursday, would be continued for a month as a result, with the official announcement expected from Dublin later in the day.

Britain's Northern Ireland office announced the prisoner release from Maze Prison against a backdrop of last-minute developments indicating both it and the IRA were willing to make concessions to extend the truce.

Unity Plea

MADRID (UPI) — Generalissimo Francisco Franco of Spain appealed last night for unity at home and warned of the greatest political dangers ever abroad.

In his only major policy speech of the year, the 82-year-old Caudillo also praised Spaniards for the "calmness and maturity" which they showed during his recent illness.

He said the six-week delegation of his powers to his designated successor Prince Juan Carlos proved that the succession laws worked.

"The economic crisis, accelerated by the energy crisis, is the gravest which the world has suffered in modern times," Franco said in a televised end-of-the-year speech.

Franco said the Spanish economy had withstood the pressures well so far, but called on Spaniards to avoid division.

Oral History

LINCOLN, Neb. (UPI) — A prosecution witness in a hearing on Indian treaty rights says that if the Sioux tribe's oral history of their 1868 treaty with the U.S. government were properly compiled, he would tend to give it more weight than the white man's version.

Dr. Joseph H. Cash, a University of South Dakota historian, said that if he could get complete agreements from Indians and whites on what the two versions were, "I would tend to go more with the Indians."

Pressed further by John Thorne, the chief Indian counsel, as to which version would be more accurate, Cash replied, "If the oral history were done properly, the Dakotas' (Sioux)."

Cash was the first prosecution witness in a special hearing on the 1868 treaty before U.S. District Court Judge Warren K. Urbom. The hearing is in its third week.

$12 Million Grant

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Ford Foundation today announced a $12 million grant to Resources for the Future, an independent research organization, to study issues such as land use, nuclear pollution and energy conservation.

The four-year grant nearly doubles the Ford Foundation's annual contribution to the group, from about $1.6 million to $3 million.

The organization will use the money to "take a broad approach to the interdependent problems in the environment-resources field" and to provide policy alternatives to government agencies, businesses and citizens groups, according to Ford Foundation president McGeorge Bundy.

No War Dead

SAIGON (UPI) — The year 1974 marked the first in at least 17 years that no American was killed in combat in South Vietnam. But more than 80,000 Vietnamese died, the second highest death toll in two decades, official figures showed today.

Records available in Saigon do not show the last year in which there were no American deaths in the Vietnam War. They showed that from 1957 through 1973, at least one American died in combat each year.

The last American killed in Vietnam was an Army captain slain in the Viet Cong ambush of a helicopter-borne team searching for U.S. war dead near Saigon on Dec. 15, 1973.

Stamp Cuts Due

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Agriculture Department probably will announce shortly a final order reducing food stamp benefits for the poor in spite of predicted increases in grocery prices, a source said today.

The source, who declined to be quoted by name, said the tentative decision to cut stamp benefits by at least $645 million a year probably would be made final by the end of this week. The cut was announced in late November as part of an administration plan to reduce federal spending.

Under the proposal, more than 14 million needy Americans who now pay an average of 23 per cent of net income for food stamps will have to pay 30 per cent of net income beginning March 1, 1975.

GRAY DAVIS
Executive assistant

BILL STALL
Press secretary

Brown Announces First Appointments

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov.-elect Edmund G. Brown Jr. announced the first appointments of his incoming administration yesterday, selecting young and ambitious men like himself for important jobs as executive assistant and press secretary.

Gray Davis, a Brown financial adviser and unsuccessful candidate for the Democratic nomination for state treasurer in the June primary election, was named executive assistant and a member of Brown's cabinet. He is 32.

Bill Stall, a 14-year veteran newsman for the Associated Press, was appointed to a dual position as director of public affairs and press secretary. He is 37.

The appointments officially take effect Jan. 6 upon the inauguration of the 36-year-old Brown. But Stall began work almost immediately, and Davis has been serving as interim executive secretary during the Brown transition.

All the previous appointments announced by Brown since his Nov. 5 election have been for the transition period only, his office said.

The present salary for executive secretary is $43,404 a year, and for director of public affairs $37,212. However, salary scales for the Brown administration still are to be determined.

Davis, a Los Angeles attorney and former aide to Mayor Tom Bradley, will be chief of staff to Brown, serve in the cabinet and have "overall responsibility for management of the governor's office," the prepared announcement said.

The role coincides with the No. 1 position assigned Davis during the transition.

Stall will be responsible for operation of Brown's press office, serve as a spokesman for the administration and act as "liaison between the news media and the governor," the announcement said.

Stall, a Democrat, has been chief of the Sacramento bureau of Associated Press for the last eight years, four of them as California political writer. He covered the gubernatorial campaign for the wire service.

Gas, Electricity Rates Go Up Again Tomorrow

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Gas and electricity rate increases that will add another $2.32 a month to the average residential bill were granted to Pacific Gas and Electric Co. yesterday.

A spokesman for the State Public Utilities Commission said the new rate increases were granted because of the continuing rise in the cost of natural gas and fuel oil.

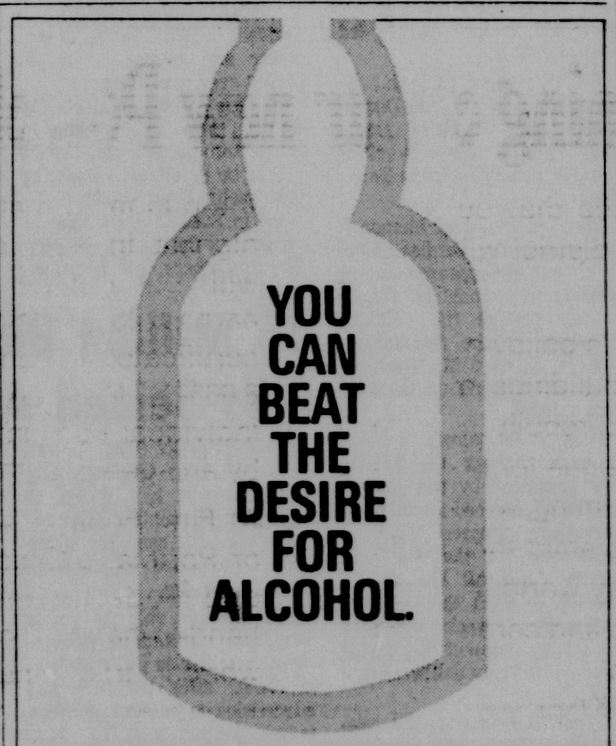

The new rate increases will mean an extra $1.79 for an average monthly consumption of 100 therms of natural gas. Average monthly use of 500 kilowatt-hours of electricity will rise 53 cents.

The rate hikes — to go into effect tomorrow — will amount to more than $210 million annually for PGE, which serves customers in Northern and Central California.

The new gas rate increase was the fourth granted to PGE during 1974. The three previous increases totaled $158 million. Two previous electricity rate increases amounted to $122 million.

Altogether, rate increases granted to PGE during 1974 by the PUC amounted to $489 million.

PGE has also requested a $233 million general rate increase to cover labor, production and building costs. That request is still being studied by the PUC staff.

Israel Sees Brezhnev Visit Cancellation As Good Sign

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Israeli government officials expressed belief today that cancellation of Soviet Communist party General Secretary Leonid I. Brezhnev's scheduled visit to the Middle East would improve American peace efforts there. The Palestine Liberation Organization disagreed and said the U.S. efforts would reach a dead end.

Communist diplomats in London admitted that the Soviets had suffered a political setback in the Mideast with cancellation of the Brezhnev visit to Egypt, Iraq and Syria but said it was not likely to damage seriously U.S. and Soviet moves toward detente.

A joint Egyptian-Soviet communique issued after the Moscow visit of Egyptian Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmi and War Minister Mohamed Gamassy stressed the continuing Soviet-Egyptian friendship and that both nations still wanted resumption of the Middle East peace talks in Geneva.

The communique said both sides agreed on the need to reconvene the Geneva peace conference with Palestinian participation. The Soviet Union has been both pushing the conference and trying to discredit the partial peace agreements worked out with the help of Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

The communique indicated that Moscow had won at least conditional Egyptian approval of its efforts to reconvene the Geneva conference —but the communique did not speak of any time limits. Usually, the Soviets talk in terms of an urgent resumption of the talks. Some Arab sources theorized the wording could mean the Soviets are willing to let Kissinger-style diplomacy have another chance despite their public hostility to it.

Israeli government sources said in Tel Aviv that Israel was more optimistic about an interim settlement with Egypt but that the next step is up to Cairo. They said "we would now expect a new Egyptian response to Israeli proposals that have been conveyed by Kissinger" to the Egyptians.

"We're encouraged about the prospects for this phase of negotiations," the source said.

Yasser Arafat, head of the PLO, disagreed and predicted the new year would be "the most dangerous and important year for the Arabs" in the Middle East and promised an all-out drive against Israel. He said the Kissinger efforts were reaching a dead end.

Fahmi and Gamassy were reporting to President Anwar Sadat tonight on outcome of their Moscow mission. Arab and Israeli sources said the Brezhnev cancellation followed Egyptian-Soviet disagreements over the direction of future peace efforts but the Cairo newspaper Al Ahram said Brezhnev was recuperating from a cold and that ill health may have been involved.

TODAY'S WORLD

"Remember when it used to be the employees who called in sick?"

$59 Billion Seen In U.S. Deficits

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A congressional study says the government will accumulate deficits totaling $59 billion in the current and next fiscal years — among the largest in history.

The Joint Economic Committee staff study is sure to stimulate opposition to the even bigger deficits that would result if Congress passes a large tax cut to combat recession.

The analysis, published yesterday, predicts:

—A $23 billion deficit this fiscal year — twice as large as the $9.2 billion deficit foreseen two months ago by the administration before it abandoned hope of imposing a surtax on middle-and high-income taxpayers.

A $36 billion deficit in fiscal 1976, the largest peacetime deficit in history and the largest deficit since 1945, the final year of World War II.

Automaker Henry Ford II, other businessmen, many economists, members of both parties in Congress and some administration policy makers are advocating a tax cut as a way to compensate inflation's victims and combat recession. Proposals for cuts range from $10 billion to $25 billion.

The committee analysis goes along with the argument for stimulation of the economy.

It says if the economy were at full employment, the deficits would turn into a $30 billion surplus in 1975.

Anything to increase that "full employment surplus" now, the report argues, "will tend to push the economy further away from its potential growth path and must therefore be regarded as a restrictive budget posture."

The study says the recession is responsible for swelling the deficits — reducing tax collections and raising outlays. It says the additional cost of helping the unemployed with jobs and benefits will reach $5.3 billion this fiscal year — twice the increase the White House estimated in November.

The study estimated fiscal 1975 outlays at $307.8 billion, not the $302.2 billion estimated by the White House. It estimated revenues at $285 billion instead of the White House projection of $293 billion. These changes account for a $22.8 billion deficit in place of the $9.2 billion foreseen by the White House.

Producers Will Hold Eggs Off The Market

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — California egg producers have decided to continue withholding 5 per cent of the state's weekly egg output from grocery shelves.

On a 9-5 vote, the industry-supported state Egg Advisory Board yesterday rejected a motion to stop diverting 10,000 cases of eggs per week—30 dozen to a case — from the retail market.

The board in November started the diversion program as a means of keeping egg prices up.

Egg producers, being squeezed financially by increasing grain and feed prices, said yesterday dropping the diversion policy could depress egg prices. They said the current market of 410,000 cases per week was in relatively good balance.

The board will meet again in about a month to further review egg production and price figures. It could change the diversion program then.

J. Frank Bennett, manager of the California Egg Program said the board action means no change in store prices for eggs. But he said a traditional drop in consumer egg prices should occur after New Year's.

Bennett said many producers sell their eggs at or below production cost levels because of high grain and feed prices.

He said Northern California producers were being paid slightly more than 50 cents per dozen for large eggs this month, but it was one of the relatively few profitable months in 1974.

"The producers' return, to date, is about two and a quarter cents per dozen below cost for the 12 months ending Dec. 31," Bennett said.

WHAT A WONDERFUL WAY TO LOSE FAT!
THE "MODEL ETTS" WAY HELPS CURB YOUR APPETITE
HELPS YOU LOSE THAT EXTRA WEIGHT
■ NO CALORIE COUNTING! ■ NO EXERCISES!
■ NO SPECIAL DIETS!

Thanks to a group of New York doctors, you can now lose pounds of ugly fat without going on any special diet, without cutting out any special foods.
HELPS REDUCE HUNGRY MOMENTS
These New York doctors discovered a food adjuvant called "MODEL ETTS."
"Model-etts" does remarkable things. It helps you cut down your caloric intake by a natural automatic curbing of the appetite and of the desire for foods, resulting automatically in a reduced intake of food.
Before "Model-etts" was offered to you, it was tested clinically by the doctors on a large group of non-glandular overweight men and women.
The doctors carefully checked results, and here is what they found:
1. Weight losses of 6 to 20 pounds without any ill effects whatsoever.
2. 98% of the men and women who used "Model-etts" lost weight.
"Model-etts" is absolutely safe. It is a food adjuvant not a drug.
So, start today to shed those unwanted pounds and inches. If your condition is glandular or organic, see your doctor. "Model-etts" may help you stay on the diet your doctor recommends. Ask him about it.
You can get a full month's supply of "Model-etts" for $3.00 on money back guarantee. In clinical tests, "Model-etts" was 96% successful. "Model-etts" may not be 100% successful in all cases, but you take no risk in trying "Model-etts" on our Money Back Guarantee.
Come to General Nutrition to get "MODEL-ETTS." The sooner you start, the sooner you may have the loss of weight you yearn for.

Sounds too good to be true, but it is true!

How Model-etts Curbs Your Appetite
In the opinion of the supervising physician, based on the average of weight losses in the clinical tests, his calculations showed that 1 Model-etts Wafer has the hunger satisfying capacity of 1 pound boiled potatoes or 4 eggs or 3 slices of white bread, yet it contains only 6 calories.

A Warning On The Constitution

By JEFF GREER

The United States Constitution really isn't a Great Rock of Gibralter that will protect its citizens against all revolutions, former Judge Samuel W. Gardiner warned some 100 San Rafael Rotary Club members yesterday.

"This is an illusion, a terrible illusion . . . there have been a thousand revolutions" wrought by the courts, the executive branch and the legislative branch of the government in almost 200 years of U.S. history, the 72-year-old Gardiner said.

But he said the Constitution's unique provisions of checks and balances have been and must be preserved, despite all the hidden, bulletless revolutions.

He called his talk "Living in the 20th Century under an 18th Century Constitution."

SAMUEL W. GARDINER
'A bulletless revolution'

One revolution he listed as "nationalization" of land by zoning, environmental quality laws, the Bay Conservation and Development Commission and . . . "a thousand other things, without compensation," he said. If Cuba or another foreign government nationalizes holdings, "we think its Godawful," Gardiner said.

Repeatedly in his talk, the former Marin Superior Court judge refused to label such constitutional changes as bad or good.

Of "land nationalization," he said, "I'm not going to cry about it." (He did not mention his own legal battles with the Marin Municipal Water District development moratorium nor his struggles to win permission to fill property in Greenbrae.)

"I'm not so sure (the constitutional changes) didn't have to happen" in light of growing population, Gardiner said.

The Constitution's interpretations can be changed almost without limit, and without the lengthy formal process of amendment, Gardiner explained.

Political parties took over the function, in effect, of the electoral college without a constitutional amendment. The executive branch sidestepped the constitutional power of the legislative branch over international treaties and war with such actions as the Gulf of Tonkin incident, and "during the last 20 years the Supreme Court appointees have been chosen because of their philosophy, not their learning," he added.

Even more sweeping changes in the constitutional walls originally erected to protect the citizens, he said are happening through "the development of rulemaking by commissions." He mentioned the Federal Reserve and National Labor Relations boards, and the Atomic Energy Commission.

"The commissions exercise more power in our daily lives than the whole of Congress," Gardiner declared.

Also, "no one has challenged the Supreme Court" interpretations of the Constitution," he said, opining that this is partly because both Congress and the executive branch have lost some of their checks-and-balances power because of public disillusionment with the two branches in recent years.

"The people of the United States wouldn't enforce the 13th and 14th Amendments, but the Supreme Court said 'We'll have to do it for them', and the Supreme Court wilfully did it," Gardiner amplified. The court "has pretty boldly engaged in some rather liberal legislation in the last 20 years," Gardiner said.

State courts also have legislated, Gardiner added. He said California justices threw out the Proposition 14 initiative passed by public vote, and the City of Carmel's so-called anti-hippie ordinance by "looking behind the wording of the ordinance" and deciding that individuals' rights would be eroded — but "they've approved some deprivation of rights in the form of coastal control."

Thus, without actually rewriting the Constitution, it can be changed, he stressed. He said the Civil War was perhaps the greatest example because it was fought "not over slavery, but over the right to secession" by any state.

The Constitution is unique because it gives the U.S. a three-branched government with its checks and balances, Gardiner repeated. Also, "it includes only the things on which the founding fathers could agree — less than 1 per cent of all the things they talked about."

Airline Rate Revisions Are Ordered

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Civil Aeronautics Board has ordered airlines to reduce ticket prices for long-distance domestic flights and increase short-haul fares to more accurately reflect the costs of the flights.

The board also said yesterday first class fares must be raised over the next 2-½ years so that the difference between first class and coach fares will be increased by up to 22 per cent. The board said coach passengers now pay an unfair share for extras which go with first class seats.

The rulings, which become effective April 29, brushed aside challenges from the airline industry.

A spokesman said the board's distance ruling was based on a finding that present fares do not accurately reflect the fact that cost per mile decreases as the length of a passenger's flight increases.

"The fare formula it prescribed will not change the overall fare level, but will moderately raise short-haul fares while moderately reducing long-haul fares," the spokesman said.

The board's action upheld an order originally issued last March 18 and subsequently challenged by the airlines. In its order yesterday, the CAB said the challenges had been found invalid.

Quake Survivors Describe Terror

PATTAN, Pakistan (UPI) — Musha Koov stepped out of the farmhouse with his two brothers to chop wood for the fireplace. "Almost before I had time to turn around the whole house collapsed," he said.

Koov and his brothers ran to the rubble and began digging, but their mother and three nephews were dead by the time the wreckage was cleared away.

Constable Miana Zar was saying evening prayers at the police station mosque. "Suddenly the whole building started shaking," he said. "The roof of the mosque caved in."

Three of Zar's fellow officers were killed in the mosque, but rescue workers managed to pull him alive from the wreckage. He had leg and chest wounds.

Officials reported at least 4,700 persons killed and more than 15,000 injured in an earthquake that rumbled Saturday night through a mountain-rimmed valley in northwestern Pakistan.

Army officers said today the figure was expected to increase as relief workers reached remote Pakistani areas still cut off by landslides.

Koov and Zar were caught by the quake in Pattan, the worst hit village in a 70-mile valley of devastation ringed by the snowy 15,000-foot-high Karakoram mountain range.

Pattan, a village in the picturesque Swat Valley 109 miles west of Rawalpindi, was left a mass of rubble. Many villagers who survived the quake were later killed by tons of boulders rolling down the mountainside.

Food Shop Limits To Be Aired

An ordinance empowering San Anselmo to limit the operating hours of local food stores will be considered by the city planning commission at 8 p.m. Monday in city hall.

The measure would limit store hours from 6 a.m. to 11 p.m. Stores wishing to remain open longer would be required to obtain a variance.

The ordinance would not apply to commercial development along Sir Francis Drake Boulevard and the Miracle Mile, according to Charles R. Leitzell, city engineer-public works director.

"The city doesn't want to prohibit (stores that operate around the clock) because of the convenience, but we do want to control their hours in case of problems," he said.

Leitzell noted the ordinance was spurred by residents who complained about 24-hour operation of the Stop 'N Go Market on San Anselmo Avenue. Among other complaints, residents contend the market attracts crowds of noisy juveniles who drink beer and leave heaps of trash in their wake.

Reagan Sets Up New Jobs Unit

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan has established a new government unit to coordinate the hiring of unemployed persons for state public service jobs under a federally financed program.

By executive order, Reagan yesterday created the Coordinated Office for Public Service Employment, which will handle the hiring under a program designed to provide temporary public service jobs for the jobless in high unemployment areas of California.

Judge To Serve Drinkers Coffee

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — District Magistrate Maurice Mysels is hoping New Year's Eve partygoers will stop at his place for "one for the road."

For the seventh straight year, Mysels is opening his courtroom in suburban Forest Hills to anyone interested in having "a sobering experience" of coffee and doughnuts before going home from a party.

As an added attraction, the magistrate said, "anyone stopped for drunken driving who is on the way to my courtroom will be pardoned."

Mysels' family will spend the early hours of the evening with him until "business picks up," he said.

Welcome to the World of First Federal...and the Grand Opening of our new Portola Branch!

We are pleased to announce that our new branch office in the Portola district will open on January 2nd, 1975.

In keeping with First Federal's policy of cherishing and preserving the buildings of past eras, we have renovated and rebuilt the little house at 2521 San Bruno Avenue for our Portola office. You will find it charming, we're sure . . . a traditional atmosphere amid the hustle and bustle of the modern-day world. A place where the business of saving and earning can be conducted among friends.

Keep in mind that your savings will earn the highest interest allowed by law — starting with our regular passbook account, which earns 5.25% (yielding 5.39%), on up to our certificate accounts, earning 7.75% (yielding 8.06%*), for a six-year certificate. And now, individual accounts are insured to $40,000.00 by an agency of the federal government.

At First Federal, whether it be in San Rafael or Portola, old-fashioned traditional service, and modern computerized techniques go hand-in-hand . . . offering you the best of both worlds—traditional and modern.

* Federal regulations require a substantial interest penalty for early withdrawal.

ADDICTION'S SHADOW — An alcoholic, her life of little more substance than this distorted image on a sidewalk, resorts once more to the bottle. This is the way it was, says Susan, recalling that not even pregnancy could halt her uncontrollable resort to alcohol.

THE ALCOHOL STRUGGLE

Drinker Convinced Of Ability To Quit

the family worked at this time, and he tried to end their before-dinner drinking.

"I got furious when I'd come home and he wouldn't have cocktails ready for us," Susan says. "I got so irritated that he wouldn't have a drink with me that I started drinking before I got home."

After a while, Susan decided booze would be nice after dinner, too, so she developed another tactic in what had by this time become a constant battle with her husband. "I'd outsit him — just by staying up until he went to bed. Then I'd drink by myself, sometimes passing out on the couch. Finally one night I fell asleep with a cigarette and there was a fire."

Even then Susan didn't believe she had a drinking problem; her problem was a nagging husband. Eventually, she even had him half-convinced that he was the problem.

In 1967, Susan quit working during her first pregnancy. Now she found herself bored in her apartment much of the time and her drinking took an upsurge. Slowly her health deteriorated, and a couple weeks after her daughter was born she went to her doctor, complaining she was "run down."

The doctor, she remembers, "caught me off guard. He completely rejected my self-diagnosis of post partum depression and at the end told me that what he'd like me to do is go home and not have a drink for two weeks. Of course, I went home and kept drinking."

The birth of Susan's first child provided no respite. In fact, the child became one more person to blame for the drinking.

Soon after the child was born the family invested its savings in the Mill Valley home, and again Susan expected she'd be allright once she got out in the country where she could garden. Again she found herself drinking more than before. "This time it got so bad she had to give up her part-time job.

That was when her husband panicked. He frantically called the family doctor, who told him nothing could be done unless Susan admitted she had a problem. And she wasn't ready for that yet.

Susan became pregnant again, and this time she nursed her unborn infant along with massive doses of booze. For the four months before the child's birth she hardly ate a thing, such was her fixation on liquor.

Susan felt labor pains one morning, some two months before she was supposed to, and went to the hospital — after a few quick snorts.

The child weighed four pounds when it was born, and it never occurred to Susan that her addiction may have harmed it.

Her belief that she had no problem because she thought she could stop drinking when she wanted disappeared shortly afterward when she tried going without liquor several days. She felt the pains of withdrawal in her stomach, and to her horror found out she couldn't stop.

Susan remembers the experience as agony, physical in that it wracked her body and emotional in that she resorted again to liquor, realizing that she was capable of functioning only after drinking and then not very well at that.

Her husband several times took her to an alcoholic hospital in San Mateo County, where Susan was given gradually decreasing doses of alcohol over a seven-day period. After being weaned down to nothing, she was sent home. Sometimes she'd stay sober two weeks, although she still made excuses for herself and slipped back into her habit.

Her husband dragged her to AA meetings, where she distinguished herself by being the first one out the door after each session.

Susan's recovery began one of the times her husband took her to the hospital after a binge.

This time, unlike before, Susan was not in her usual tranquilized stupor during the drying out process. She was conscious, and she felt the horror of not getting enough booze to satisfy her habit.

Although she didn't suffer delirum tremens, Susan didn't sleep much during the drying out. The hours between her prescribed doses of alcohol seemed like years, and on top of that she was depressed because she was a mess and she was locked up in a hospital during Christmas.

"I weighed 92 pounds," she said. "The doctor told me my face was gray and he said I'd never last more than four or five more months unless I quit."

The whole drying-out experience was so awful Susan decided she could never bear to go through it again — and that was a crucial realization. For the first time she went to an AA meeting of her own free will.

"They told me that they can't stop me from drinking but they can help me from starting again."

"Two weeks went by, then three, then a whole month without a drink.

"I never believed I could feel so good, so — human!"

That was four years ago.

Today Susan is a trim, very attractive woman, an attentive mother and seemingly no different than her neighbors.

She still goes to several AA meetings a week, and she feels they help her because they confront her with people whose lives are utter hell, as her own once was.

"All I gave up," she says now, "was misery, crying, depression and the loss of my self-respect."

She hopes her children weren't scarred badly by the experience of living with a drunk.

"My older daughter had it the worst for a while, and it showed. She was a nail biter and she was uptight, I guess, because there was a lot of hollering and screaming going on around her."

Plea Slated In Attack On Coed

I-J Special Report

OROVILLE — Michael Edward Martin, 18, of Novato, is scheduled to enter a plea on Jan. 8 in Butte County Superior Court to an accusation that he took part in a November sexual attack on an 18-year-old Chico State University coed.

Martin, a freshman at Chico State, and five others were indicted by a county grand jury on Dec. 19, arising from the attack during a fraternity party on Nov. 14. Martin was charged in six of the 12 indictments, which included rape and attempted sex perversion.

Others indicted were Edward Bellegarde Jr., 22, of Lafayette; Scott Tachiera, 20, of San Leandro; Charles F. Pigeon, 22, no address, all Chico State students, and Dave M. Brazell, 18, and Kelly J. Lyon, no age, and also no addresses.

All buy Lyon, who has not been located, were arraigned in superior court Dec. 23. Bellegarde was freed on a $5,000 bail. The others were released on their own recognizance.

The incident occurred at a Lambda Pi fraternity house party. All four of the Chico State students were suspended.

Solar Heated Houses Planned

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI) — The state of Connecticut is modifying a planned 40-unit development that will make it the nation's first solar-heated housing project.

Community Affairs Commissioner Susan H. Bennett said yesterday the use of solar energy will reduce dependency on costly fossil fuels.

"Conservation of our natural resources will lower the cost of utilities for the tenant," she said. "The age of solar energy has arrived."

Most of the increase in rent for the elderly from $30 to $70 a month has been attributed to soaring utility and fuel costs.

The project will be located in Hamden, Conn.

Caterer Loses Beating Suit

A Sausalito caterer who sued Marin County for $5.5 million over a beating he allegedly suffered last year in the county jail will collect nothing, a jury decided yesterday.

The eight-member panel in the courtroom of Superior Court Judge Henry J. Broderick decided against Gordon L. Johnson Jr., 39, following four days of trial.

Johnson filed the lawsuit last August, claiming two sheriff's deputies, Steven Spaelti and Wayne Woodside, forbade him to make a telephone call, then beat him.

He claimed the beating occurred in May 1973 after he was arrested on suspicion of drunken driving.

Foundation Dissolved

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — U.S. Ambassador Leonard K. Firestone, the president of the Richard Nixon Foundation, announced today that the trustees of the foundation have decided to dissolve it and turn its assets over to Whittier College.

Former President Nixon was graduated from the Southern California college in 1934.

"The foundation had not solicited donations other than from its trustees, so that no substantial funds are involved in the transfers," Firestone said.

Glen Ellen Man Hurt In Crash

A 28-year-old Glen Ellen man was hurt last night in a traffic mishap on the Lakeville Highway several hundred yards east of Casa Grande Road in Petaluma.

Donald B. Lumpkins was reported in good condition at Hillcrest Hospital today, where he was under treatment for head wounds sustained at about 9 p.m. when his southbound car collided with a vehicle driven by Robert A. Miller, 37, of McKinleyville. Damage to the Lumpkins car was major. The Miller car was moderately damaged.

Prison Hospital Hostages Freed

WALLA WALLA, Wash. (UPI) — Riot-trained guards stormed a state prison hospital last night and freed eight hostages held by two convicts who had armed themselves with scissors and tossed free drugs to other inmates.

Five guards taken hostage in another section of the prison were freed through negotiations after the hospital ward was retaken by officers who smashed through a window.

Two women — a nurse and a dental technician — each were stabbed in the arm by the inmates and two technicians were cut by flying glass.

$12,000 Robbery At Novato Home

Jewelry, sterling silver and other items valued at about $12,000, were taken from the home of Harold J. Leeds at 84 Carnoustie Drive, Novato, between 10:30 p.m. yesterday and 2 a.m. today, according to city police.

Officers said someone ransacked all rooms in the home while the Leeds were out and was selective in taking expensive items. A complete list of stolen items was to be submitted to police today.

OBITUARIES

Domenic Magliulo, San Rafael

Domenic Magliulo, a San Rafael resident and San Francisco restaurateur, died yesterday at a local hospital following a heart attack. He was 53.

Magliulo was born and grew up in San Francisco, but moved to 170 Alpine Street 19 years ago.

He and his brother, Louis A. Magliulo of Novato, have owned a restaurant on the same site in San Francisco for 25 years. Its name was changed 12 years ago from Lou and Don's to the Crow's Nest following a remodeling.

Magliulo was a member of the Salesian Club of San Francisco.

He is survived by his wife, Josephine; two sons, Wayne Magliulo of Novato and Martin Magliulo of San Rafael; a sister, Jeanette Magliulo of San Rafael; and another brother, James R. Magliulo of San Rafael.

Mass of the Christian Burial will be celebrated Thursday at 11 a.m. at St. Peter and St. Paul Church, 666 Filbert Street, San Francisco. Entombment will be at Mount Tamalpais Cemetery, San Rafael.

The family prefers donations to the American Heart Association.

MARY CURRY

Mary S. Curry, 67, of Mill Valley died Sunday in a local hospital after a lengthy illness. No service is planned.

Mrs. Curry, a resident of Marin County for 10 years, is survived by a daughter, Joyce Curry of Mill Valley; two sisters, Vera McBain and Margaret Maitland, both of Berkshire, England, and a brother, Edward B. McBain, of Malaga, Spain.

Prior to moving to Marin County, she had made her home in England, China and New York. She was the wife of the late Roland A. Curry, an architect.

EDWARD CHAPPELLE

Funeral was yesterday for Edward Chappelle of Petaluma, who died early Saturday after an auto crash on Highway 101. He was 26.

The lifelong resident of Southern Sonoma County lived at 24 Bodega Avenue, and was a cabinetmaker. Chappelle, a graduate of Petaluma High School, served with the Army in Vietnam.

He is survived by his wife, Corlis Chappelle of Petaluma; a son, David, and a daughter, Dorothy, both of Petaluma; his parents, Margaret Olson and William E. Chappelle, both of Petaluma; two sisters, Sandra Mulford and Susie Chappelle, both of Petaluma; and three brothers, Dennis Chappelle of Okinawa, and Paul and Ronald Chappelle, both of Petaluma.

Inurnment was private at Cypress Hill Memorial Park, Petaluma.

ESTHER CROSBY

Survivors of Esther E. Crosby of Novato, who died Saturday after a brief illness, include her husband, Isaiah Crosby of Novato; her son, Isaiah Crosby III of New Hampshire, as well as two daughters, Barbara McQueen of Novato and Virginia Mair of Huntington Beach; a sister, Alice Pedersen of Novato, and 13 grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

In yesterday's obituary column, Mrs. Crosby's son was omitted and her husband listed incorrectly as living in New Hampshire, because of incorrect information supplied by a mortuary.

JOE DeFINO

Funeral for Joe DeFino, 63, former Independent-Journal newspaper dealer in Novato, was yesterday in Youngstown, Ariz.

DeFino, who moved to Sun City, Ariz., last year from Novato, died Friday after a lengthy illness. Prior to moving to Arizona, he had been associated with the I-J for 10 years. He was a native of Des Moines, Iowa.

Survivors are his wife, Anne, of Sun City; a daughter, Joan McGuire of Placerville; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dominic DeFino; two sisters, Clara Cimino and Jenny Reed, and two brothers, Frank and Anthony DeFino, all of Des Moines, and two grandchildren.

MABEL JACKS

Mabel L. Jacks of Novato, a 40-year Marin resident, died yesterday in a local convalescent hospital after a long illness.

She was a native of Nebraska and had lived in California 50 years.

Mrs. Jacks was a homemaker. Her husband, French Jacks, died six years ago.

She is survived by a son, Hugh J. Jacks of Ross; a brother, Raymond Young of Nebraska and Texas; two grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

A memorial service will be at 11 a.m. Thursday at Keaton's Chapel of Marin in Novato. Inurnment will be in Mount Tamalpais Cemetery.

The family prefers memorial contributions to the American Heart Association.

IRVIN C. FLECKELSTEIN

Masonic funeral service was held Friday for Irvin G. Fleckelstein of Sonoma, a Greyhound Bus Lines Driver for 29 years prior to his retirement.

Fleckelstein died Tuesday in Sonoma following a brief illness. He was 59.

Fleckelstein is survived by his wife, Patricia Fleckelstein of the home; a daughter, Patricia Cabella of Greenbrae; a son, Richard Fleckelstein of Petaluma, 12 grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

He was born in Mad River, Trinity County. He was a 32nd degree Mason, a member of Redwood Shrine No. 102 of San Rafael.

Cremation was in the Chapel of the Chimes, Santa Rosa. The family prefers memorial contributions to the Shriners Hospital for Crippled Children, San Francisco.

MARGARET WALLSTEN

A Mass of the Christian Burial for Margaret Mary Wallsten of Terra Linda will be held at 10 a.m. Thursday at the Nazareth House, 245 Nova Albion Way.

Mrs. Wallsten, 79, died yesterday at the retirement residence after a brief illness.

She was born and reared in Berkeley and spent most of her adult life in San Francisco and Daly City before moving to Marin 10 months ago.

Mrs. Wallsten was a homemaker and a member of Our Lady of Mercy Catholic Church in Daly City. Her late husband, James A. Wallsten, who died in 1968, was an officer for the Del Monte Foods Corp.

Mrs. Wallsten is survived by a son, James A. Wallsten of San Francisco; three daughters, Jane B. Klick of Tempe, Ariz.; Barbara R. Jindra of Thousand Oaks, Ventura County, and Margaret Formichi of San Anselmo; 23 grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

Rosary will be recited at 7 p.m. tomorrow at Nazareth House.

Burial will be in Golden Gate National Cemetery.

The family prefers memorial contributions to the Nazareth House.

BEATRICE CABRAL

Beatrice C. Cabral, a former resident of Novato, died yesterday at a Santa Rosa hospital after a long illness.

Mrs. Cabral, 78, of 2615 Stony Point Road, Santa Rosa, was the widow of Manuel J. Cabral, a retired dairy rancher. She was a homemaker.

Mrs. Cabral was a native of the Azores Islands. She had been a resident of Santa Rosa for five years and previously lived in Novato four years. She had been a resident of California for 19 years.

Surviving are six daughters, Helen Rodriguez of Novato, Alda Mattos of Santa Rosa, Maria L. Nacimento and Maria Edwards Sarmento, both of Canada, Marie Galego of Sebastopol and Esmarelda Lopez of Hayward; three sons, Leonard Cabral of Petaluma and Fernando J. and Sebastian J. Cabral, both of Canada; three sisters, Blandina Amaro of Canada and two sisters in the Azores Islands; three brothers in the Azores Islands, 33 grandchildren and 17 great-grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements were pending today at the Redwood Chapel Funeral Home, Novato.

ABEL COSTA

Abel Mario Costa Jr., retired owner of a cleaning and laundry business in Mill Valley, died yesterday at a local hospital after a long illness.

Costa, 69, was a native of Mill Valley and a lifelong resident of Marin. He lived at 111 Locust Avenue, Mill Valley. He was a member of Local 1429, International Brotherhood of Teamsters.

Surviving is a sister, Marie C. Filippi of Mill Valley.

Funeral arrangements are pending at Keaton's Chapel of Marin, 1801 Novato Boulevard, Novato.

MARRIAGE LICENSES ISSUED

Denny B. Umphreys, 23, and Gail L. Scozzafava, 24, both of San Rafael.

Joel W. Bortfeld, 26, of Greenbrae, and Martha I. Cery, 27, of San Anselmo.

SUSPECT — Anthony Barbaro, 17, a suspect in the slaying of three persons in Olean, N.Y. yesterday is shown in a picture taken a year ago of the Olean High School rifle team of which he was a member. (UPI Telephoto)

High School Rifle Star Held In Killings

OLEAN, N.Y. (UPI) — A high school rifle team star firing at random from the window of a third-floor schoolroom killed three passersby and wounded ll others yesterday police said. Officers subdued him with a teargas grenade to end the 90-minute spree.

Police arrested Anthony Barbaro, 17, of Olean, a senior, an "A" student at the school who had just won a college scholarship, and an expert rifleman. He was examined at a hospital and then jailed.

Rifle fire crackled for 90 minutes from the school in this rural town 55 miles southeast of Buffalo, N.Y. The dead included a gas company worker, a janitor and a 25-year-old woman driving by the school in her car. The woman's 12-year-old brother was wounded.

Authorities said there was no apparent motive for the shooting, and teachers and relatives of Barbaro were stunned that he had been accused.

The gunfire began shortly after 3:05 p.m. when someone summoned firemen to the school, which was closed for the holidays. The sniper shot at the firemen, and eight of them were injured, including some cut by flying glass.

About 50 local and state police were called to the scene. A National Guard armored personnel carrier was used as a shield to get the two wounded persons out of the street.

Officials said Barbaro's ammunition included hollow-nosed bullets, which shatter on impact. Fragments caused shrapnel wounds in several of the victims.

OFFERS A DINNER AS PEACEMAKER

Assemblyman Michael Wornum — with an apology to the Sausalito City Council for standing it up Dec. 17 — has invited the five councilmen to dinner as a peace offering.

Council members had written him complaining that they had spent an hour sitting around their council chambers waiting to meet with their assemblyman who never showed up. He explained in his letter of invitation that under the pressure of events he forgot the meeting.

"He owes me a dinner for the one I missed tonight," Councilman Robin Sweeny remarked at the time.

The entire council will get their dinner, probably in January, Mrs. Sweeny said today.

Toronto School Wins In Chess Competition

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The Pan American Intercollegiate Chess Championship has been won by a team from the University of Toronto.

Toronto took the victory yesterday with a score of 7½ of 8 possible points.

Participating in the tournament were 89 teams and 378 players from 29 states and Canada.

The University of Chicago and Harvard University tied for second and third.

Tied for fourth through seventh were the University of Nebraska, the University of California at Berkeley, Purdue and Dartmouth.

Tied for eighth through tenth were the City College of New York, Ohio State and Case Western.

Toronto earned $700 and a trophy for winning the championship. Toronto also is recognized as the Canadian champion. The University of Chicago is the U.S. collegiate champion.

Wornum Eyes A Tax For Transit

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

A new tax on motor vehicles to subsidize local transit was proposed yesterday by Assemblyman Michael Wornum, D-Corte Madera.

The annual tax would replace property taxation for transit, and could be imposed only with voter approval, the assemblyman said.

A "sliding scale" would penalize owners of big cars that gulp gasoline, hitting hardest at newer ones so that persons who bought theirs years ago would not suffer unfairly, Wornum explained.

He predicted voters would approve such a tax "if they are serious about transit."

Wornum proposed the additional tax in an interview about his first legislative program. Other bills he will have drafted include measures to expand Marin's representation on the Golden Gate Bridge District board of directors, tax luxury retirement residences and relax earthquake safety requirements for part-time educational facilities.

The former county supervisor, elected last month, stressed he will go slow in introducing bills. "I don't want to jump in too soon; I've got to see my way around first," he said.

Asked what he will do when the two-year legislative session reconvenes Monday, Wornum responded that "survival is the first instinct."

As for his proposed tax on vehicles, he said, "I'll introduce it if no one else does."

Such a measure, Wornum said, would cut gasoline use, pollution and balance of payments problems, while at the same time providing money needed for transit. With such a vehicle tax, he argued, Marin's transit district would not need the 20-cent property tax hike it has on the March 4 ballot. The district's taxing now is limited to five cents per $100 assessed valuation.

ASSEMBLYMAN MICHAEL WORNUM
Urges new tax

Wornum suggested that the tax be based on a formula that multiplies horsepower times vehicle weight.

Tackling the county's representation on the bridge board, he conceded, may get nowhere. San Francisco legislators will object to any move to dilute their city's hold on half the 18 directorships, and Sen. Randolph Collier, D-Yreka, would protest any cut in the number from Northern California, Wornum said.

Collier is chairman of the Senate Transportation Committee, which presumably would handle such a bill in the upper house. The San Francisco delegation in Sacramento includes Assembly Speaker Leo T. McCarthy and the chairman of the Assembly Ways and Means Committee, John F. Foran — both law partners of the past president of the bridge board, Stephan C. Leonoudakis of San Francisco.

Marin ideally should have more than half the board seats, Wornum said, adding that aiming at such a change is "like the charge of the Light Brigade." Marinites supply more than half the district's revenue, thus should have more than three of the seats, he argued.

Another transit bill he said he will seek would permit the county's transit district to handle school transportation as well as other local transit services.

On the issue of property taxation of luxury retirement residences, Wornum said their tax exemption should be limited, not total as at present. He said such a bill would "get the Tamalpais back on the tax rolls," but he did not explain how this could be done. The high-rise retirement residence is in Larkspur and under agreement with the city makes annual payments equivalent to property tax.

The problem of earthquake safety has cropped up at classes held by Santa Rosa Junior College throughout Sonoma County. State law requires that buildings in which the classes meet conform to the state's earthquake safety code, a requirement that threatens to halt many of the classes because there are not enough buildings available to meet the code, Wornum said.

His bill will require that such part-time class buildings meet only local codes, he said.

The only bill he has coauthored so far (AB 155) would require an election to fill vacancies on county boards of supervisors when an unexpired term has more than six months to run. Wornum's supervisorial seat was filled by an appointee of the governor since current law does not allow an election.

As a member of the Joint Committee on Coastal Resources, Wornum said, he will be deeply involved in the future of coastal regulation. The current coastal commissions will present a long-range plan to the 1976 Legislature, and go out of business unless the Legislature renews their life.

Wornum said he favors permanent continuation of coastal controls similar to those imposed by the present commissions, but commented that the state commission "is going to have to modify its stringency." Terming its present strong conservationist attitude as "the West Marin syndrome," the assemblyman said the state commission "must balance coastal access and environmental concerns."

He said the coastal plan should become a model for a statewide land use plan, but was uncertain about which level of government would have the final say over local land use decisions.

Gold is now available at the bank that began with the Gold Rush.

If ever a firm was founded on gold, it's Wells Fargo. We were born during the Gold Rush, served as the miners' express company, postal service, assayer and bank, and shipped more gold East than anybody else.

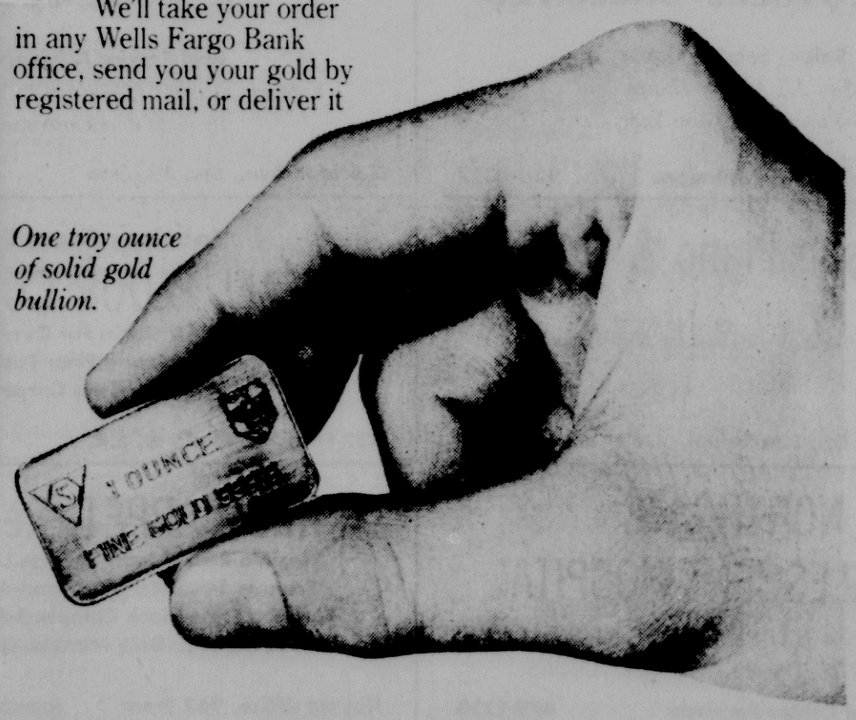

In the early 1900's Wells Fargo carried the world's largest gold brick (218 lbs.) from Dawson (Y.T.) to Selby, Calif.

Now, gold is available from Wells Fargo again. Solid gold bullion bars in denominations of 1,5,10 or more ounces, sold at the market rate plus a commission of 8% and tax. However, before purchasing you should consider that an investment in gold, which is a commodity, provides no interest to the investor, who must depend on price appreciation to provide any yield.

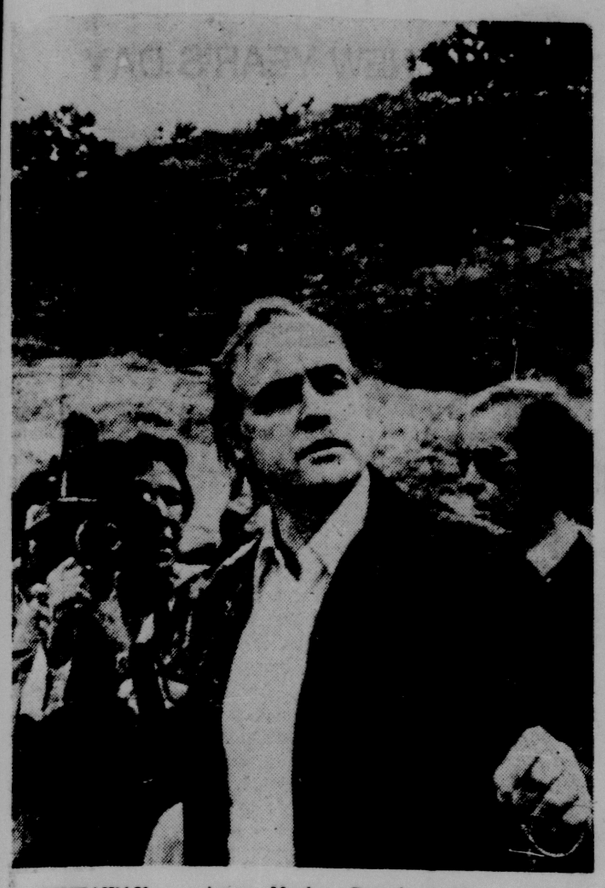

We'll take your order in any Wells Fargo Bank office, send you your gold by registered mail, or deliver it to you personally at that office. We can even safeguard your gold for you. You can rent a safe deposit box at a Wells Fargo office, or receive a certificate of ownership and let us keep your gold for safe keeping in our central vault. You'll be trusting your gold to the same firm that the miners trusted with theirs.

Your nearest Wells Fargo Bank has all the information about how to order and buy gold from Wells Fargo.

One troy ounce of solid gold bullion.

GIVEAWAY — Actor Marlon Brando holds a news conference on the 40-acres tract of land which he turned over yesterday to Hank Adams, head of Survival of American Indians Assn. The ceremony took place on the site, near U.S. 101 in the vicinity of Agoura. (UPI Telephoto)

Brando Gives Plot Of Land To Indians

AGOURA (UPI) — To the beat of a medicine man's tom-tom, actor Marlon Brando gave a $112,000 plot of land yesterday to an Indian group. He called on the U.S. people and government to join him in returning at least part of America to the Indians.

Brando, accompanied by U.S. Sen. John Tunney, D-Calif., formally turned over a quitclaim deed to 40 acres of rolling, brush-covered land to the Survival of American Indians Association of Washington, D.C.

Brando was an hour late because he had trouble finding the site.

He said he felt that in giving away all his own land in the United States "I will acquire the credentials by which I can ask other Americans, and the government, to join me."

Brando said that at a later date he will turn over his $110,000 Los Angeles mansion, an apartment complex he owns in Anaheim, and his onethird interest in a farm near Mundelein, Ill.

He is co-owner of the farm with his sister, Mrs. Francis B. Loving, whose first reaction was "over my dead body — we are not giving this land away."

Mrs. Loving yesterday confirmed she said that, but added the statement "wasn't serious. My brother owns a third of this farm and he is free to do whatever he wants with it... I'm 100 per cent behind what he's doing."

Brando said he had spoken to his sister after her reaction appeared in news reports, and there is no disagreement between them.

She said the land will not be given away "today or anything...so we'll see what he does."

A band of Chumash Indians greeted Brando's arrival with a ceremonial welcome chant. A medicine man blessed the land and pounded the drum as Brando handed the deed to Hank Adams, an official of the Indian group.

The land is located in northwestern Los Angeles county, near U.S. 101, in a semirural area into which suburban housing developments are pushing. The county assessor's office said the Indian group will owe the $3,900 a year property tax.

Medicine man Semu Huaute said a band of Redwind Indians from the San Luis Obispo region will plant a tree on the site in about 15 days to mark a new era in Indian-white relations, hold a feast, and consider plans to establish a village there.

Asked where he will live after he gives all his U.S. property away, Brando said "I'll ask the Indians if there isn't some portion of the earth for me to stay."

Brando also owns an island in Tahiti, where he lives several months of the year.

'Amarcord,' Fellini Win Film Honors

NEW YORK (UPI) — The film "Amarcord" was named Best Picture of 1974 yesterday by the New York Film Critics Circle. Federico Fellini, who directed "Amarcord," was named Best Director of the Year.

The 31 members of the society, voting by secret ballots, also chose Ingmar Bergman's "Scenes from a Marriage" as the best screen play.

The critics voted these other awards:

Jack Nicholson as Best Actor. Nicholson was in a first place tie with himself for his performances in both "The Last Detail" and "Chinatown."

Liv Ullmann as Best Actress for her performance in "Scene from a Marriage."

Charles Boyer as Best Supporting Actor for his role in "Stavisky."

Valerie Perrine as Best Supporting Actress for "Lenny."

The awards will be presented Jan. 26.

Prison Unrest Cancels Annual New Year's Show

The annual New Year's Day show for San Quentin inmates, which would have featured a wide variety of entertainers, including Joan Baez, will not be held tomorrow because of a general lock-up at the prison, officials said today.

This was the second year in a row that the event has been cancelled because of unrest at the institution, according to William D. Nyberg, public information officer.

Entertainment for the show had been arranged by Bread and Roses, a Mill Valley-based operation which provides entertainers for various types of institutions.

In addition to Miss Baez, those scheduled to appear included such rock groups as Boz Scaggs, Caledonia Express and Congress of Wonders, along with Jon Hendricks, Dan Hicks, Hoyt Axton Mimi Farina and Terry McGovern.

The lock-up at the prison was ordered before Christmas after two inmates died and three others were wounded in stabbings apparently involving enmity between black and Chicano convicts.

On the day after Christmas, when the annual holiday dinner was served, another inmate was seriously wounded in an attack by one or more convicts. John T. Cailfy, 26, remained on the critical list today at Marin General Hospital, Nyberg said.

Nyberg said the prison was quiet today but there was still an air of unrest among the men confined there.

Visiting will be allowed tomorrow, though, he said, and the general lockdown situation will be reviewed again later this week.

Making Doll Houses Out Of A Book

PLAYING HOUSE — Kristin Helberg of Nicasio places a paper stool in the living room of her doll house book. The book transforms into a Victorian home when the front and back cover are pulled together and the three remaining pages spread in the form of a cross. The furniture is cut from sheets which accompany the book.

(Photos by Bob Hax)

By JOAN LISETOR

Kristin Helberg was searching for a project that could be mass produced yet still have a fantasy appeal when she hit on the idea of a doll house book.

The Nicasio woman has for several years made wooden doll houses, which sell for between $150 and $250.

"Most of my handmade doll houses were sold to toy collecters wnd adults for themselves. Only a few were bought for children — if parents could see that it was a toy that would last two or three generations," she said.

She tried to remember things she loved as a child, she said.

"I had a pop-up doll house about 20 years ago, and I would lie on a rug with it and stare into it for hours imagining the things that were going on inside of the house," she said.

SHE DECIDED to concentrate on the Victorian era because of its romantic charm and also because some children have grandparents or great-grandparents who have memories of the era to share.

She holed up with books on Victorian furniture to get the feeling of what things were like at the turn of the century.

The result is a book which transforms into a Victorian home when the front and back cover, stood on end, are pulled together and the three remaining pages spread in the form of a cross.

THE BOOK COMES with sheets of furniture to be cut out and assembled, and the sheet of instructions suggests painting and decorating each room.

She decided to publish and distribute the book herself, rather than take it to a publisher.

"If you want to do something, just do it yourself. You'll find the money. First, prove it sells; then you can sell it to a big company. You have no power if you come in off the street. It's almost as if you were begging them, rather than showing something that will sell and make them money," she said.

The book was printed in May, and she took it set up to stores, where she found much interest. The average retail price of the book is $6.50 and nearly 2,500 have sold to date. Christmas business was brisk.

MISS HELBERG runs the book business from the upstairs of her home, and has a wood shop downstairs, where she continues to make wooden doll houses.

As a child growing up in Pennsylvania, she recalled, she and her two brothers and two sisters were always working on an art project, inspired by their mother, an elementary school teacher and painter. They were constantly making murals on rolls of paper taped to the walls of their rooms, she said.

"In school, art was terrible," she said. "They would do something like pass out a mimeographed sheet that told how to make a bunny. My mother 'untaught' us at home."

FOLLOWING GRADUATION she wanted to study art, but her mother recommended studying for a profession, so she enrolled as a journalism student at Boston University.

After two years she was "bored with school and with memorizing stuff." She had brief careers as a reporter, bookkeeper, secretary and dress designer, then took off for Amsterdam, where she studied art. She traveled in Europe, came back to the dress company, then went back to Europe for a spell.

THREE YEARS AGO she decided to settle in California and set up a dress studio. Then one day two little children came to visit. Each had with them little stuffed animals they loved and so she decided to make beds out of small logs for the animals.

She enjoyed this so much that she decided to pursue the toy making. The log beds were used in display in 1973 in the downtown San Francisco Macy's windows, and this year she and a friend who makes "Wind in the Willows" character dolls did the designs for the store's Christmas windows.

"There have been times when I've worried how I was going to pay the binder and the printer. But I have learned, and I don't lie awake nights worrying, because the orders come," she said.

"I DON'T MEAN to make it sound so easy because I have to do a lot of promoting. I hope to get to the point where the books can support me, and I can make toys by hand the way I want."

Miss Helberg will teach a class, "Miniature Houses and Furniture," beginning Jan. 13 at the Marin Young Women's Christian Association. She hopes to teach children to make their own doll houses, but without too many rules, which she believes can ruin a child's sense of imagination and take away the excitement of playing.

WALLS IN PLACE — Kristin Helberg builds doll houses as houses are actually built — in sections and with facades, which are glued together. Holding up the facades, she is shown figuring for the baseboards.

Whittle Yourself A Whimmy Diddle

It's a rare Christmas gift that maintains its appeal past Dec. 26.

The truly memorable gift might include two tickets for a Caribbean cruise, the keys to a brand new Maserati (with racing stripe) — or a whimmy diddle.

Thirteen-year-old Ramona Thurman of Greenbrae whittled a whimmy diddle for her friend Pam Armstrong as a Christmas gift — and the simple wooden toy has been keeping children and adults in their Greenbrae neighborhood busy ever since.

Busy — and infuriated.

The toy, a notched stick with propeller in one end plus a second stick to rub it with, works only for those who hold it just right — and even when it works, no one understands why.

The whimmy diddle probably originated in the eastern mountains of the United States, according to the book "How to Make Whirligigs and Whimmy Diddles and Other American Folkcraft Objects," a book by Florence H. Pettit.

It is operated by rubbing the notches of the first stick with the second stick, causing the propeller (if you're skillful) to rotate. When the propeller is in mid-whirl, an adept whimmy-diddler can change his hand position slightly, bring the propeller to an abrupt halt and start it whirling in the opposite direction.

It's enough to drive men mad.

Although friends have since told her they have seen commercial copies of the whimmy diddle, Ramona had learned about the toy from her sixth grade teacher of two years ago, Peter Wronsky of Anthony G. Bacich School in Greenbrae. Wronsky's wife, Marilyn, a school librarian but a crafts addict on the side, had made one, following directions in Mrs. Pettit's book.

Ramona was so intrigued she decided to make one herself. If took her three days.

She used fruit wood — trimmings from the Wronskys' apple tree in Corte Madera. With jackknife she stripped bark and twigs from two slender eight-inch pieces, selecting a third piece about an inch and a half long for a propeller. She tried to follow the book's directions to "measure in 2¼ inches from the . . . end of (one) long stick and mark every 3/16 inch, making seven marks. Use these marks for the center of seven V notches in an absolutely straight row along the stick," but she says "mine aren't absolutely straight."

She shaped the small twig into a propeller and inserted it into the end of the notched stick with an upholstery nail.

And it was ready to go — for some people.

Ramona can do it. Pam, after days of practice, can do it. Many a child can't. Many grown men and women are trying. The scraping sound of wood on wood can be heard day and night in the neighborhood to the accompaniment of exasperated cries or yelps of triumph.

It's all in how you hold your hands.

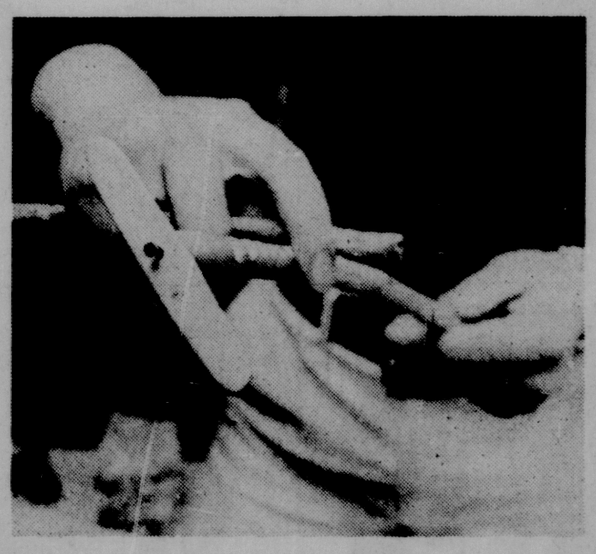

As the book says, "Let everybody try it. Probably no one will be able to figure out the secret unless you decide how to explain how it works. Some people never quite get the knack of it, and nobody knows why. With the very same sticks, the gadget will work perfectly for one person, but not for the next."

But even after instructions in how to hold the gadget, even after the propeller obligingly begins to whirl, the mystery remains about WHY it works.

"It's the vibrations," said Ramona.

To which the universal reply seems to be:

"Oh."

THE WHIMMY DIDDLE — Ramona Thurman holds the whimmy diddle just so as she prepares to rub second stick across notches, activating simple propeller.

THERE SHE GOES — Ramona gets the whimmy diddle working as Pam Armstrong and Ramona's sister Maura watch in admiration.

Wax Sculpture Class Offered

Wax sculpture and antique appreciation are two of the classes to be offered in January by the Marin Jewish Community Center.

Susan Rothstein will teach using wax to sculpture figures, faces, heads and abstracts beginning Jan. 7 at the center. Ms. Rothstein, a sculptor who has worked with wax for over 10 years, will stress its various textures, designs and finishes.

Two antique courses at the center will be led by John Doughty, publisher of the "Antique Bulletin," beginning Jan. 6 and Jan. 8.

Antiques I on Monday mornings will trace the history of interior design from the 16th to 18th centuries and the process of differentiating between genuine and fake period pieces.

Antiques II on Wednesday mornings will focus on smaller accessories of the Victorian Age, current trends and prices and antiques as investments.

1919 Calendars Are Right For '75

Surprising the number of 1919 calendars that will be in American offices and homes next year. And while this may seem to be carrying nostalgia a bit far, truth of the matter is these calendars will be quite appropriate, for the dates of 1975 will coincide exactly with those of the year after the Great War.

For this reason, one popular line is a "Golden Girl" calendar that reproduces themes and events of 1919. Next year, the same calendar will feature Betsy Ross, for 1784, the year America's flag-making seamstress made history, matches the days and dates of 1976.

ALTHOUGH NOSTALGIA is in vogue nowadays, it has always been a favorite theme in calendars. Norman Rockwell vignettes and four-color drawings of antique automobiles are long-established calendar subjects. The emphasis on yesteryear is even more pronounced now, however, what with attention being given to America's Bicentennial observance.

"People are ordering more and more calendars with shots of the Liberty Bell, the Declaration of Independence, and Washington crossing the Delaware," says Bill Bloedel, whose St. Paul-based firm, Brown & Bigelow, sold 100 million calendars last year.

Other themes are gaining popularity as calendars become less sexy and more scenic. Cheesecake, the favorite of the 50s, is being replaced by such subjects as endangered species of wildlife, religious themes and holy days and the familiar reproductions of art masterpieces, all of which may reflect public concern for environment and other world uncertainties. The increased visibility of this nation's minorities is indicated in the trend to Spanish-language calendars.

MOST OF THE calendars that adorn walls and desks are advertising calendars, and 98 per cent of all homes have at least one hanging or sitting around the house, according to one survey.

One reason businesses advertise through calendars is because calendars are an excellent means of keeping their name in front of people. Sometimes the results can be very impressive.

A wall calendar — with a recipe of interest to homemakers on the back of each page — was mailed by the Atlanta Postal Credit Union to its 25,000 members and to post office employees in seven southern states who were not members. Bound to the front of the calendar were two loan application forms. A handy pocket at the bottom of the calendar contained a postage-paid application card and literature on the credit union's services.

Before distributing the calendar, the advertiser had been issuing loans averaging $250,000 per month. With the calendar promotion, this figure rose to $1,250,000 monthly.

"Calendars are wise investments because they allow businessmen to contact those customers and prospects which are already on their customer lists — and 80 per cent of their business comes from this group," explains Gene Horyn, of Shaw-Barton Inc., a Coshocton, Ohio, calendar manufacturer.

If thousands of advertisers find the calendar to be an effective means of conveying their message and producing goodwill, millions of Americans can only conclude that it is an indispensable instrument for synchronizing their lives with the rest of the universe. For that they have to thank the mathematicians of Pope Gregory XIII who got Europe squared away on its datekeeping. They did a remarkable job, too, for today's calendar has a margin of error of only one day in every 20,000 years!

GENERATION RAP

by Helen and Sue Bottel

They Feel Fellow Was Right In Spanking Sexy-Dress Girl

DEAR HELEN AND SUE:

A while back, you sided with a girl when she complained about her boyfriend spanking her for wearing short, sexy dresses to work when they had agreed on a "no-sex" arrangement. Seems she had been a conservative dresser before, but decided to wow 'em at the office.

Although I think her guy's action was a bit violent, he sure had the right idea! I personally find the "look at the goodies but don't touch" attitude infuriating. I don't let it show, however. And don't think I am totally liberal in my sex standards — I'm all for the right time, place, degree and care in choosing the partner.

But I do believe that any girl who doesn't have, or wish to acknowledge, as intense a biological drive as a male (as evidenced by the "no-sex agreement"), and who gives guys the come-on anyway (as evidenced by the sexy clothes), deserves whatever befalls her. . .like the heavy hand of justice (as evidenced by her boyfriend).

Some version or other of the golden rule should be applied to her hypocritical behavior. — MIKE

DEAR MIKE:

Here's another letter from a guy who agrees with you:

RAP:

If a chick flaunts something she denies her boyfriend, she deserves a spanking for her lack of modesty. So he took her out on a secluded road and spanked her when he saw her dressed in super-sexy clothes. I admire his restraint. He could have done much more, being turned on to that new "come-on" of hers.

When a man sees a tight, thigh-high dress, he's not just admiring a good set of legs. And if a girl dressed like that won't produce, she's guilty of false advertising. — BIG BROTHER

DEAR GUYS:

You already know our stand. Let's hear what other women have to say. — HELEN AND SUE

RAP:

My mother is boycotting sugar. And at holiday time, that's miserable! No Thanksgiving "punkin" pie. . .No Christmas cookies. . .My sweet tooth aches from malnutrition.

She won't even buy package dessert mixes because that helps the sugar industry, which she says is gouging consumers for no good reason. Around our house, if I'm seen eating a candy bar, I'm ostracized.

Could you please say something about deprived families? When I object, she just says, "Go eat an apple!" — AGAINST THE SUGAR FAMINE

DEAR ATSF:

Go eat an apple!

Sorry, we've got a sugar boycott going at our house too; and, happy day! I've lost two pounds already. — HELEN

DEAR ATSF:

As a person suffering from sugar withdrawal pains, I sympathize. But look, we'll never bring prices down unless we do without.

Good-bye, sweet things. (But not forever, I hope!) — SUE

Workshop For Writers Slated

Ethnic folk tales, biblical poetry and medieval and contemporary Jewish writings will be the subjects of a writer's workshop beginning Jan. 9 at the Marin Jewish Community Center, 200 North San Pedro Road, San Rafael.

Evelyn Gaspar will lead "Creative Subconscious and the Writer," an eight week workshop of writing, discussion and analysis.

She has taught creative writing in Berkeley and San Francisco and is presently director of Marin Kinderschule.

Further information on time and registration can be obtained from the community center.

Use Vacuum Cleaner

Every week use the vacuum cleaner to pick up loose dirt and to clean floors thoroughly throughout the house. A special brush for hard surface floors can be attached to many vacuum cleaners.

DESIGN FOR PEOPLE

Filing Cabinet Makes A Table

By EMILY MALINO
Distributed by United Feature Syndicate

In the good old days, furniture was built to last forever. Any chair, table or cabinet was a permanent acquisition, an investment in the future, eventually to be passed along to one's children.

In the good old days, however, folks didn't recycle the way we do today.

They didn't make a fabulous bar from an oaken ice box with elegant polished brass hardware; they didn't convert their wicker porch furniture into living room seating with plump seat cushions covered in chic suede; they certainly didn't expect to transform their oak kitchen table into a roomy living room coffee table by chopping off half the base, bleaching the wood and laminating the top to withstand 20th-century children.

We have a different outlook toward our furniture today. First, furniture today isn't made to last; with planned obsolescence to guide the manufacturer, the product is phased out in both style and quality in about 10 years. Even sooner, if you count some of our recent "Mediterranean" lines.

With new furniture increasing in price as it decreases in value, is it any wonder that we are learning to recycle all our old junk rather than buy new junk?

THESE WERE the questions that crossed my mind when I was looking for an inexpensive coffee table for the first living room of a young couple who had bought a classic, plain modular sofa, a very sensible purchase for a first home because it will adapt flexibly to many different rooms in their future.

After rejecting an inexpensive chrome and glass table as too impersonal and a very elegant rosy-red lacquered giant cube as too expensive, I found a splendid wood blueprint filing cabinet; it was a single, five-drawer unit, originally designed about 50 years or more ago to fit on top of one or two more to become counter-height.

Just one unit, however, is perfect coffee table height for a modern sofa, and after the mahogany finish and brass hardware were cleaned up and polished, the diminsions and the look gave me the perfect size and color I needed.

At the same time, the file provided the necessary pizazz to an otherwise uninteresting space, making a marvelous storage place for newspapers and magazines, as well as placemats and napkins, candles and serving silver.

To complement this find, I used a contemporary Indian rug in natural colors and I was fortunate to find an old deck chair, its wood varnished to a fare-thee-well, that looked absolutely spiffy with both sofa and file.

Simple window treatments and a modern painting, a basket-table and lots of plants complete this inexpensive room, where recycled old things have preempted the place of modern junk, giving a whole new personality and dimension to a very plain parlor.

Town Manager Bartels To Quit

RONALD E. BARTELS
To Watsonville

Corte Madera Town Mgr. Ronald E. Bartels today announced he will leave that post Jan. 31 to become city manager of Watsonville in Santa Cruz County.

Bartels last night was chosen unanimously by the Watsonville city council from a field which originally included 100 applicants.

He will receive a pay boost to $26,400 annually from his current $25,044, and said that was the main reason for taking the job, adding, "Watsonville is a pleasant place and I do know some people there."

Watsonville is a city of about 17,000 with a heavy food industry, surrounded by agricultural land. It is presently engaged in redevelopment of its central downtown and industrial areas.

Other problems facing the city, Bartels said, are annexation, the budget and expiring contracts of city employees.

Bartels, 41, has been Corte Madera town manager since December, 1970, after previously serving as city manager of Eureka in Humboldt County.

Hospital Employees Win Raise

A two-year contract increasing pay and fringe benefits for about 130 employees in Marin County and 4,600 hospital workers throughout the Bay Area has been approved by the Kaiser Foundation and members of Hospital Workers Local 250.

The contract is retroactive to Oct. 29, covering professional, technical, clerical and patient care workers at Kaiser clinics and hospitals. Kaiser spokesmen said the increased pay and benefits will total about 23 per cent over two years, but will not raise costs for the health plan's subscribers.

The foundation raised its prepaid health insurance rates in October, in anticipation of the settlement with Local 250, the spokesman said.

Immediate pay raises average 9.3 per cent, ranging from 42 to 66 cents per hours, and will be followed by another 8.5 per cent raise in October 1975. Pension benefits will increase next July 1, and other changes have been made in fringe benefits and holidays.

Kaiser officials said they will reopen negotiations with the California Nurses Association, under terms of a strike settlement last June.

Knives, Guns Found In Parolee's Room

A small arsenal of guns and knives, plus jewelry and tapes thought to be stolen, were seized from the room of a recent Youth Authority parolee in Marinwood yesterday, Marin Sheriff's deputies said.

Following the discovery of the items — including 12 guns and 39 knives and sabers — 19-year-old Mark William Corbelli surrendered himself and was booked into Marin County Jail on suspicion of parole violation.

Deputy Alfred B. Curry said he received a tip that guns would be found in Corbelli's room at his parents' home at 340 Peachstone Terrace.

Accompanied by Corbellis' parole officer, Curry went there yesterday, got permission from the youth's parents to search the room and found the weapons, numerous stereo tapes and a sack of jewelry, the deputy said.

Corbelli, who was not home at the time, reportedly served two years in the Youth Authority for burglary and drug offenses.

No bail had been set today, and he was to appear in Marin Municipal Court. In addition to the parole offense, the district attorney's office is studying the filing of burglary and stolen property counts.

Spending Plans To Be Aired

The Larkspur City Council will consider which projects to undertake with federal windfall money when it meets Thursday at 8 p.m. in city hall.

City Mgr. Harlan Barry will recommend that the city develop a waterfront park, improve Piper Park and build a day care center with funds to be received under the Housing and Community Development Act.

Also on the agenda is a presentation by architect Piero Patri explaining the proposed Lincoln Properties development on San Quentin Peninsula.

Fords Plan Quiet New Year's Eve After Skiing, Desk Work

VAIL, Colo. (UPI) — President Ford arranged to welcome the New Year quietly, with family and friends at his rented ski lodge, after a day of skiing and some work at his desk.

Ford made plans to fly back to Washington after New Year's Day and is scheduled to arrive at the White House Thursday evening.

An aide expected Ford today to deal with the 115 bills awaiting his action. They were passed as Congress adjourned and must be acted on by midnight Saturday.

Among them is the controversial bill to give the Soviet Union a most favored nation trading treatment, passed after Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., was satisfied Russia would permit thousands of Soviet Jews to leave the country.

Ford signed the $2.7 billion foreign aid bill yesterday and cast his 19th and 20th vetos to reject the strip mining bills and legislation that would have required that 30 per cent of imported oil be carried in American tankers by June 30, 1977.

He said the strip mining bill would cut down the supply of oil at a time when energy sources are dwindling. Jackson, working at becoming a Ford antagonist, promised to reintroduce the measure.

The Fords have a tradition of spending New Year's Eve at home. A family dinner was planned and close friends at the ski resort were invited to stop by for the midnight celebration.

Ford was expected to start working on his State of the Union address on his return to Washington. The bulk of the document was expected to focus on the problems of the economy and the related oil shortage.

Ford also must wrap up in the next several days his 1976 fiscal year federal budget. Sources said it may run as high as $340 billion, a record.

Ford spent three hours skiing yesterday, proud of his improved form. His 18-year-old son Steve said the President has lost 10 pounds, in spite of nightly parties.

Press Secretary Ron Nessen said the nightly Yuletide partying for the Fords was normal during this season.

Betty Ford has been lunching with friends, reading and shopping in the Vail village. She wears a new, bright yellow ski suit even though she no longer skis because of osteoarthritis, a back ailment.

Breeding Cheetahs Become Parents

WINSTON, Ore. (UPI) — A rare pair of breeding cheetahs have become parents to six cubs, officials of the Wildlife Safari announced yesterday.

"This is the first time we know of that sextuplets have been born to cheetahs outside their natural habitat and have survived," said Ed Hutton, vice president and general manager of the 600-acre wildlife tourist attraction.

1974: A Month-By-Month Look At Marin . . .

Inflation and recession, gasoline shortages in the early months and skyrocketing sugar prices at the close of the year marked 1974 in Marin and Southern Sonoma, as well as the rest of the nation.

Locally, a slowdown in development offered a pause for reflection as Marin residents cast their eyes toward open space and growth management.

The traffic bottleneck in Novato was uncapped with the opening of a bypass which eliminated the last traffic lights along Highway 101 in Marin, and the prospect for ferry travel increased with the purchase of three large ferryboats.

San Rafael looked back through the years with a massive celebration of its 100th birthday anniversary, including a parade that attracted 70,000 persons on a hot day, and looked forward to a choice of redevelopment plans.

Several cities changed city managers but the longest running story was that of Fairfax Town Administrator Robert Crowe, who was fired, reinstated and fired again after he engaged in a post election brawl.

Most terrible crime of the year was the still unexplained killing of Lucy Ann Gilbride, whose body was found in her home at 36 Golden Hinde Boulevard, San Rafael.

Still standing is the Independent-Journal's $2,000 "Secret Witness" reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the person who, on Aug. 27, killed the wife of Robert J. Gilbride, head counselor at Terra Linda High School.

The controversial Warm Springs Dam near Healdsburg and Petaluma's growth control ordinance sparked legal battles expected to continue, and girls won the right to play Little League baseball.

A story of national prominence originated in Marin this month with the disclosure of the burglary of government documents from the Mill Valley home of Daniel Ellsberg, central figure in the Pentagon Papers case.

Debate continued about where Sir Francis Drake landed in Marin, with a claim that a fort was built in Bolinas, a charge that Drake's "brass plate" was a fake and the discovery of an English coin at Rancho Olompali.

In the largest sale of the year, the new Courthouse Square office building in downtown San Rafael was sold for $5,850,000.

Some of the highlights of the year were:

JANUARY

Carpenters returned to their jobs after a month-long wildcat walkout that disrupted several major jobs in Marin.

A winter storm brought heavy winds, rain and snow to Marin, closing roads on Mount Tamalpais.

Lincoln Property Co. released a plan for cluster housing, an office center, specialty shops, restaurants, a 300-room lodge, a tennis complex and a sunken amphitheater on San Quentin Peninsula.

Marin commuters, like their fellow Americans, headed to work and children boarded school buses in the dark as daylight saving time was reinstated as an energy conservation measure.

Two researchers offered the theory that Sir Francis Drake and the crew of the Golden Hinde built a fort at Bolinas in 1579, which would be the oldest English-built structure in the Western Hemisphere.

Walter E. Zurcher, owner of the San Rafael toy shop and civic leader in Marin for 25 years, died after suffering a heart attack in Carmel.

A federal judge ruled that the City of Petaluma cannot limit its growth by allowing only 500 new housing units a year.

Gasoline supplies dwindled in Marin and the rest of the country, as service station operators ran out of their January allotment.

FEBRUARY

"Sorry, no gas" signs adorned many gasoline stations in Marin and Southern Sonoma as dealers wrestled with allotment problems and long lines of motorists formed.

Golden Gate Bridge District directors approved a 50 per cent hike in auto tolls to 75 cents and approved purchase of 32 buses.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY — Celebrants at San Rafael City Hall gathered around a 50-pound cake in February and sang "Happy Birthday" to the city on its 100th anniversary, opening a series of events honoring the occasion.

WILLIAM D. FUSSELMAN

San Rafael celebrated its 100th birthday anniversary with a party at city hall featuring some city officials in 19th century clothing and prepared an all-out, citywide festival for May.

S. I. Hayakawa of Mill Valley lost his bid to become a candidate for the Republican nomination for the U.S. Senate because he hadn't been a member of the party for one year.

The Sixth Region Air Defense Command announced that the regional headquarters at Fort Baker and the last Nike missile base in Marin would be closed.

MARCH

Reg. William S. Mailliard, R-Sixth District, who had represented Marin since 1968, was sworn in as ambassador to the Organization of American States and resigned from Congress.

Marin service station operators approved the "odd-even" plan for gasoline sales, selling to drivers with odd-number license plate numbers on odd-numbered days of the month and to those with even-numbered plates on even-numbered days.

City council upheavels in Fairfax and Sausalito and a general buffeting for incumbents highlighted municipal elections in Marin, and Fairfax Town Administrator Robert E. Crowe tangled with a Fairfax man in a post-election brawl.

Superior Court Judge E. Warren McGuire ruled the Marin Municipal Water District's ban on new water connections was illegal.

A spectacular fire demolished Tarantino's Seafood Grotto, a Bolinas landmark, causing damage estimated at $100,000.

The Hearst food giveaway, demanded by Patricia Hearst's kidnapers, came to Marin when boxes of food were distributed in Marin City.

APRIL

The American Civil Liberties Union threatened to sue the City of Mill Valley if girls weren't allowed to play in Little League games in city parks.

Despite protests from Sausalito, the Golden Gate Bridge District endorsed plans for a temporary ferry slip in downtown Sausalito to handle the district's new 750-passenger boats.

Investigators from the California State Health Department reported that administration of Marin County Mental Health Services was in disarray and in need of a major overhaul.

A San Rafael couple was kidnapped by an escapee from San Quentin and driven to Merced County, where they outwitted him and escaped unharmed.

Fairfax Town Administrator Robert E. Crowe was discharged after refusing to prepare the town budget and failing to report for work.

Phillip J. Brown, vice president of a Sacramento consultant firm, was hired as Novato city manager, succeeding Charles A. Brown.

Superior Court Judge Henry J. Broderick ruled that Jenny Fulle of Tamalpais Valley and three West Marin girls could play in Little League baseball games.

MAY

Marin County supervisors voted to pay $260,000 for 185 acres on a picturesque ridge above Ignacio, near Indian Valley Colleges.

Ruchell Magee, 35, a survivor of the 1970 Marin County Hall of Justice shootout which left four dead, pleaded guilty to a charge of kidnapping.

Fairfax Town Administrator Robert Crowe was reinstated to his job by a court decision which said he couldn't be discharged within 90 days of a municipal election.

San Rafael held a 10-day observance of its 100th birthday anniversary, with a parade, which attracted 70,000 viewers, a musical review of the city's history, and a ball.

The Shellmaker Dredging Co.'s proposed $2.7 million harbor at the mouth of the Petaluma River was approved by the Sonoma County Board of Zoning Adjustment.

Tamalpais High School District teachers walked off their jobs for one day to protest salary offers. The walkout covered about 80 per cent.

U.S. Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas issued a court order stopping construction of the Warm Springs Dam in Sonoma County until a lawsuit over the project is resolved.

JUNE

San Quentin Warden Louis S. Nelson retired and Kenneth D. Britt, a 19-year veteran of the state correctional system, was appointed to succeed him.

Assemblyman John L. Burton, D-San Francisco, was elected to Sixth Congressional District seat left open by the resignation of William S. Mailliard.

Marin voters reelected four county officials, but incumbent Coroner Donovan O. Cooke lost to Dr. Ervin J. Jundrich in a primary election.

LOUIS S. NELSON
Retiring warden

Betty L. Presley, longtime head of Marin County's welfare and social services system, retired.

Fairfax Town Administrator Robert E. Crowe was fired by a 4-1 vote of the city council at an emotion-charged hearing.

The controversial San Pedro Reserve project, a plan to build 456 townhouses on the ridgelands overlooking Santa Venetia was rejected unanimously by Marin County supervisors.

Irwin P. (Red) Diamond, dean of students, was named president of the College of Marin, the sixth in the college's 48-year history.

Marin County supervisors adopted a record $52.1 million budget after cutting $750,000 in proposed capital improvement projects and voted to increase their pay from $16,800 to $18,400 a year.

JULY

Stunned Golden Gate Bridge District officials opened bids for the Larkspur ferry terminal to find its construction cost up almost $4 million to $17.2 million.

An unprecedented July storm dumped up to more than an inch of rain on Marin and snarled commute traffic.

John Walter Mails, former major league pitcher and longtime resident of Marin, died after a long illness.

Petaluma's city maintenance workers went out on strike for two days and returned when faced with dismissal.

About 450 auto mechanics struck Marin garages and auto dealers and strikes by carpenters and laborers continued on large construction jobs.

Former Corte Madera major Edward W. Colthurst died at his office.

Majorie Wagner became president of Sonoma State College in Rohnert Park, the first woman to head a four-year college in California.

AUGUST

The Golden Gate Bridge District board bowed to Sausalito's objections to a proposed $1.3 million downtown ferry terminal and canceled the plans.

The wife of the head counselor of Terra Linda was slain at her San Rafael home by an unidentified assailant, shocking the quiet neighborhood.

College of Marin teachers marched on an "informational" picket line to protest what they called "bad faith in negotiations" by the Marin Community College District board.

Plans by the City of Sausalito to disinter remains in an Indian burial ground at Caledonia and Pine streets were protested by a small group of Indians before the Marin County Human Rights Commission.

Former Marin County administrator Alan Bruce was hired as city administrator and controller of San Anselmo.

Wallace K. Shepherd was fired as executive director of the Marin County Housing Authority.

Marin County supervisors agreed to pay up to $327,600 toward an Olympic-sized swimming pool at Indian Valley Colleges in Novato.

Two Cotati city councilmen, Stephen Laughlin and Annette Lombardi, resigned after they removed marijuana plants from the Cotati police evidence locker.

William L. Cavalli was fired as city manager of Belvedere after 10 years on the job.

SEPTEMBER

Mill Valley city councilmen decided to construct a public safety building, even though the city manager said the "project has the makings of a real loser for the taxpayer."

Fairfax Town Administrator Robert E. Crowe was chosen as city Administrator of Los Altos Hills, a community in the hills of northern Santa Clara County.

After 13 seasons, the Marin Shakespeare Festival folded with more than $50,000 in debts.

William D. Fusselman, former Marin County supervisor for 22 years, and public official in Marin for 45 years, died of cancer at the age of 86.

Golden Gate Bridge District directors reversed themselves and voted to build the entire Larkspur ferry terminal project as originally planned with total cost estimated at $17.3 million.

OCTOBER

A strike, threatened for months in San Rafael schools, was averted when teachers voted to accept salary proposals including a 6 per cent raise retroactive to July and an additional 1 per cent raise in January.

Marin County and owners of the 257-acre Fireman property in Santa Venetia negotiated a $461,000 sale price for the picturesque site long sought by local residents as permanent open space.

The Legal Aid Society of Marin filed suit in U.S. District Court to halt the Richardson Highlands redevelopment project in Marin City unless it has low-income and moderate-income housing.

The famous "Plate of Brass," found in Marin in 1937 and long believed to be a relic of Sir Francis Drake's landing here in 1579, was called a fake by a prizewinning historian, Samuel Eliot Morison, and was defended by Bancroft Library at University of California and bymany California historians.

Sonoma County supervisors agreed to sign contracts for the $30 million Cotati-Russian River aqueduct, a pipeline that will deliver water into Southern Sonoma and Northern Marin.

The most glamorous ferryboat ever built for Marin commuters, the first of three $4.2 million, 735-passenger vessels, was launched in San Diego.

Petaluma's controversial growth control ordinance, battered in a legal battle which has drawn national attention, was reimposed by the Petaluma City Council with court approval pending appeal of decision which held it illegal.

The Marin Medical Society called for the ouster of Dr. Robert L. Taylor, program director for Community Mental Health Services.

A proposal to allow only buses to use new lanes on Highway 101 during peak traffic hours from the Golden Gate Bridge to Greenbrae was overwhelmingly supported at a public hearing in San Rafael.

NOVEMBER

State Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, was reelected to the state senate, Supervisor Michael Wornum, was elected to the state assembly and Rep. John L. Burton of San Francisco was elected the Sixth Congressional District seat.

Sonoma voters endorsed the controversial Warm Springs Dam by a scant 51.2 per cent favorable vote.

Rep. William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, was defeated in his bid to become state controller, voters in Novato rejected a $3 million open space bond Loma Verde residents passed a $350,000 open space measure and San Rafael voters approved preserving the historic Dollar mansion.

Marin County Planning Director Werner von Gundell was demoted to acting director as county supervisors approved of proceeding with reorganization of the planning department.

Marin grocery store operators began asking their customers to limit purchase of sugar to one five or 10-pound bag and cautioned against hoarding that would drive increasing prices even higher.

The discovery of a silver sixpence at Rancho Olompali, north of Novato, was linked to the visit of Sir Francis Drake to Marin County.

Four alternative programs for the San Rafael downtown redevelopment area, including pedestrian malls, shopping centers, mass transit, waterfront housing and open space, garden office complexes and freely moving traffic were unveiled before the San Rafael City Council.

Petaluma war hero Richard Allen Penry, convicted of selling cocaine, was placed on probation for three years.

The new Courthouse Square office building in downtown San Rafael was sold by McKeon Construction Co. of Sacramento to a San Francisco property management firm for $5,850,000.

The defense department announced that all Air Force activity at Hamilton Air Force Base will cease by June 1976 and the reserve units stationed there will be transferred to McClellan Air Force Base, Sacramento.

DECEMBER

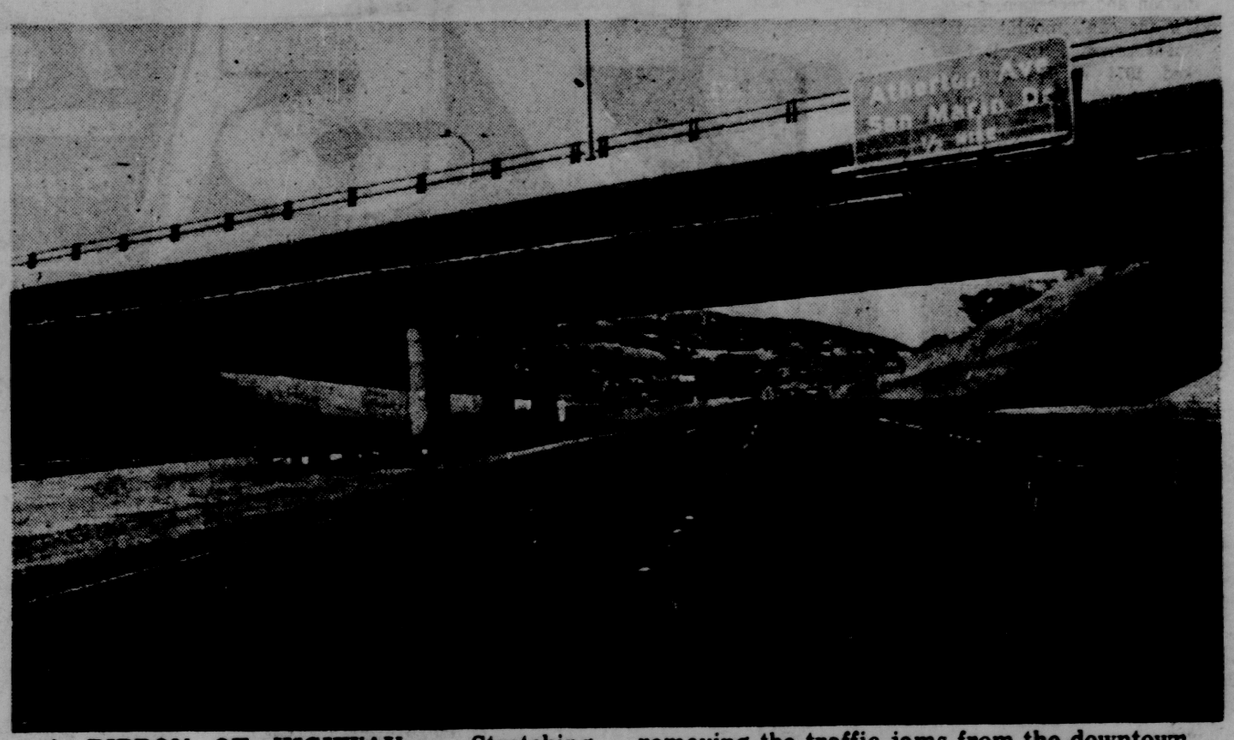

Albert W. Harris Jr. of San Rafael, prosecutor in the Angela Davis-Ruchell Magee trials died unexpectedly after a short illness at 45.

Government documents, taken in an October burglary at the home of Daniel Ellsberg in Mill Valley, were recovered by police and subsequently turned over to a congressional committee, thus ending for the time being a struggle between Ellsberg and the defense department over right of possession.

A major obstacle to Rohnert Park's projected regional shopping center was swept away as a Sonoma superior court judge ruled against Santa Rosa's request for an injunction to prevent the center.

Marin County supervisors took control of the strife-ridden housing authority and redevelopment agency.

Gov. Ronald Reagan appointed Belvedere Vice Mayor Thomas S. Price to the Marin County Board of Supervisors to succeed Michael Wornum who was elected to the state assembly in November.

A RIBBON OF HIGHWAY — Stretching through the rolling hills of East Novato, a six-lane freeway bypass was opened this year, removing the traffic jams from the downtown area and eliminating the last traffic lights along Highway 101 in Marin. (Photo by Bob Hax)

UPS AND DOWNS — A high rise building (left) and a low moment (right) capsulize the ups and downs of 1974. The new multimillion-dollar office building on San Rafael's Courthouse Square, seeming gift-wrapped in the protective paper on its windows, gleams in the sun, a promise fulfilled, an end to years of indecision and bickering over the use and ownership of the choice property. Candidate A. Alan Hill is consoled by his wife on his election night defeat by Michael Wornum for the Ninth Assembly District seat, a dream ending amid the shadows.

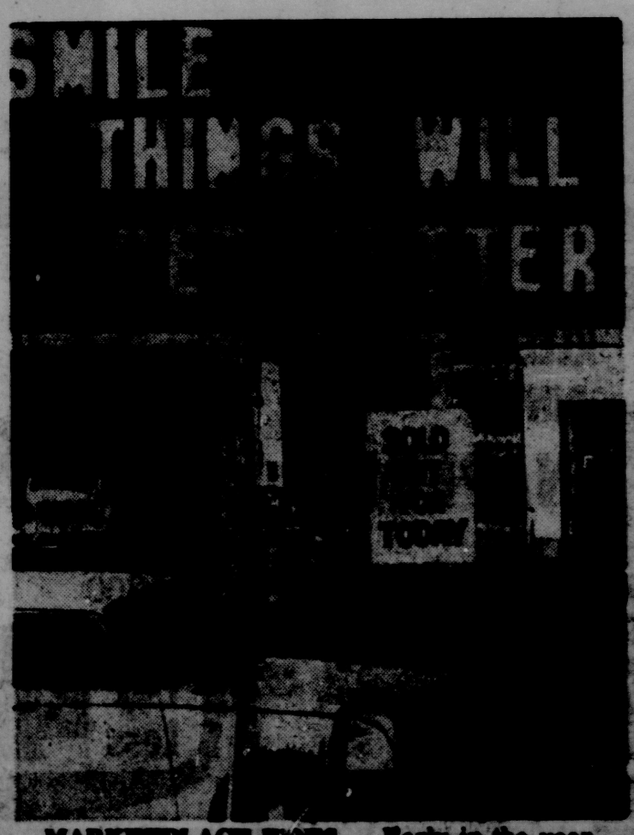

TEACHERS STRIKE — Waving placards at Redwood High School in Larkspur last May were disgruntled teachers, part of the Tamalpais Union High School staff that staged a one-day strike in protest over wages. Teachers in other districts also were militant during the year, but there weren't any school shutdowns.

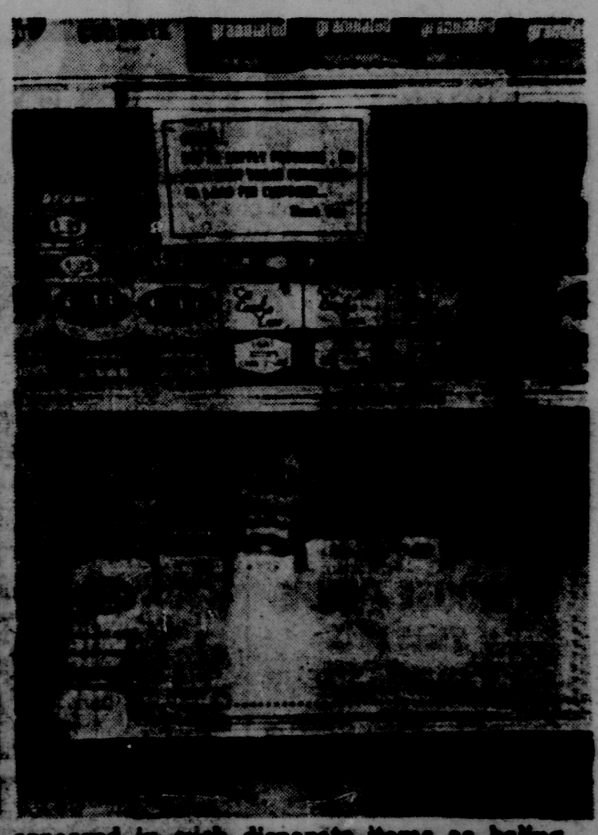

WAITING AT WARM SPRINGS — A formation of eath movers were standing idle at the foot of Warm Springs Dam, near Healdsburg, while the controversy over whether the dam should be constructed was thrashed out in courts and public forums. Sonoma residents voted in favor of the dam by a slight margin in November. (Photo by Bob Hax)

FERRYBOAT'S A COMING — On its way to play the waters between Sausalito and San Francisco, a gleaming white $4.2 million, 735 passenger ferryboat was launched in San Diego in October for the Golden Gate Bridge District ferryboat fleet. It was the first launching of a ferry for Marin service since 1928.

MARKETPLACE WOES — Early in the year it was a shortage of gasoline (left) and later in the year it was a shortage of sugar (right), both symbolic of national and international problems that combined to clobber industry, agriculture, commerce and the consumer. Shortages, accompanied by soaring prices, appeared in such disparate items as baling wire and natural gas. Blame was scattered widely, on politics as in the Middle East, on manipulation of the market in commodities, on bad harvests, on rising worldwide affluence and attendant worldwide demand.

WAVE OF PROSPERITY

Seer Predicts Good Year Ahead For United States

By PAUL LIBERATORE

A new wave of prosperity will sweep over the United States by August 1975.

Beef prices will decline dramatically by Jan. 23.

There will be no need for wage or price controls in the coming year.

American tourists will be strolling the streets of Havana within 14 months.

Five disastrous plane crashes in the U.S. will result in revamping of federal controls over air travel.

Alabama Gov. George Wallace will not become president in 1976. Ronald Reagan might.

A cure for cancer is imminent.

These are all predictions for 1975 and beyond by Richard P. Goodwin, president of the Serenity Spirtualist Church in Marin.

According to Goodwin, a medium, an annual glimpse into the future is passed through him to the inhabitants of earth by what he describes as the "divine intelligence."

Last Sunday, Goodwin, a former airline flight steward, slipped into a trance to rattle off predictions transcribed into 11 typewritten pages, comprising the church's 11th annual world forecast.

For example, if you have relatives in Georgia, better tip them off that there will be a series of storms striking that state in about October.

There will be increasing trade relations between Communist China and the U.S. In the coming eight months, a harmonious agreement with Mexico will do much to relieve the nation's crude oil problems.

America's position as an industrial giant will diminish as ever increasing demands are made on her food supply. France is facing serious economic troubles. A cure for conflict in the Middle East is on the way, with a lasting agreement between the Arab world and Israel by 1977.

Goodwin's forecast from the cosmos has a good deal to say about U.S. politics: "We see a star rising over the present governor of California and we believe for what is projected on the ethereal waves is that if he will listen to the group counsel he is receiving at present that he will be a star presented for the presidency of your United States."

He says Nelson Rockefeller's influence on the President is a good, stable one and will help bring about the new prosperity he foresees. Richard Nixon will reveal during the next eight years new information about the Watergate scandal.

In industry, a new American economy car will beat back competition from Japanese and German manufacturers and save the U.S. auto industry.

For investors, the stock market will begin to climb steadily in about April.

And the best prediction of all: "Be of good cheer, my friends, you will not experience a depression in your country. You will not even experience an increased so-called recession and inflation has reached the saturation point."

Goodwin himself is a stocky 47-year-old with a modish haircut, doubleknit clothes and zippered boots. He founded the Serenity Spiritualist Church in Marin nearly four years ago after working with its Golden Gate branch in San Francisco for 12 years.

Each Sunday, the church, with less than 100 regular followers in the county, holds services at the American Legion Log Cabin in San Anselmo.

The spiritualist movement, according to Goodwin, was born in the 1890s in Chicago. The national headquarters of the church now are in Florida.

Over the mantlepiece in Goodwin's rented hilltop Corte Madera home, from which he coordinates local spiritualist affairs, is a rough drawing of a new church proposed for construction in Marin.

The Spiritualist Church, he says, believes in the oneness of man and nature, similar to the transcendentalist thought of Emerson and Thoreau.

However, since spiritualists maintain that the human spirit never dies, they believe it possible to communicate with the departed.

Each December, the divine intelligence, which created and controls the order of the cosmos, reads from what is described as "The Book of Causes" and delivers through Goodwin the outlook for the future.

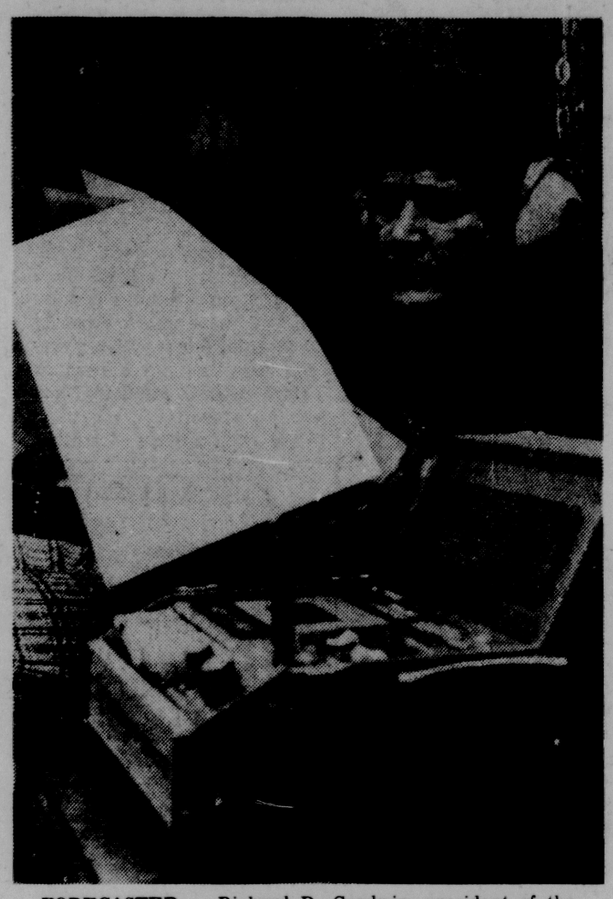

Goodwin says the annual forecast is "very accurate, although certainly not 100 per cent." He is not adamant in his defense of the accuracy of the predictions and dismisses errors with a twinkling laugh and, "What can you do?"

Last year, for example, Goodwin predicted a new American economy car. "But I haven't seen it yet," he chuckles.

Frequently the forecast turns to the prosaic. "Four years ago, he (Goodwin always refers to the source of the forecast in the third person) predicted the Volkswagen company would produce a car with an automatic shift, which it did."

But many of the predictions are repeated each year. The cure for cancer, peace in the Middle East, a new wave of prosperity, all were included in the 1974 world forecast and projected to materialize in the coming several years.

Goodwin, however, doesn't mind skeptics. "It's good if we have skeptics," he asserted. "It's no good if we have scoffers."

FORECASTER — Richard P. Goodwin, president of the Serenity Spiritualist Church in Marin, goes through his predictions for 1975 which include a new wave of prosperity for the U.S. He also sees a dramatic drop in beef prices within 23 days of the new year.

Some Hits For Future Forecaster

Last January, a young San Anselmo "astro psychologist," Bryan Wittine, made several predictions for 1974.

Wittine compiled a "Birth Chart of America," based on the nation's planets and star signs since its conception. Through this chart, he saw what he called patterns and trends emerging. Like threads in a tapestry that is America.

Wittine, however, disdained the conventional astrologer's fatalism that planets and stars compel one's life along a predetermined course and emphasized that the events he saw did not necessarily have to happen, but that the country was being called on, challenged, to make them occur.

What about his predictions? Did they come true? More accurately, did we make them come true?

Well, as it turns out, the Wittine forecast, limited to a few predictions, mostly involving politics, came close on a major one.

By April, he said, Richard Nixon would no longer be President. He missed only by a few months; Nixon resigned in August.

He saw Nelson Rockefeller reaching new heights of political prominence and said Rockefeller, now vice president, had a good chance of being elected president in 1976.

He also saw Edward Kennedy moving into a position of accepting great social responsibility and gave the Massachusetts senator an equal chance with Rockefeller of rising to the nation's highest office. Kennedy says he won't run. Do we believe him?

The country, Wittine said, was in the throes of a Plutonian age, a time of tearing down what is decayed and a building of something new and better.

Watergate and the energy crisis, according to the 28-year-old Wittine, were the first manifestations of all that is bankrupt in America. And the worst,he said, was yet to come. But all was not unrelieved doom and gloom.

Filings Close For San Rafael Election

San Rafael's political pot came to a final boil today as filings closed for city attorney and three seats on the city board of education, but lost a bit of spice as one candidate for mayor was disqualified.

City Clerk Marion A. Grady said Richard L. Stark, a political activist and associate of the White Panther Party, is ineligible to run since his nomination papers contained only 16 valid signatures, four short of the 20 needed to qualify.

Stark submitted 30 signatures, including those of 14 persons who either are not residents of the city or not registered to vote, she said.

Remaining in the race for mayor are incumbent C. Paul Bettini and residents Joan Fox and Benjamin F. Walton.

Filing today for the post of city attorney were Harry A. Connick, Edward M. Krug and John R. Wolf. Connick and Krug opposed each other in unsuccessful bids for Marin County district attorney last June; attorney Wolf is a former member of the city planning department.

San Rafael City Atty. Fred C. Robbins is not seeking reelection.

Filing today for San Rafael Board of Education were Eleanor J. Zengler of 356 Riviera Drive and Donald W. Hausmann of 40 Surfwood Circle. They follow incumbents Francis X. Kelly and Herman L. Childress and residents Gale B. Fisher and Joseph D. Coons in filing for a board seat.

Board incumbent Marilyn Bolinger is not seeking reelection.

Other offices to be filled in the city's March 4 elections are two city council seats and the posts of city clerk and city tax and license collector.

8 Persons File Papers For Marin School Posts

Eight persons yesterday filed papers to place their names on the March 4 ballot for Marin school district board elections.

Deadline for filing is 5 p.m. Friday in all districts except San Rafael, where filing ended at noon today.

Martin J. Dean of 405 Marin Oaks Drive, Novato, an incumbent, became the first person to file for the Marin Community College District board.

In the Shoreline Unified district, incumbents Robert Gallagher, 14501 Point Reyes Road, Petaluma, and Le Roy Erickson, P.O. Box 445, Valley Ford, returned papers.

Incumbent Douglas B. Martin Jr., 77 Tomales Street, Sausalito, turned in papers for the Sausalito district.

Stanley Seiderman, 18 Park Drive, San Anselmo, filed for the two-year post in the San Anselmo district created by the resignation of Millard Morgen.

Other nonincumbents filing were Walter Dods, 564 Cedarberry Lane, San Rafael, for the Dixie district board; Harry R. Smith, 15 Corona Avenue, Lagunitas, for the Lagunitas board; and George D. Grossi, 3550 Novato Boulevard, Novato, for the Lincoln board.

Parking Compromise Reached For New Library In Petaluma

Faced with an internal dispute over parking requirements for Petaluma's new library, the city council last night hammered out a compromise after lengthy argument.

The dispute began Nov. 19 when the planning commission adopted a report by its site design review committee, which stated that the parking planned for the new facility at East Washington Street and Fairgrounds Drive would not comply with city zoning requirements.

On Nov. 26, City Mgr. Robert H. Meyer appealed to the council to reverse the commission's findings, which he said were improper.

The planning body told the council it could not approve a use permit for the library because ordinance requires 193 parking stalls near the Kenilworth Park site — 110 for the library itself and 83 for the nearby city recreation center. Plans call for 80 parking spaces to serve both.

"We set up those parking requirements and we really can't treat a civic building differently from an individual developer," said Councilman Fred V. Mattei, who also sits on the planning commission.

"We feel the city should live up to its own ordinances," planning commissioner John Balshaw told the council. "If they're wrong then we should change them." Any other action, he argued, would make it impossible for the city to require any developer in the future to comply with the parking requirements.

Last night Meyer said he appealed the planning commission action himself because he "knew of no other way to get it before the council."

He said the city's plans for its own local bus system in the next few years will make parking spaces less essential to public buildings. Because all the land around the library and recreation center is city owned, the city manager said, there is no reason more parking can't be built later if necessary.

Meyer warned that the expanded parking sought by the planning body would add "at least $70,000" to the already inflation-ridden cost of the $1.5 million library.

The nudge toward a compromise received a boost when planning director Frank B. Gray explained that Petaluma's ordinances call for libraries, museums and art galleries to have at least one parking space for each 200 square feet of floor space, while large retail stores are required to have a space for each 300 square feet.

"Having more parking for a library than for a commercial store," Councilman James L. Harberson gasped, "is ludicrous."

After more than an hour the council agreed to amend the library's use permit to allow construction with the planned 80 spaces, allowing for further parking spaces on a "phased demand basis as determined by the council." City Atty. Matthew Hudson said he would have a resolution to that effect prepared for council approval on Jan. 6.

The Petaluma City Council also:

HEATER — Approved spending up to $2,500 from the contingency fund to rebuild a wornout heater in the city swimming pool in time for its Feb. 1 opening.

EMPLOYMENT — Agreed to allocate $400 to pay half the salary of a youth employment counselor in Petaluma next summer, with the balance financed by the county.

ZONING — Adopted an ordinance rezoning lots at 208 and 210 Baker Street from neighborhood commercial to compact single-family residential.

CONSULTANT — Agreed to contract with Environmental Impact Planning Corp. of San Francisco for an ecological study on the proposed widening of Washington Street. The study is required by the federal government, which will put up $374,000 of the job's cost. The firm was lowest of three bidders.

METER — Agreed to remove a parking meter in front of the North Bay Federal Savings and Loan Building on Petaluma Boulevard South because it interferes with newly-built parking lot entrances.

Red Cross Seeks Aid For Darwin

Marin residents who wish to donate money to help residents of cyclone-battered Darwin, Australia, may do so through the Marin Chapter of the American Red Cross, according to David Levy, local disaster services director.

He said that he had been informed by the state emergency services office that food and clothing are not being requested because it would cost more to ship them to Australia than to buy them there.

For that reason, Americans who wish to assist are being asked to donate to recognized worldwide charities, including the Red Cross.

The disastrous cyclone on Christmas Day left 50 dead and most of the city's 45,000 residents homeless.

The entire city will have to be rebuilt, officials have said.

Pulsar Testing Einstein's Theory

By ROBERT C. COWEN
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

Objects that mark time as accurately as the best man-made clocks offer new clues to cosmic mysteries.

To begin with, the objects themselves are part ways to a state of matter that transcends known laws of physics. Recent discoveries should help astronomers understand these intriguing objects better.

One of them also offers a sensitive new test of Einstein's relativity theory. Another just possibly may be a fragment of an earlier universe.

Astronomers call these cosmic "clocks" pulsars (pulsating radio sources). Their regular "ticking" is probably due to rapid rotation of stars that have collapsed to an extremely high density. If earth contracted to a similar density, it would be only 600 feet in diameter.

A star can contract even more, concentrating its gravity to a strength from which nothing can escape, not even light. Within it, neither Einstein's laws governing the universe at large nor laws governing atoms and particles hold true. The universe itself may eventually collapse to such a state, which then would explode outward to form a new universe.

This state of matter baffles astrophysicists. It is beyond reach of their theories and observations. But they hope to learn something about the collapse process from pulsars. They are especially interested in a pulsar recently found by Joe Taylor and R.A. Hulse of the University of Massachusetts using the radio telescope of the Arecibo Observatory in Puerto Rico, which is managed by Cornell University.

This is the only radio-emitting pulsar known which is part of a double star pair. The way it interacts with its companion star will reveal new aspects of pulsar nature.

It can also test Einstein's theory. The timing of its pulses should vary as it moves about in its companion's gravitational field. If the timing does not change as relativity predicts, physicists will have to take a new look at that theory.

Then there is a pulsar that doesn't seem to age. Whereas other known pulsars "tick" more and more slowly or change rate erratically, this one has remained steady for years. It seems to be unique, says Cornell's Frank Drake — a new class of pulsar hinting at undiscovered dimensions to these objects.

The newfound aspects of pulsars, he says, "amount to a research breakthrough because we now have more powerful handles on things we've struggled with" — things such as pulsar nature, relativity, and collapse of matter.

And that glimpse of another universe? Since no one knows what the unchanging pulsar is, scientists are free to speculate.

Dr. Drake suggests, as a far-out guess, that it may be of very great age, old enough to be a left-over bit of the collapsing state that preceded the birth of our own universe. If this were so, astronomers would be looking into a piece of a universe in which time ran backward.

But don't take that speculation too seriously. The pulsar most likely is an object in our universe, an object with a nature unusual enough to satisfy the dreams of the most imaginative of astronomers once they understand it.

Funds For Jobs Said Too Small

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The American Economic Association's new president says he believes the $1 billion set aside by Congress to provide jobs for the unemployed in 1975 will not be enough.

But Robert A. Gordon, the new president, declared yesterday that Congress had been correct in making the money available quickly for public service jobs rather than in authorizing public works.

Gordon, a University of California professor, said that "if you want to create jobs, you should do it directly."

Gordon was installed as the Allied Social Science Association ended a convention.

Broadened Recycling Plan Urged

Marin Sanitary Service is seeking to broaden its recycling effort in the City of San Rafael.

Under a proposal by the firm, two 20-cubic-yard debris boxes would be left at various locations in the city to collect deposits of tin, glass and aluminum.

"Our company would pick up each box whenever required and before any overflow and would immediately leave another similar box in its place," according to Guido D. Zanotti, company president.

In addition, the firm would post notices in apartment buildings and mail a leaflet to every household in the city to advertise the program, he said.

"It should be noted this program is entirely for conservation purposes; it will not operate on a financially successful basis," Zanotti stated in a letter to the city administration. "The intention is that if it proves successful in San Rafael, it will be possible to implement it on a countywide basis."

Zanotti noted the firm now routinely picks up bundled newspapers and cardboard on regular collection days.

The San Rafael City Council will consider the proposal at 8 p.m. Monday in city hall.

British Teachers Urge Discipline

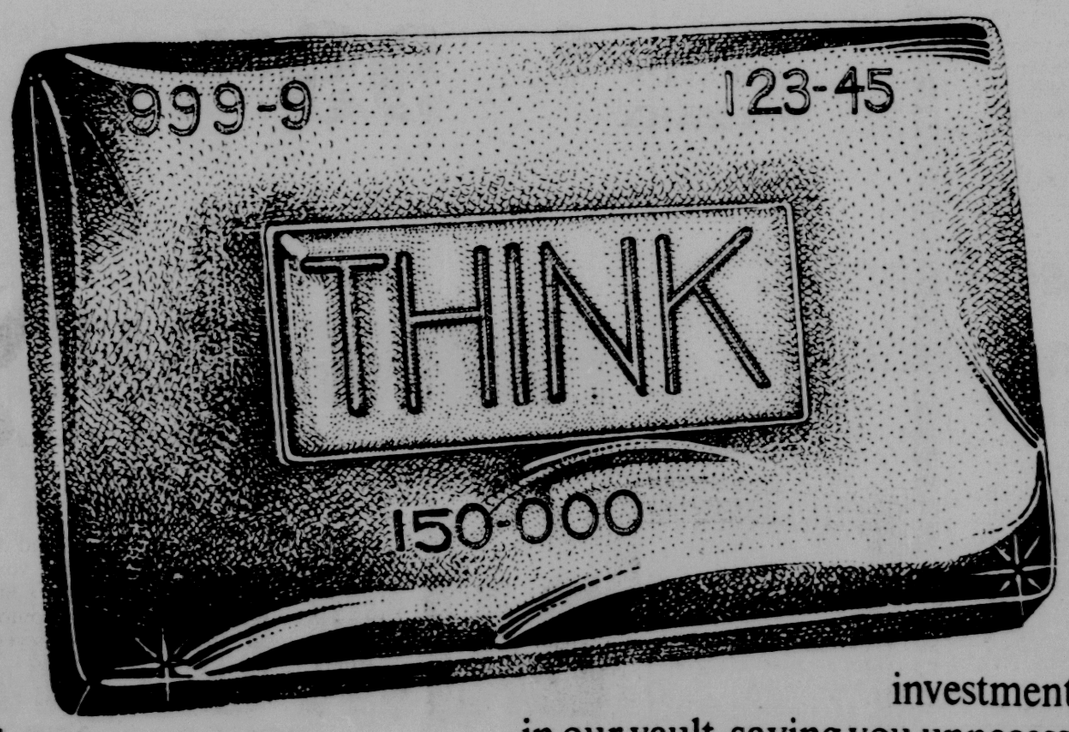

BIRMINGHAM, England (UPI) — Teachers worried about increasing classroom violence appealed yesterday for a return to discipline in Britain's schools.

Rhodes Boyson, a Conservative member of Parliament, told the National Association of Schoolmasters' conference on school discipline that new teaching methods deprive children of their "birthright of ordered learning" and provided only a "pathless desert" for pupils.

"At one time it was the bad boy who did not go to school," said Boyson, a former principal. "Now it was the good boy who stayed away for his own protection from school blackmail and protection rackets."

Crocker offers 3 fine gold plans with one word of caution:

Crocker Bank believes that any investment should be made only after thoughtful and prudent consideration. This is especially true with gold. Market conditions for any commodity are constantly changing. And besides the obvious risks involved, an investment in gold doesn't earn interest.

But whether you're someone who has always been attracted to the idea of owning gold, or someone interested in a large or small investment... once you've decided gold is for you, buy from a reputable source only.

We'll be offering three ways to invest:

First, you can take actual possession of the gold. In this case, you'll have to find safe storage, and pay sales taxes and assay costs if you sell again. Most buyers will demand proof of authenticity (assay) unless the gold is in the custody of a recognized financial institution such as Crocker Bank.

Gold bullion in denominations of 1/2 ounce to 100 ounces is now available at Crocker. We are one of the few sources offering the 1/2 and 1-ounce denominations that allow the average person to invest within their means.

Second, you may simply accept a receipt for your gold. Your investment will be safely tucked away in our vault, saving you unnecessary assay costs later.

Third, you may accept a certificate. Your gold will be safely stored at a major Canadian bank. You'll avoid all shipping charges, insurance, sales taxes and future assay costs. Certificates are available from 5 ounces in increments of 5 ounces.

For some interesting historical facts and information on the risks and rewards of gold, write us at this address: Crocker Bank, Gold Marketing Dept., P. O. Box 38000, San Francisco, Calif. 94138. We'll send you a copy of our gold brochure.

Whether you look upon gold as a useful emergency reserve and inflation hedge or as a highly speculative commodity, if you've chosen to buy, buy from someone who can give you a choice. Crocker Bank.

California Will Face Problems

By STEVE LAWRENCE
Associated Press Writer

SACRAMENTO (AP) - California moves into 1975 with a new governor, a Democratic controlled legislature and a list of leftover problems dominated by a troubled and uncertain economy.

The state's unemployment rate reached 8.7 per cent in November, and many economists say it will go higher this year. That could mean reduced state revenues and a tough future for new spending programs wanted by Gov-elect Edmund G. Brown Jr. and legislative leaders.

"I can think of 50 different programs that I would like to see initiated or expanded," said Assembly Speaker Leo McCarthy. "But virtually none of them are going to be initiated if the economy keeps slipping badly."

Verne Orr, Gov. Ronald Reagan's outgoing finance director, predicts the Democratic governor-elect can hold on to the state's $400 million budget surplus and avoid asking for new taxes this year if he keeps a tight rein on state expenditures.

"If he budgets very conservatively he can live within his revenues," Orr said. "There would be no room at all for new programs if he does that."

Brown said before Christmas that he thinks the state can get by without a tax increase this year.

But even with its economic woes, California can look forward to significant changes this year in the way it governs its lobbyists and regulates energy use and to passage of a flood of liberal-oriented legislation.

Prop. 9, the political reform initiative approved by voters Nov. 5, goes into effect Jan. 7, banning political contributions by lobbyists and putting a "two hamburgers and a Coke" limit on what they can spend on state officials and lawmakers.

Legislation placing tough energy conservation powers in the hands of a five-member commission takes effect Jan. 7. The measure will streamline power plant siting procedures and give the commission power to set up insulation, lighting, design and climate control standards for all new buildings.

Commissioners will also set minimum efficiency standards for major appliances.

"It's the major accomplishment of the legislature this year," said Assemblyman Charles Warren, the Los Angeles Democrat who introduced the bill.

California will also be able to use gasoline tax funds for rapid transit construction this year.

This year may also see several measures make it into law this year that died last year on Reagan's desk: bills that would cut penalties for marijuana possession, set up a low-interest housing loan program, create a fulltime Air Resources Board, grant senior citizens additional property tax relief or extend unemployment insurance to farm workers.

Also among the old problems the legislature will face when it returns Jan. 6 will be public school financing and farm labor unionization.

McCarthy says lawmakers could pass a farm labor bill this year but he doubts it will agree on an education funding measure.

"I think secret ballot elections for farm employees will become law sometime during the two-year session," he said. "It may well happen during 1975."

Cesar Chavez's United Farm Workers and the Teamsters Union, which have been battling for control of California farm workers, are backing opposing bills introduced when lawmakers met briefly in December.

Both measures provide for secret ballot elections for farm workers, but the Teamster measure would ban contract-breaking efforts by another union and UFW-style secondary boycotts.

The Assembly passed a UFW bill last year but it died in the Senate. This year the author, Assemblyman Richard Alatorre, D-Los Angeles, thinks the measure's chances are better.

"I think the margin of success will be even larger in the Assembly," he said. "And the election of people like Alex Garcia, Jerry Smith and John Dunlap give it a much better chance of being able to get out of the Senate."

The state is under a court order to balance out its education funding system, which is based on a combination of local property taxes and state aid.

A Los Angeles Superior Court judge ruled last August in the landmark Serrano-Priest decision that use of local property taxes allows rich districts to spend more per pupil and thus violates the state constitution's equal protection clause.

State officials and legislators have since been debating ways to change the system, and McCarthy says he doubts they will reach a decision this year.

"It's unrealistic," he said. "What I hope to do with the schools is improve them with some money to take care of inflation - to maintain current programs. Given the economy we are not going to be able to respond to Serrano during 1975."

In addition to Serrano and farm labor, there will be hundreds of other measures introduced this year. Nearly 400 bills have already been introduced and will be eligible for committee hearings during January.

They include measures to protect pension plans, create a one-house legislature, ban campaign contributions from corporations and labor unions, and revamp the state's milk pricing system.

Other bills would raise the gasoline tax, lower the drinking age, attempt to block oil drilling in federal coastal waters, and place a freeze on prime farm land.

Lawmakers may also replace a deposit on soft drink bottles, wipe out bans against certain sex acts and abolish the state's oil depletion allowance.

And they will also have a chance to say whether they will continue to meet in the state's 105-year-old Capitol or will build a new legislative home.

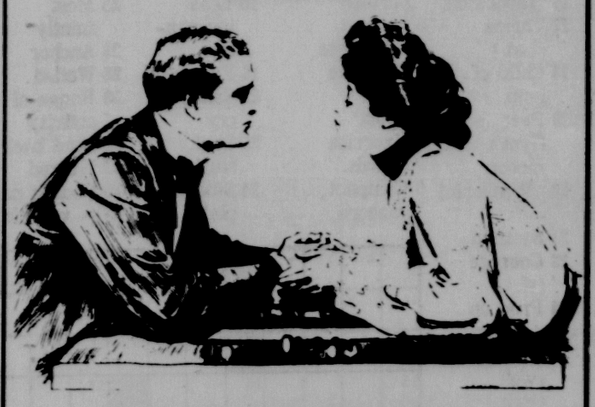

Recycling Depots To Open

Beginning this Saturday, Survival Inc., the recycling organization, will open depots in Fairfax and Sausalito, according to an official.

The Fairfax depot will be at the Bank of America parking lot on Bank Street, and the Sausalito location will be in the parking lot of the Martin Luther King School on Ebbtide Avenue off Bridgeway.

Both depots will be open from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturdays and will accept glass, tin, aluminum, newspapers, paper bags and cardboard for recycling.

Dividends Rise On Insurance For Veterans

WASHINGTON (AP) — Veterans of World Wars I and II will get higher GI insurance dividends in 1975 and Korean conflict era veterans will receive dividends for the first time, the Veterans Administration announced yesterday.

Almost 4.5 million veterans are affected.

The payments will total $335.6 million, which is $31.8 million higher than last year and the eighth year in a row that the amount of the dividend has climbed.

The 130,000 World War I veterans whose policies bear the letter "K" in front of their policy numbers will receive an average payment of $169, compared with $156 in 1974 and $142 in 1973. The payments for these will total $22 million, VA Administrator Richard E. Roudebush said.

The 3.72 million World War II veterans whose policies bear the letter "V" in front of their policy numbers will receive an average payment of $83, compared with $75 in 1974 and $72 in 1973. Payments for these will total $307.5 million, Roudebush said.

Dividends will be paid for the first time to 566,000 Korean war policyholders. The VA said they will get an average dividend of $11. These payments will total $6.1 million. They were authorized by Congress last May.

There are no dividends for Vietnam era veterans, since the only government-sponsored policies for them expired shortly after they got out of service unless they converted the policies to regular civilian ones.

Roudebush said the increased dividends for World War I and World War II veterans result chiefly from higher interest earnings on the funds.

The dividends are paid automatically on the anniversary date of the individual policies. Roudebush said the first checks will be mailed Jan. 1.

The dividends are paid in cash unless the veteran asked the VA in advance to use the premiums for additional paid-up insurance or to reduce debt on policy loans.

Stowaways Get Entry Permits

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Two refugees from mainland China who reached the West Coast as stowaways on a freighter were given permission to enter the United States today.

Leong Kwock-Keong and Ng Chew, both 22, were discovered aboard the Thomas Cuffe, a Far East Lines freighter, Dec. 10, five days at sea from Hong Kong.

When the ship arrived in Los Angeles last week, they told U.S. immigration authorities they had escaped from China Nov. 24 and stowed away on the freighter just before it sailed. They were not allowed to leave the ship while their legal status was studied.

Today is Tuesday, December 31st, the 365th and last day of 1974. This is New Year's Eve.

The moon is between its full phase and last quarter. The morning stars are Mars and Saturn. The evening stars are Mercury, Venus and Jupiter.

French explorer Jacques Cartier (zhahk kahrt-yay') was born December 31st, 1491.

Also on this day in history:

In 1879, Thomas Edison gave the first public demonstration of the incandescent lamp in Menlo Park, New Jersey.

In 1880, Ellis Island in New York harbor became the receiving station for immigrants arriving from Europe.

In 1946, President Truman proclaimed the official end of World War Two, well over a year after the surrender of Germany and Japan.

In 1972, Pittsburgh Pirates baseball star Roberto Clemente and four other persons were killed in a crash of a chartered cargo plane on a mercy mission to earth-quake-devastated Nicaragua.

A thought for the day: British author Charles Lamb said: "Of all the sound of bells . . . the most solemn and touching is the peal which rings out the old year."

FIVE OF HEARTS

West opens the five of hearts, East puts up the queen, and South wins with the ace. Dummy's nine will act as a second heart stopper if the opponents continue the suit, so South is in no immediate danger.

South can surely develop two extra spade tricks if he can reach dummy twice. The problem is to develop two entries to dummy.

South should cash the king and queen of clubs first to see whether or not the suit is going to break normally. When both opponents follow to two rounds of clubs, South can relax.

OVERTAKES CLUB

Before leading another club, South cashes the ace of spades. Then he leads the jack of clubs and overtakes with dummy's ace.

Declarer leads the queen of spades from dummy, giving West his king. West can take two heart tricks, but he cannot defeat the contract. South will surely be able to lead his deuce of clubs to dummy's three in order to cash the jack and ten of spades.

If you have the right artistic sense you'll play dummy's four and five of clubs early and save the three of clubs as the final entry to dummy.

Yesterday's Answer

Reagan Planning Whirlwind Life

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Ronald Reagan, retiring after eight years as governor, yesterday outlined a whirlwind "private" life in which he will have a daily radio broadcast, write a weekly newspaper column and launch a national speaking tour.

Reagan also said he was considering writing a book.

Although disavowing specific presidential ambitions, Reagan did not close the door on seeking that office under certain conditions and his schedule for the coming year made it plain he intended to stay in the political forefront.

The 63-year-old Reagan held a next-to-last "farewell" news conference before turning over the California governorship to Democrat Edmund G. Brown Jr. on Jan. 6. He said he would hold a final conference in Sacramento.

Reagan said he would have a nationally syndicated weekday radio commentary program beginning Jan. 20. It was understood he would record about 10 of the five minute programs at a time but would also have a "hot line" to answer topical questions.

The one-time movie actor will also be writing a weekly newspaper column for the Copley News Service beginning Jan. 13.

"I will begin my first speaking tour in just two weeks in Dallas, San Antonio, Nashville and Richmond, Va.," he said. "Several offers have come to me to write a book in 1975 and they are under serious consideration."

Reagan said he would not be endorsing specific candidates on his radio program because that would involve the "fairness" or equal time doctrine but that he would speak out "philosophically."

Asked whether that did not still give him a forum for advocating his political views, Reagan said:

"Well, so can Walter Cronkite. And I was on radio before Cronkite."

"But Cronkite isn't seeking public office," a reporter said.

"Neither am I," said Reagan.

Asked whether he might seek the presidency, Reagan said "I'm just not speculating that far."

Questioned about reports that he might lead a third party if the Ford administration does not live up to his expectations, Reagan said that was a "hypothetical matter — I don't know whether it would be practical, feasible or necessary."

Reagan said he felt the main accomplishment of his two term administration was to "bring common sense to government." He said he was leaving office with a $400 million state treasury surplus and with the number of state employees almost the same as when he began.

Reagan said anyone would have been naive not to have expected Ford to announce that he intended to seek the presidency again.

STEPPING DOWN — Retiring Gov. Ronald Reagan announced at a press conference in Los Angeles yesterday that he will write a weekly newspaper column, have his own syndicated radio program and begin his first speaking tour in two weeks. With the governor is his wife, Nancy.

U.S. Apologizes For Search

BEIRUT (UPI) — Lebanese President Suleiman Franjieh was miffed last month when U.S. narcotics agents searched his luggage at Kennedy airport.

The agents went through the suitcases of Suleiman and members of the Lebanese delegation for the United Nations debate on Palestine.

Now, U.S. officials say they're sorry and Lebanon has accepted the apology. Foreign Minister Philip Takla said yesterday Lebanon had received verbal and written apologies from the State Department.

Old Adobe Voting Will Be March 4

Single Trial In Foster Death Asked

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A judge heard arguments yesterday on a motion to consolidate charges against Joseph M. Remiro and Russell J. Little, accused of killing Oakland Schools Superintendent Marcus Foster.

After a 40-minute session in which the defendants did not appear, Superior Judge Robert W. Cole announced he would rule on the motion by the end of the week.

Prosecutors have asked that murder charges in Alameda County, resulting from the Nov. 6, 1973 Foster slaying, be consolidated with attempted murder and assault charges in Contra Costa County, which stemmed from a shootout with Concord police.

Alameda County District Attorney Lowell Jensen argued that consolidating the charges and holding a single trial would be more convenient for witnesses and less expensive.

Alameda County ordered the trial moved to Sacramento because of publicity surrounding Remiro and Little, who have been identified as members of the terrorist Symbionese Liberation Army. Contra Costa County followed suit.

A team of four defense attorneys argued that to consolidate charges from two counties after a change of venue would be without legal precedent.

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Singer Pearl Bailey was released from Denver General Hospital yesterday, two days after she was admitted with chest pains.

Legislative Reports Covered Wide Range In Past Two Years

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Committees of the legislature produced 239 reports over a two-year span on a wealth of topics, including "Good Moral Character Requirements for Licensure in Business and Professions" to "Information re Medical and Funeral Expense Plans in Effect for Boxers and Wrestlers."

State boards and commission with legislative members came forth with 54 reports during the period on subjects including "Classical Narratives in Master Drawings," and a review in both English and Spanish of drug laws in the United States and Mexico, "Drugs and the Law."

A listing of all standing and select committees, boards and commissions plus the reports they produced was contained in a report-on-reports issued today by legislative analyst A. Alan Post.

The 58-page document covered the period from November 1971 through December 1973.

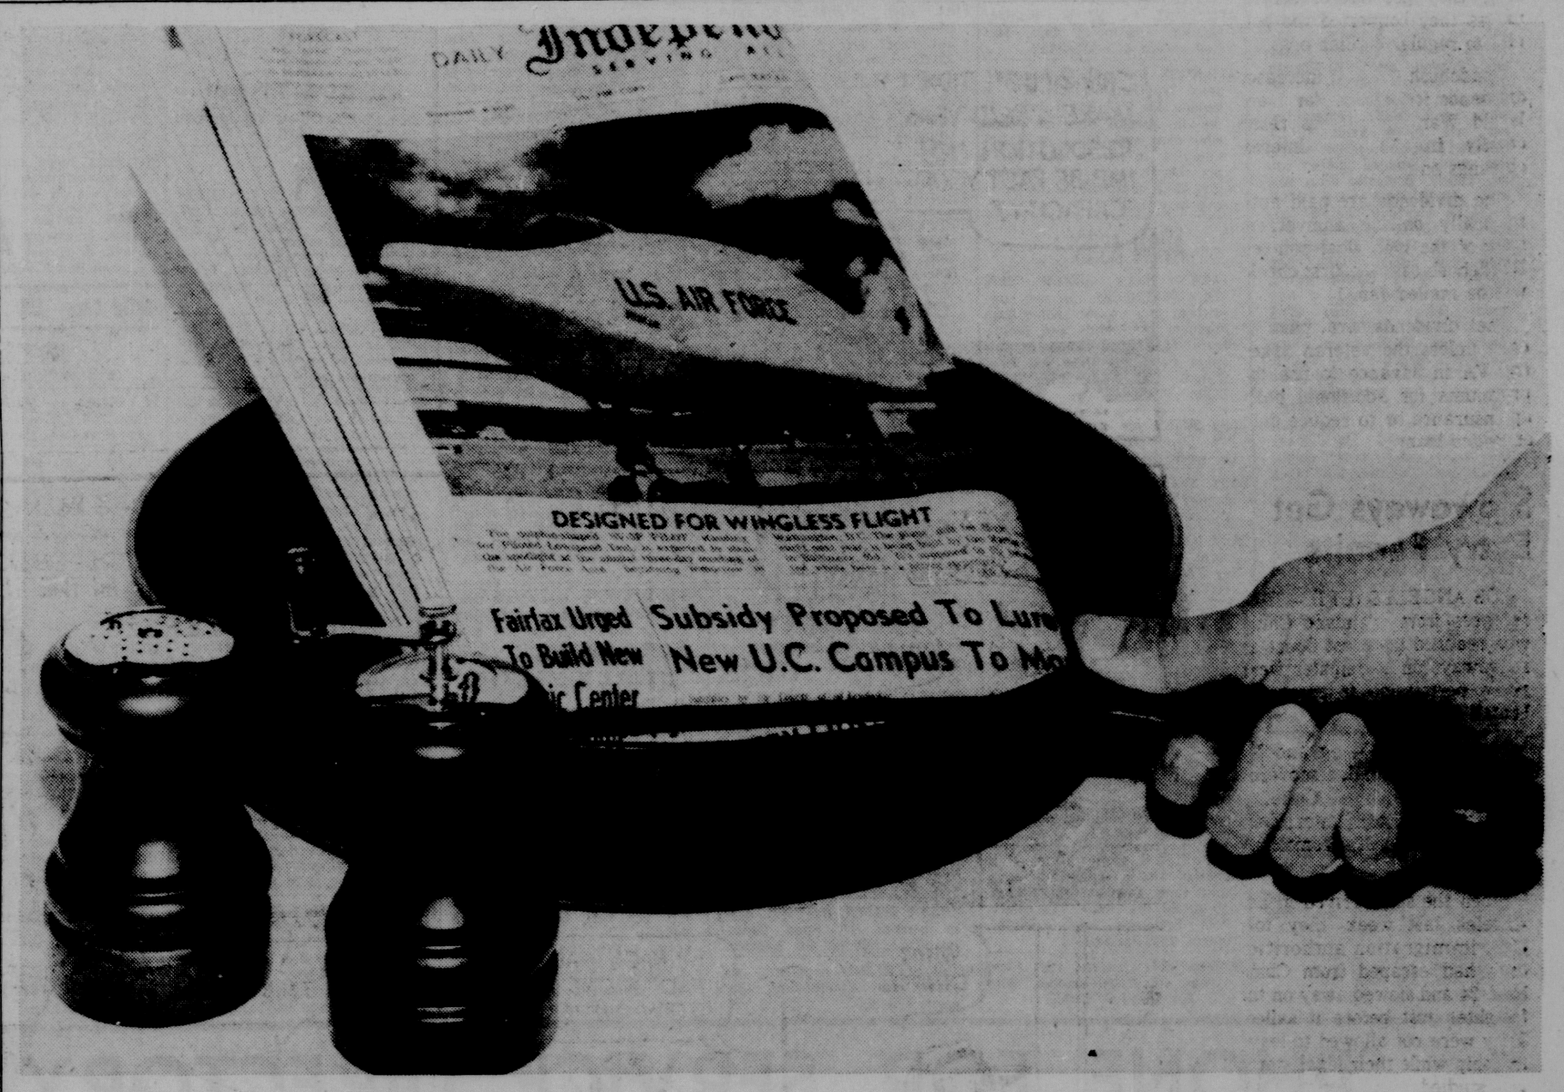

A total of 44 Assembly committees issued 40 reports during the period, while 34 Senate Committees gave out 15 reports. Joint committees, numbering 27, produced 184 reports.

Searching for Budget Meals?
Try the I-J.

There is a better way to cut food costs. Where? The Independent-Journal.

The I-J carries more food and grocery ads than any other paper in Marin, including the San Francisco dailies. By shopping wisely, reading the I-J and shopping the ads, as well as wise meal planning you can save money. The key, of course, is to shop the food and grocery advertising in the I-J for more bargains, more sales, more specials.

Have you ever considered the value of the I-J? Where else can you get so much help planning your food budget?

CALIFORNIA REGIONAL WATER QUALITY CONTROL BOARD
SAN FRANCISCO BAY REGION
1111 Jackson Street
Oakland, CA 94607
NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING ON THE PROPOSED WATER QUALITY CONTROL PLAN FOR THE SAN FRANCISCO BAY BASIN

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, that the California Regional Water Quality Control Board, San Francisco Bay Region will hold public hearings on the proposed Water Quality Control Plan for the San Francisco Bay Basin. The time and locations of the hearings are:
DATE: Friday, January 31, 1975
TIME: 9:30 a.m.
LOCATION: Edgewater Hyatt House, 455 Hegenberger Road, Oakland, California
DATE: Saturday, February 1, 1975
TIME 9:30 a.m.
LOCATION: Holiday Inn, Emeryville, 1800 Powell Street, Emeryville, California
The Water Quality Control Plan, when adopted, will be the principal guide for water quality control regulatory activities in the San Francisco Bay Region. The proposed plan contains recommended water quality objectives for the protection of the waters of the Region and recommended waste discharge prohibitions concerning (1) toxic substances; (2) discharges from vessels; (3) floatable refuse; (4) floating oil or petroleum products; (5) earthen materials; (6) sludges; (7) biocides; (8) radiological, chemical, or biological warfare agents or high-level radioactive wastes; (9) untreated sewage; (10) discharges to individual leaching or percolation systems in the Stinson Beach area of Marin County and the Glenn Ellen and Penngrove areas of Sonoma County; (11) discharges to the ocean near designated areas of special biological significance; (12) discharges to the following areas: the ocean within 1000 feet offshore; any area where the waste does not receive any initial dilution of at least 10:1; non-tidal or confined waters; Tomales Bay; Drakes and Limantour Esteros; San Francisco Bay south of Dumbarton Bridge; Richardson Bay; Alameda Creek or its tributaries; and Suisun Marsh.
Interested individuals and organizations are invited to attend and submit comments on the proposed plan. Oral comments will be heard, but it is requested that written comments be submitted to the Regional Board prior to the public hearing. The hearing record will be held open for the receipt of written comments until February 5, 1975.
The unabridged plan is available for review and reference at the offices of the Regional Board and at various locations throughout the Region. The Plan and all related documents may be inspected at the office of the Regional Board during the hours of 8:00 a.m. - 4:30 p.m.
For locations where the proposed Plan may be reviewed or any questions concerning this matter, please contact the Planning Division, California Regional Water Quality Control Board, San Francisco Bay Basin, 1111 Jackson Street, Room 6040, Oakland, CA 94607; phone (415) 464-1255.

NOTICE INVITING SEALED BIDS
IN THE MATTER OF THE CONSTRUCTION OF IMPROVEMENTS IN EAST SAN RAFAEL DRAINAGE ASSESSMENT DISTRICT NO. 2, CITY OF SAN RAFAEL, MARIN COUNTY, CALIFORNIA

Pursuant to the provisions of the Municipal Improvement Act of 1913 of the State of California, and to resolution of the City Council of the City of San Rafael directing this Notice, said City Council hereby invites sealed bids and proposals for doing the work and improvements described in the Resolution of Intention, as amended, in the above entitled matter, of said City Council of the City of San Rafael. Said Resolution of Intention, as amended, is hereby referred to for a description of said work and improvement, the grades to which it is to be done, a description of the district to be assessed to pay the costs and expenses thereof, the bonds to be issued, and for all further particulars contained in said Resolution of Intention, as amended. Reference is hereby further made to the plans and specifications and detailed drawings for said work on file in the office of the City Clerk of the City of San Rafael, in accordance with which said work shall be done.
NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the City Council of the City of San Rafael has adopted and published a scale of prevailing wage rates and that copies thereof are on file with the City Clerk of the City of San Rafael and shall be made available to any interested party upon request. Please note that the contractor shall be required to post a copy thereof at each job site.
The contractor shall in the performance of the work and improvements conform to the Labor Code of the State of California and other laws of the State of California applicable thereto, with the exception only of such variations as may be required under the special statutes pursuant to which proceedings hereunder are taken and which have not been superseded by the provisions of the Labor code. Preference to labor shall be given only in the manner provided by law. Veterans and resident local labor shall be given preference by the contractor whenever possible, if skill and working ability permit without increasing the ultimate cost of the work and improvement to the City of San Rafael.
NOTICE IS HEREBY EXPRESSLY GIVEN that payments will be made to the contractor in cash by said City of San Rafael, but only from the proceeds of any assessments which are paid in cash or from the proceeds of the sale of any bonds which are to be issued on the unpaid assessments. Said payment will be made to the contractor based upon the provisions in the specifications for payment based upon the quantity of labor and materials furnished by said contractor.
Commencing not more than sixty (60) days after the commencement of the work and within the first five (5) days of each calendar month during the construction period thereafter, the contractor shall submit to the Engineer an itemized bill of the quantity and value of the materials accepted and work performed prior to the end of the preceding month, and the Engineer will, within a reasonable time, check such bill, make his estimate of the value of the same in accordance with the terms of the contract, and ninety per cent (90%) thereof shall be paid to said contractor on or before the 15th day of said calendar month; the remaining ten per cent (10%) of the amount due the contractor shall be paid thirty-five days (35) after completion of all of said work and improvement and acceptance thereof by the City Council of the City of San Rafael.
All proposals or bids shall be accompanied by a check payable to said City of San Rafael and certified by a responsible bank for an amount which shall not be less than ten per cent (10%) of the aggregate of the proposal, or by a bond for said amount and so payable, signed by the bidder and two sureties who shall justify, before any officer competent to administer an oath, in double the said amount, and over and above all statutory exemptions, or by a corporate surety bond in said amount satisfactory to the engineer.
The time fixed for receiving sealed bids or proposals for the doing of said work and improvement herein ordered is the 16th day of January, 1975, at the hour of 2:00 o'clock P.M. of said day, in the office of the City Clerk of the City of San Rafael, City Hall, 1400 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael, California. Said bids, after being publicly opened, examined and declared, will be calculated by the Engineer of Work, his report returned to the City Clerk, and the report of the results of the bidding and the calculations of the Engineer of Work will be reported to the City Council of the City of San Rafael. The City Council of the City of San Rafael reserves the right to reject any and all proposals or bids, should it deem this necessary for the public good, and also the bid of any bidder who has been delinquent or unfaithful in any former contract with the City of San Rafael.
Plans and specifications may be obtained at the office of the Project Engineer, GONZALEZ & OBERKAMPER, 10 Paul Drive, San Rafael, California, upon deposit of $25.00 for each set. Said deposit is non-refundable.
DATED: December 19, 1974.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Weakness And Exhaustion Are Main Effects Of Brucellosis

Brucellosis, an infectious disease transmitted from animals (cattle, hogs, goats) to man, is most prevalent in rural areas. The majority of victims are farmers, butchers or veterinarians who drank raw, unpasteurized milk or have been in close contact with contaminated meat or the placentas of infected animals. Brucella organisms are inhaled or enter through tiny abrasions in the skin or the muccous membranes of the mouth.

Marked weakness and exhaustion, the most disabling features of the disease, are especially troublesome after slight exertion.

SOMETIMES CHILLS, fever and sweats develop quickly; sometimes, over a period of weeks. Other manifestations include headache, rheumatism, loss of appetite and aching.

The daignosis is fairly clear if the person has been in contact with infected animals or raw milk. Otherwise, special tests are needed to determine the cause. Early (but not at a later date) in the course of the disease, brucella organisms can be isolated from the blood, urine and tissues. Once immunity sets in, blood tests are positive. Tetracycline is used during the acute stage of the disease.

CHRONIC, BUT not very serious, brucellosis presents many diagnostic difficulties for the physician because the symptoms are characteristic of many disorders, including emotional disturbances and psychoneurosis. Diagnosis is simple when the doctor is dealing with a patient who has the residuals of an acute attack that he can't get rid of.

Physicians see many people (dairy farmers, veterinarians, salughter house workers) who are constantly exposed to brucella infections but who only show mildly positive tests for brucellosis. They don't have enough exposure to cause symptoms, but just enough to slowly develop protective antibodies in their blood.

DEPRESSION?

R. C. writes: Have you noticed how tired and exhausted people seem to be? Is there some reason for what seems to be an epidemic of nervous exhaustion?

REPLY

Yes, as a matter of fact, I have noticed this phenomenon. While it would be easy to blame universal exhaustion on the tensions of modern living, it probably has more to do with the extremely trying times we now face —economically, politically and socially. Perhaps the situation will level off, and when it does, we'll all feel better.

LINGUAL TONSIL

Mrs. H. writes: My son has tonsil tissue growing around his tongue that is troublesome only when he has a cold. Should this be taken care of?

REPLY

Nothing need be done unless this lingual tonsil leads to frequent colds. Tissue of this type usually swells when the throat is inflamed to help stop the spread of the infection. However, if the enlargement interferes with swallowing or breathing, removal is necessary.

DIABETES

D. G. writes: Is diabetes considered a disease?

REPLY

Yes, it is.In this chronic disease of carbohydrate (sugar) metabolism, the pancreas does not manufacture enough insulin to meet the body's needs.

Dr. Van Dellen welcomes reader questions. While he cannot reply to them individually, he will answer those of general interest in his column.

San Rafael, air quality yesterday:
Oxidants, clean air.
Nitrogen, clean air.
Carbon monoxide, light air pollution.
Smoke particles, light air pollution.
Other areas:
San Francisco, light air pollution.
San Jose, clean air.
Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources.

Voters Placed Tough Controls On Their New Set Of Leaders

By EVANS WITT
Associated Press Writer

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Californians elected a new set of leaders in 1974, but the voters imposed a tough set of laws telling those politicians what they can and can't do.

And the legislature gave the state's residents a new energy commission with authority to set such regulations as what kind of stove one can buy and on building a house or office.

That energy conservation measure was one of the more than 1,500 new laws the legislature passed over the past year for Californians to live by.

Laws on the treatment of rape victims in court were drastically revised; all drivers will be required to have auto insurance; and it will no longer specifically be a crime to curse in front of women and children.

It was the year in which legislators found themselves forced to cut millions of dollars out of their own pensions to placate the public's wrath.

It was the year that, despite Gov. Ronald Reagan's "cut, squeeze and trim," the state budget soared to $10.4 billion, the largest in any state's history.

It was the year for the periodic changing of the guard in state and many local governments throughout California.

While the nation's political leadership was shattered by unprecedented turmoil, Californians decided to switch from Republican to Democratic leadership in one of the quietest statewide elections in years.

The voters chose Edmund G. Brown Jr., a 36-year-old bachelor, as the next governor and swept Democrats into most elected state posts and many local ones with the son of a former governor.

They also elected a black lieutenant governor and state schools chief and a Chinese American woman as secretary of state.

The legislative leadership also changed: Leo McCarthy, a Democrat from San Francisco, defeated the handpicked choice of then Speaker Bob Moretti in June to become the head of the Assembly. Willie Brown, McCarthy's opponent, made a second attempt in December, but that too failed.

As in years past, the voters themselves made the biggest changes in state law — this year it was Prop. 9, the Political Reform Act of 1974.

Written by Brown, Common Cause, People's Lobby and others, the initiative imposes the toughest rules in the nation on the activities of lobbyists that try to influence state government.

It limits how much money a politician can spend to get elected and forces him to make that public as well as where his money came from.

And it sets up the Fair Political Practices Commission to enforce the new law, passed overwhelmingly by the voters in June.

"The commission will be enforcing the most sweeping political reform in California in the last 60 years," said a spokesman for Brown.

"The Commission's function is as outlined in the statute — to enforce Prop. 9 impartially and aggressive," said Tony Miller, one of the early appointees to the five-member commission.

"I hope it will turn out to be a document that will permit a much larger number of people to participate in the political process," said Mrs. Carol Arth Waters, another commission member. Another major commission begins work early in the year: the State Energy Resources Conservation and Development Commission, a five-member body appointed by the governor with extensive powers over energy use in the state.

"It's the most major accomplishment of the legislature," said Assemblyman Charles Warren, the Los Angeles Democrat who authored the measure passed in the spring. "The commission will establish regulations mandating energy conservation . . . insulation standards . . lighting standards . . . and climate control standards for all new buildings.

"It will establish minimum standards for the efficiency of all major energy-using appliances."

In addition, the commission will approve sites for new electrical power plants, forecast state energy needs for the next 25 years, develop plans for future energy shortages and search for new sources of energy.

Other major new laws passed in 1974 — most of them effective on Jan. 1 — include:

PENSIONS — The legislators were called back into special session by Reagan to repeal the reapportionment bonus for themselves that could have been worth $1.3 million to 13 lawmakers leaving office this year. The pension windfall, first documented by an Associated Press story in June, triggered widespread public reaction that eventually brought the lawmakers to repeal the bonuses.

But, angered at having to interrupt their election campaigns in October, the legislature also chopped more than $1,400 a month off of Reagan's pension.

RAPE — A landmark measure by Sen. Alan Robbins, D-North Hollywood, banning the use of testimony about the prior sexual conduct of the rape victim in a trial was passed after women's groups pressed hard for its adoption. The groups claimed defense attorneys tried to put the woman on trial in a rape case by prying into her private life.

Another new law also prohibits the judge from referring to a woman's unchaste character in instructions to juries.

INSURANCE — All California motorists are required to carry $35,000 in auto liability insurance or the equivalent insurance or the equivalent beginning in 1975. Although there is no general penalty under the bill by former Sen. Clark Bradley, R-San Jose, for not having insurance, a motorist is required to have such coverage if involved in an accident.

TRANSIT — The voters approved Prop. 5 on the June ballot, allowing — for the first time — gasoline tax revenues to be used to plan and build rapid transit systems. The measure could help Los Angeles and other cities build rail systems.

Mill Shutdown End Of Open Hearth Era

GARY, Ind (UPI) — The "open hearth era" at United States Steel ends in Gary today, settling for the moment a pollution issue but leaving 2,500 persons out of jobs and triggering predictions of crime increases.

"You can call it the end of the open hearth era at Gary," Traver Hartill, director of community affairs for the steel firm, said. "After more than 30 years, this is it."

U. S. Steel, the nation's largest steelmaker, announced Friday it would close its open hearth furnaces here rather than pay $2,300 a day in fines for pollution violation.

Gary Mayor Richard G. Hatcher said yesterday he was "dismayed" by the decision to close the furnace and predicted there would be a direct relationship between future crime increases and unemployment in his city.

"We already have 4,000 people out of work because of the coal strike," Hatcher said. "This will really hurt us. We have asked for emergency assistance from the government in the form of jobs and money. But it will take a while."

Where Were All Those Shriners?

The Shrine East-West football game is in trouble because of lack of interest shown the past few years, especially from the Shrine members themselves. They aren't ready to bail out yet, but there is not much profit coming out of the game.

The crowd of 42,000 at last Saturday's 50th Shrine classic at Stanford Stadium was much better than the 29,000 of the previous year when the game was held at Candlestick Park but was not up to the expectations of Bob Murphy, executive director of the game.

The massive stadium, which seats 85,000, was less than half full and Murphy had hoped for 60,000. The weather had a lot to do with making up the minds of those who were waiting for the last minute to decide whether to attend the game or stay home and watch it on television. It was raining all morning throughout the Bay Area, but it stopped just before gametime and didn't rain again.

I remember when Kezar Stadium used to be packed for the Shrine game and it seemed that every other spectator was wearing a fez. There have not been as many Shriners in attendance at recent games.

And it's really a shame, because those who are helped most by the game's proceeds are not a bunch of fat, rich members of a board of directors, but little kids with twisted legs and arms.

Driving to the game from Marin County, heading down San Francisco's 19th Avenue, the route took you right past the Shriners Hospital for Crippled Children. Saturday as I drove past the huge brick structure I couldn't help but think about all those kids, still feeling warm inside because of the visit to the hospital made by the players on the East and West teams a few days earlier. They could lie in their beds and watch the game on television, with the feeling that some people really cared.

"Strong legs run so weak legs may walk." It's a good motto and makes that particular Shrine event more than just a game. The East came out on top, 16-14. But the real winners were those little kids in the hospital.

ANOTHER VICTORY for women's lib. Girls can now play Babe Ruth League baseball. Ed Salmina of Novato, sports editor of the Novato Advance and director of District 9 of the Babe Ruth League, covering Marin and Sonoma counties, was informed of the decision by B. R. headquarters in New Jersey this week. Said the memo to Salmina: "Girls shall now be allowed to register, try out and/or participate in Babe Ruth Baseball. In no event shall race, creed, color, national origin or sex be a determining factor." Batter up, girls.

NAMES AND PLACES: Connor O'Brien of San Rafael is on the Saint Mary's College Gaels rugby team. Wendy Polhemus of Tiburon is a member of the University of Oregon women's volleyball team. Don MacDonell of Greenbrae won a four-year letterman's plaque as one of the members of the Bucknell University (Lewisburg, Pa.) soccer team. John Goepp of Kentfield is on the Stanford water polo team. Mike Whelan, former Drake star, is at Saint Mary's waiting for the start of baseball season. Jim Sherbert of Terra Linda has been retained as offensive line coach at Oregon State.

I HOPE IT'S BEEN a good year for you, and I'll see ya' next year.

TOP SPORTS STORY

Hank Aaron's successful pursuit of the most famous record in sports has been selected as the top sports story of 1974 by United Press International. Aaron was shown in this UPI Telephoto being embraced by his mother after belting his 715th home run on a pitch off Los Angeles left-hander Al Downing in Atlanta April 8. Babe Ruth's 714 career mark had stood since being established in 1935.

KINGS' REBOUND — Scott Wedman of the Kansas City-Omaha Kings last night snatched this first-quarter rebound away from Rick Barry (24) of the Golden State Warriors. Warrior Clifford Ray (44) looked on.

Warriors Pad Lead Without Good Play

OAKLAND (UPI) — Coach Al Attles swears the Golden State Warriors "haven't played well since that long road trip."

But they have won three out of four and pushed their National Basketball Association Pacific Division lead to seven full games over faltering Seattle.

The Warriors stumbled into success again last night when they took Kansas City-Omaha 110-102 before a good crowd of 7,374. That gave them an average of 7,487 for 17 games, up about 1,800 per contest over last season at this time.

Rick Barry continued his sizzling scoring passes with 39 points, yet even he was laboring since he hit but 15 of 38 shots from the floor.

The Warriors seemingly broke it open when they moved from 44-all to 61-50 at the half and opened the gap to 12 in the third stanza. But Kansas City fought back to 89-85 with Jimmy Walker leading the attack before Barry's hot shooting settled things.

Other Warriors who stood out included rookie Keith Wilkes with 18 points and 11 rebounds and center Cliff Ray, who hauled down 15 caroms. The Warriors are idle until they face hot Washington Saturday at 8 p.m. That game has been designated as Warriors-Independent Journal night. I-J readers were able to buy two tickets for the price of one for this game through an ad which ran until last Saturday.

SO HAS EVERYONE

'We Knew We Could Run Against Raiders' — Bleier

OAKLAND (UPI) — "We knew we could run against the Raiders," said Pittsburgh halfback Rocky Bleier. "Everyone else has."

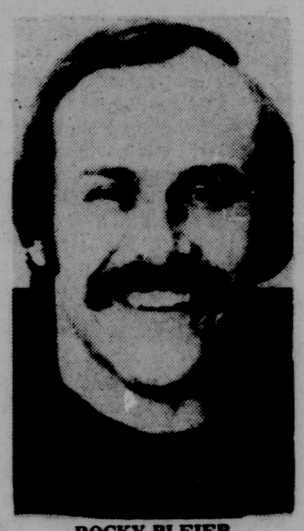

Thus did one of many Steeler stars in Pittsburgh's upset 24-13 playoff win over Oakland sum up the key to Sunday's outcome. (See game pictures, page 32.)

Oakland supporters honestly thought their team would make it to the Super Bowl after the Raiders compiled the best regular season record in the National Football League.

But the Raiders great win over Miami and loss to Pittsburgh both revealed fatal flaws in the Oakland armor.

Not only did Pittsburgh run for 224 yards against the Raiders but Miami gained 213 the week before.

And Oakland's running game has suffered, especially since fullback Marv Hubbard suffered a back injury near the end of the season. Oakland ran poorly against Miami and then managed 29 yards on 21 carries against the brilliant Pittsburgh defense.

ROCKY BLEIER
Sums it up

The Steelers had leaked their game plan prior to Sunday's battle — shut off the Raider run and then harass quarterback Ken Stabler when he passed.

It all worked brilliantly as Pittsburgh intercepted Stabler three times, with two of those thefts leading to touchdowns. It should be added that Stabler, who normally does not mind tucking the ball under his arm and running when in tight quarters, worked most of the season on two injured knees, one of which may require off-season surgery.

But take no credit from Pittsburgh. Five of the Steelers front unit are Pro Bowl stars and a sixth, middle linebacker Jack Lambert, is among the top rookies. And there is tackle Ernie Holmes, who would star for just about any other team.

Hunter May Celebrate By Signing

AHOSKIE, N.C. (UPI) — Jim "Catfish" Hunter just may celebrate New Year's tomorrow by deciding what major league baseball team will get the services of his award-winning right arm, probably for something in the neighborhood of $3 million.

The field has been narrowed to four teams, a process that included rejection of a $2.6 million offer from the Philadelphia Phillies yesterday. One of Hunter's attorneys said a final decision could come tomorrow, though it might not be announced until later, probably in the successful city.

The Phillies' offer, said Joe Flythe, a member of Hunter's Ahoskie law firm, was "considerably lower than some we have received."

Flythe said the field of teams under consideration by the 1974 Cy Young Award winner was first narrowed to six yesterday Cleveland, the New York Yankees, San Diego, Los Angeles, Pittsburgh and Kansas City.

By last night, Flythe said two more teams had been ruled out, though he declined to name them until the two teams were notified later in the day today.

The Yankees and the Indians appeared to be two of the strongest bets. Both teams sent representatives to Ahoskie again yesterday, the Yankee people going in and out three times.

A spokesman for Montreal said yesterday that President Jim Fannin still believed the Expos were in the running but Flythe said they had been ruled out since "theirs was not one of the better offers."

Flythe also said the possibility of side benefits in the form of television commercials and the like, while they had been considered as factors, were "not of that great a value" in making a decision.

He conceded that such offers might be easier to come by in, for example, New York or Los Angeles.

In addition to the Phillies, another casualty in the high-priced autioneering yesterday was the Minnesota Twins, who stepped aside when a $2 million offer was spurned.

Philadelphia President Ruly Carpenter said "I could not go any further (than $2.6 million) without jeopardizing the planned development program and the financial structure of the entire Phillies organization."

Hunter, a native of nearby Hertford, has been the center of a bidding war since being declared a free agent Dec. 14 in a historic arbitration ruling that said Oakland A's owner Charles O. Finley broke Hunter's Oakland contract by failing to pay him $50,000 he was due.

Flythe said Hunter "hasn't given himself any deadline" for picking the club, but might narrow the field to two by the end of the day and could make the final decision by tomorrow.

National Title Is On Line Tomorrow

Football Bowls In Windup

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Powerful Alabama, big, bad unbeaten and hoping for a national championship, faces ever-popular Notre Dame, big bad, somewhat beaten but hoping to redeem itself tomorrow night in an emotional climax to college football's 1974 season.

The Crimson Tide, 11-0 and ranked second only to Oklahoma, will meet the ninth-ranked Fighting Irish, 9-2, before a packed house in the Orange Bowl and a national television audience. But before that, there are some preliminaries to clear up. (See today's TV-RADIO sports log, p32, for times and television coverage of bowl games.)

Nebraska of the Big Eight Conference and Florida of the Southeastern Conference will match 8-3 records tonight in the Sugar Bowl in New Orleans. Penn State, 9-2, carries Eastern grid hopes into Dallas tomorrow against Baylor, 8-3, surprise winner of the Southwest Conference, in the Cotton Bowl.

And Big Ten co-champion Ohio State, 10-1, visits Pacific-8 titlist Southern California, 9-1-1, in the Rose Bowl in Pasadena tomorrow.

Last night, sixth-ranked Auburn dumped Texas 27-3 in an error-filled Gator Bowl in Jacksonville, Fla., that saw the teams lose the ball on turnovers seven times apiece. In between miscues, quarterback Phil Gargis threw touchdown passes of seven and 14 yards to wingback Ed Butler.

The Alabama-Notre Dame game has enough emotional factors to stir the heart of even the most jaded Hollywood B picture producer. Coach Bear Bryant of Alabama has been turning out dynamite teams that fizzle in post-season competition for years. He has one tie and six losses to show for his last seven bowl appearances.

"It looks as if I will go down as the losingest bowl coach in history," moaned Bryant. "I would like to keep that from happening."

Bryant's last bowl loss came last New Year's Eve in the Sugar Bowl when coach Ara Parsehian's Irish won the national championship with a thrilling 24-23 decision. As if revenge isn't enough, the Tide will also be going for the national title.

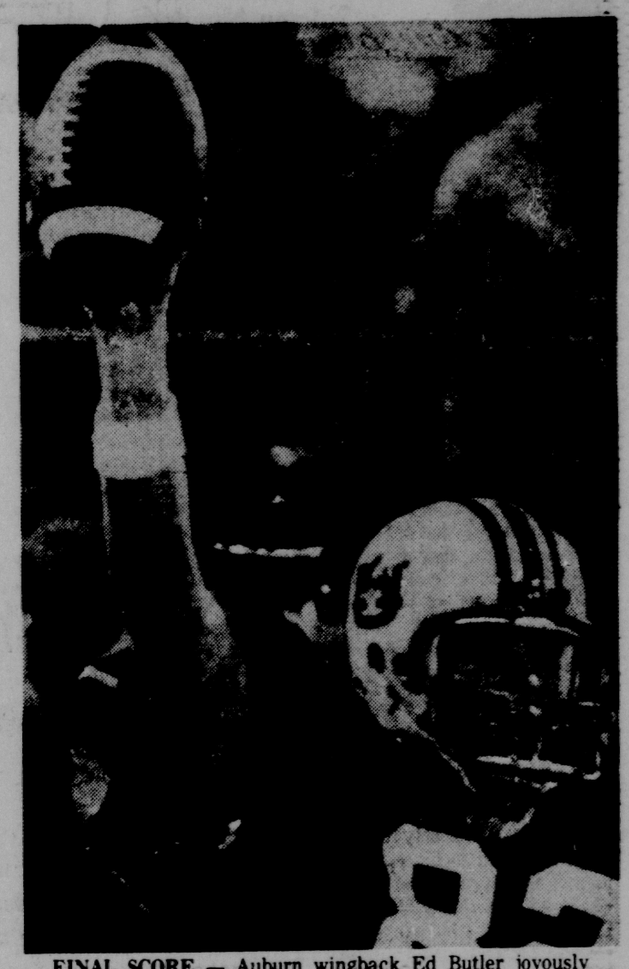

An impressive showing could boost them ahead of Oklahoma, 11-0, in the Associated Press poll. The Sooners are barred from post-season competition for past recruiting indiscretions.

On the Notre Dame side, the Irish will be out to win one for Ara, who has decided to give up college coaching after 11 seasons at the Irish helm.

While emotions build in Miami, seats are still available in New Orleans where the Nebraska-Florida clash has failed to ignite the populace.

Despite equal records, Nebraska is a solid two-touchdown favorite.

In Dallas, Penn State's Joe Paterno and Baylor's Grant Teaff have been offering observers a lesson in contrasting coaching philosophies. Penn State has rented 40 cars to carry the team sightseeing around town. Baylor's Teaff has imposed a strict curfew and has been lecturing his troops on the importance of going to bed early and getting up early.

FINAL SCORE — Auburn wingback Ed Butler joyously held the football aloft after catching his second touchdown pass, a 14-yarder during the fourth quarter last night in the Gator Bowl game at Jacksonville, Fla. It was the final touchdown in Auburn's 27-3 victory over Texas.

Redwood Tops Drake

PINOLE — Redwood, paced by hard-driving forward Dave Del Grande, romped to a 78-53 victory yesterday and the consolation championship of the Pinole Valley basketball tournament.

"I don't know what's happened to us," said Drake coach Pete Hayward. "I just hope we can get straightened out." Hayward had one excuse, although he didn't use it. Star forward Walt Gillespie, the Pirates' leading scorer, was still hampered by flu and played just a few minutes of each half.

Yet the Giants played the entire game without key guard Mark Kilmer, down with the flu, and much of it without 6-foot-6 forward Steve Trobbe, who picked up three fouls in the first quarter. Nonetheless, by the end of the third period Redwood led by 21 points.

Del Grande got hot in the second quarter, scoring 11 points, and stayed hot in the third quarter with eight. Forward Jack Hagler, who made the all-tourney team, had 22 points.

FISH AND GAME

By AL GIDDINGS

Salmon Needed Those Rains

The rains were ideal for those salmon in Papermill Creek and the White House Pool area at Point Reyes Station. By Sunday, fish were spawning all through the stream area of Samuel P. Taylor Park. The run was a large one; I saw 12 salmon spawning on one riffle behind the Taylor Park headquarters.

All of the fish ere old ones with the tell-tale fungus marks over most of their bodies. The releases of water the past two weeks by the Marin Municipal Water District kept the salmon in an adequate amount of water in the deep holes, so they are in prime spawning condition. All of these fish will be dead in a week or so but they have accomplished their final purpose with their spawning activities. It's been a good year for the salmon fishermen and the salmon too. We are certainly assured of future runs with things going so well this year. A big thanks to the water district for its help.

The fishermen at White House Pool Saturday didn't have any steelheads on the beach, but the 20 or so fishermen trying were giving it a go. There will be steelheads taken this week, that's for sure.

Don't forget to get your New Year's license. Some of the stores feel that it is illegal to sell licenses before the New York starts. Not so. Shops can start sales anytime, otherwise poor fishermen will be lining up in front of stores New Year's Eve to go fishing on the first.

I TOOK A RIDE Thursday morning up to Lambertville, a duck club colony right next to the Sacramento Refuge. I went alone, getting there about noon. Having Ray Lenci's duck club all to myself seemed like a picnic. But the birds, they were tough. About 2:30 I got one sprig and at 4:40 a mallard. At 4:50 I picked up a snow goose. It was three shots and three birds. I went up to the clubhouse, had dinner and made a fire.

About 10 o'clock Ray showed up with Boots Bottini. We talked a little, then off to bed. I woke up about 5 a.m. Friday with the wind just howling outside. Man, was I excited! We all got up, had coffee and headed for the pond, each of us taking a separate blind. Now wouldn't you think that with a 30 mile per hour wind and a light rain that things would be phenomenal? We managed to get seven birds all day. I was soaked to the skin, and it was cold. We saw mighty few birds and they wouldn't work either. When I left at 5 p.m., there were already 60 cars of hunters lined up to get into the refuge on Saturday. You've got to be crazy to be a duck hunter! The season closes on Sunday, Jan. 12, so there's not much time left.

THE RAINS AND muddy waters should really put the sturgeon on the bite. I called the Lord of the Sea's residence Sunday — he was out fishing for sturgeon. With all those pro football games barely over, I was surprised he was out. His wife said they had been out in the morning, got nothing, but saw some fish caught. Then home for the games, then out fishing again. Mrs. Fraser said the bay was calm, but the weather was cold. Wear warm clothes or you won't last the day out. Keith called later saying that on Saturday nine boats fishing had 15 sturgeon. Even Rich Locati took his 11-year-old son out and he connected for a 35-pounder.

The new tide books are available at most sporting goods stores. There are three or four low tides on the afternoons of Jan. 9, 10, 11 and 12. You might, if it's calm, be able to get yourself a limit of abalones before the season closes on January 14. The tides are -.8 those days.

WHEN A TOUCHDOWN ISN'T

The Pittsburgh Steelers overcame this bad call from an official while downing the Raiders, 24-13, Sunday in Oakland. On this second quarter play, quarterback Terry Bradshaw had apparently put Pittsburgh up, 10-3, with this eight-yard completion to John Stallworth. Defensive back Nemiah Wilson grabbed the wide receiver's right arm (photos left and center) but could not prevent Stallworth from making a one-handed grab. Head linesman Ray Doez ruled Stallworth came down out of bounds after catching the football. However, United Press International photos showed that Stallworth had the ball (center photo) and was still in bounds (right photo).

NOTHING CONFIRMED

Are Rams After Namath?

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Are the Los Angeles Rams going to go after Joe Namath?

If they're planning to seek the services of the New York Jets' veteran quarterback, they're keeping it quiet.

Rams' general manager Don Klosterman yesterday discounted rumors that the 31-year-old Namath, a 10-year pro, might be in Los Angeles' National Football League plans.

"I really don't know how those rumors got started," Klosterman said. "I've never talked to him (Namath).

"James Harris (the No. 1 Rams' quarterback) had a great year and did the job for us. And Ron Jaworski (Harris' backup man) is coming along fine.

"That position may not be where we need more strength."

Namath played out his option this season and will become a free agent unless he signs a new contract with the Jets by May 1. The former Alabama All-America led the Jets to victories in their last six games to give New York a 7-7 regular season record.

Despite Klosterman's praise of Harris, the Buffalo Bills' castoff had his problems putting points on the board after taking over as the Rams' No. 1 quarterback from John Hadl five games into the regular season.

The Rams were beaten at Minnesota 14-10 Sunday in the National Football Conference finals.

"I'm sorry just as everyone else on the team is that we didn't get there (The Super Bowl) this year," Klosterman said. "But we're making progress every year.

"We reached the opening playoff round last year and we made it to the second round this year. We'll get to the Super Bowl yet."

The Ram general manager said he planned to sit down with head coach Chuck Knox following Super Bowl IX at New Orleans Jan. 12-Pittsburgh vs. Minnesota—and discuss how the team can strengthen itself for 1975.

"We'll spend a period of reevaluation," he said. "We'll see what our needs are and whether we can improve through the draft or trades."

In the Feb. 2 National Football League draft, the Rams have three No. 1 picks, two No. 2 selections, a pair of No. 3 choices, a fourth round pick and three No. 5s.

Time For Steeler Movies

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (UPI) — Although Minnesota hasn't faced Pittsburgh since a 10-6 pre-season victory in 1973, Vikings Coach Bud Grant says his team will become very familiar with the Steelers during the next two weeks.

"I know their people by name and reputation but I'm sure we'll know a lot more after looking at their game films," Grant said yesterday. The Vikings' coach watched the second half of Pittsburgh's 24-13 win over Oakland for the American Football Conference title.

"The Steelers are very similar to the Los Angeles Rams (who lost to the Vikings 14-10 Sunday in the National Football Conference championship game). There are several parallels.

"Defensively, Pittsburgh is super aggressive, as are the Rams. The Steelers have a great front four and very mobile linebackers. Their defensive secondary has maybe a little more mobility than the Rams and their offensive line is a veteran unit like Los Angeles'."

Grant said a major concern is the strong running of Pittsburgh backs Franco Harris and Rocky Bleier.

"We're conscious of Harris, naturally," he said. "They are better balanced now on the ground with Bleier. He's a plugger and a fine ball player. What we want to do is try to stop their running game and make Terry Bradshaw throw the ball. That's not taking anything away from him— percentages are better for us if we can stop the running game and make him throw."

Nevertheless, Grant said the Steelers have four of the best receivers in football in Ron Shanklin, Frank Lewis and rookies Lynn Swann and John Stallworth.

The Minnesota players will not practice in Bloomington this week and won't make a return trip to Tulsa, Okla., where they prepared for the St. Louis playoff contest and the Los Angeles game.

"We feel we need three days of practice for the Super Bowl, just like any other regular season game," said Grant.

LESS RESPONSIBILITY — The Baltimore Colts announced yesterday that Joe Thomas has resigned as head coach after less than one season. The Colts were 0-3 when Thomas took over for Howard Schnellenberger who was fired after a rhubarb with team owner Robert Irsay. Under Thomas, the National Football League team finished 1974 at 2-12. Thomas is looking for a coaching successor.

Connors, Newcombe Tomorrow

Combined AP & UPI

MELBOURNE, Australia — The Giants of world tennis, John Newcombe and Jimmy Connors, won their semi-final rounds today to set up their confrontation in the finals of the Australian Open Tennis Championships tomorrow.

The stage was set for the eagerly-awaited meeting when American Connors ripped through big-serving Australian Dick Crealy 6-4, 6-3, 6-4 and Newcombe beat his former Davis Cup partner, Tony Roche, in a marathon three hour, 20 minute match, 6-4, 4-6, 6-4, 2-6, 11-9.

The ladies have taken a back seat in the nationals this year with the prospects of a Newcombe-Connors joust, with Evonne Goolagong and Czech teenager Martina Navratilova to fight out the final.

Today in the semis, Miss Goolagong raced through Britain's Sue Barker, 6-2, 6-4, while Miss Navratilova beat 16-year-old Russian Natasha Schymreva, 6-4, 6-4.

ST. LOUIS — The St. Louis Blues yesterday reacquired Rd Berenson from the Detroit Red Wings in exchange for forward Phil Roberto and a 1975 National Hockey League draft choice.

Oregon Sophomore Draws Cage Kudos

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — Oregon star Ron Lee was named the Most Valuable Player of the 1974 Far West Classic, but it was sophomore Greg Ballard who drew the praise of both coaches after the Ducks took Washington State 74-65 in the basketball finals.

Ballard hit 19 points in the second half as the Ducks, who had hit only 26 per cent of their shots in the first half, made 62 in the second half to pull it out.

Coach Dick Harter of the unbeaten Ducks called Ballard "a great player against the zone."

Coach George Raveling of the losing Cougars said "Ballard just destroyed us in the second half. He has to be the most improved player in the Pacific Eight and should have been on the all-tourney team."

In other Far West action, Arizona State took third place with an 80-71 win over Oregon State while Wake Forest beat Creighton 70-69 and Boston College clipped Iowa 86-81.

In the final game, 7-foot soph Steve Puidokas led the Cougars to a 32-27 halftime lead, but the 6-7 Ballard, who wound up with 23 points, found the range and almost single-handledly brought the Ducks back to a 39- all tie with 15:40 left. The rest of the young Oregon team finally started hitting as Stu Jackson added 18 and Gerald Willett 17. Puidakas scored 19 for the losers.

Rod Griffin's 23 points helped Wake Forest to victory while Will Morrison scored 34 in Boston College's victory.

Arizona State trailed by 10 points before pulling out its win. Coach Ned Wulk said "we played as though we were tired and we were. We were stagnant in the first half and just didn't seem to get much offense going. Our press got us back in the game in a hurry."

Joining Lee and Puidakas on the all-tourney five were Lonnie Shelton of Oregon State, Arizona guard Lionel Hollins, and Wake Forest guard Skip Brown.

In other Coast cage activity last night, USC and Stanford were badly beaten.

The Trojans took their first loss of the season when Fordham pulled off a 83-66 upset in the finals of the Holiday Festival championship in New York.

U.S. Vs. Mexico Tennis Set Jan. 31

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (UPI) — The United States will face Mexico in Davis Cup competition at the Racket Club in this desert resort Jan. 31- Feb. 2.

The U.S.-Mexico winner is scheduled to face defending Davis Cup champion South Africa.

Greg White hit 20 for the fifth-ranked Trojans but Darryl Brown and Kevin Fallon had 46 for the winners.

Stanford called on 18th-ranked Arizona and fell 80-67. It was the third game in four nights for both teams and the players looked tired. Bob Elliott had 30 for the winners while Rich Kelley led Stanford with 28.

Second ranked Indiana did nothing to hurt its lofty standing with a 69-52 win over host Hawaii in the finals of the Rainbow Classic at Honolulu. One consolation game there saw San Jose State win 88-80 over Florida.

Santa Clara fell 98-74 at Utah State as the losers had to go without Remel Diggs and Vester Robinson, who along with Coach Carroll Williams had the flu. Eddie Joe Chavez, a Drake High School graduate, had 21 for Santa Clara.

Ken Lukhard's 28 points led Azusa past San Diego 91-88 while Sacramento State got 14 from Bill Bates in an 82-64 win over UC San Diego. Montana edged Puget Sound 67-58.

Ohio State Is Rose Favorite

Heisman Trophy Winner Griffin Leads Buckeyes

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — Heisman Trophy winner Archie Griffin and Ohio State's Buckeyes, who clobbered Southern California in the Rose Bowl a year ago, are favored by one touchdown to beat the Trojans again in the New Year's Day classic. (The football game will be televised tomorrow on Channels 3 and 4 in the Bay Area.)

Griffin, who has one more season left at Ohio State, will be matched against Pacific-8 rushing king Anthony Davis, who is closing out a brilliant collegiate career.

For the Big Ten co-champion Buckeyes, 10-1 and No. 2 in the nation, and the Pac-8 titlist Trojans, 9-1-1 and No. 4, it will be their third straight Rose Bowl confrontation. USC won 42-17 two years ago but Ohio State got even 42-21 last season.

Tomorrow's 2 p.m. PST Pasadena classic — Southern California's seventh appearance in nine years — is expected to draw more than 100,000 fans. Last season's game drew a record crowd of 106,869.

The Griffin-Davis match is the big attraction of the 61st annual Rose Bowl but the brilliant Ohio State tailback stressed it would not be a one-on-one battle. Davis finished second to Griffin in the Heisman Trophy voting this season.

"I'm a team player," Griffin said. "I try to do what's best for our team. It's been said Ohio State can win without me and that's true. Each game I want to play better than the game before and I want to make this my best game."

The Ohio State-USC confrontation could produce the national champion since No. 1-ranked Alabama faces No. 8 Notre Dame in the Orange Bowl on New Year's Night.

A Notre Dame upset in Miami could elevate the Rose Bowl winner into the No. 1 spot in the final UPI coaches' ratings.

Griffin, the Big Ten career rushing record holder, and Davis, the top rusher in Pac-8 history, are two of the seven All Americas who will be playing here.

Ohio State has five of them; Griffin, offensive linemen Kurt Schumacher and Steve Myers, defensive end Van DeCree and defensive back Neal Colzie. Linebacker Richard Wood is USC's other All America.

In addition, the Buckeyes have the 1974 Rose Bowl's MVP in quarterback Cornelius Greene.

But Griffin, only the fifth junior in history to win the Heisman Trophy, and Davis will be focus of most of the attention.

"Arch is not only the best player I've ever coached," said Ohio State coach Woody Hayes, "but he's also the most popular. He's a wonderful athlete and a wonderful person."

Griffin, a 5-9, 180-pounder, has rushed for more than 100 yards in 22 straight games and has amassed 4,064 career yards, including 1,620 in his junior season.

Trojans fans think Davis is the better of the two, of course, and they have statistics to back up their claim. The 5-9, 183-pound tailback from San Fernando, Calif., has 52 touchdowns and 3,627 rushing yards at USC.

Davis ignited USC's incredible 55-24 come-from-behind victory over Notre Dame Nov. 30 by returning the second half kickoff 102 yards for a touchdown.

King Serious About Defense

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Billie Jean King is playing in only two Virginia Slims tourneys this season but she appears to be deadly serious about defending her title in the $75,000 San Francisco Slims joust here next week at Civic Auditorium.

She has been working out for several hours daily the past two days down the peninsula at San Carlos. She is playing only in San Francisco and the following week in Sarasota, Florida, said tour official Jerry Diamond. "But she is determined to make a good showing in both tournaments."

Jacobson, Bauer Win Net Titles

LOS ALTOS HILLS — Henry Jacobson of Belvedere and Herman Bauer of Tiburon emerged as the winners of their age group divisions yesterday as the Northern California Tennis Association's 13th annual Junior Round Robin Invitational meet ended at Fremont Hills Country Club.

Jacobson won the boys 18 division with 66 victories in 96 games, including final day wins over Barry Gilbert of Piedmont, 13-3, and Doug Carlisle of San Rafael, 10-6. The latter finished sixth overall with 37 wins and 50 losses.

Bauer took the boys 16 division, finishing like Jacobson with a 66-30 mark. He had final victories over Scott Lipton of San Jose, 14-2, and Leonard Ramirez of Salinas, 12-4, the third and sixth finishers overall.

Sue Beatty of Tiburon finished sixth overall in girls 18 at 35-61. In final matches she lost to Dana Gilbert of Piedmont, 13-3 and defeated Bunny Stockton of Modesto, 9-7.

Cycle Races Set For Sears Point Starting Sunday

Between 200 and 300 riders are expected to take part this Sunday and next in motor cross motorcycle racing at Sears Point International Raceway in Sonoma.

Ten events, from mini class to expert open, will be held beginning at 8 a.m. The races are being sponsored by Sears Point in conjunction with Dick Mann, past national champion.

All riders with competition licenses are invited to participate. Entry fees will be $8 to $15, depending on the class. Tickets, at $3 per person, will be available at the gate. The track will open at 6:30 a.m.

For more information, contact the raceway at Highways 37 and 121 in Sonoma.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Information Asked On Mutual Funds

By DAVID R. SARGENT

Q. Would you kindly advise me how to get in touch with the Money Market Management Fund and the Capital Preservation Fund? Also, I would like some information on these funds. — S.F.

A. Both these short-term liquid asset, no-load funds have a $1,000 minimum for initial investments. Capital Preservation, which has shifted its portfolio entirely into U.S. Treasury and Agency issues, at last report, had assets of $12.3 million and was yielding under 8 per cent. Their address is 459 Hamilton Ave., Palo Alto, Calif. 94301. With assets of about $250 million, Money Market Management yields about 8.8 per cent. This fund is located at 421 Seventh Ave., Pittsburgh, Pa. 15219.

A third fund in this field, Fidelity Daily Income Trust, recently announced that it had received a ruling from the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. to the effect that shareholders would be covered by FDIC insurance. Because FDIC is set up as a trust, shareholders have a beneficial interest in the underlying CDs held by the fund and are therefore eligible for FDIC coverage. However, subsequently Fidelity was informed that the FDIC was reviewing the decision.

With money market funds now commanding $1.5 billion in assets, which might otherwise be sitting in savings accounts, the hard-pressed banking industry would obviously suffer further inroads if this additional advantage of insurance coverage were granted. While most of the other money market funds are set up as corporations rather than as trusts and are not eligible for FDIC insurance, this could be speedily altered.

Q. I hold 739 shares of United Income Fund on a withdrawal plan. What is your opinion of this fund? — C.C.

A. United Income Fund is an appropriate one for use with a withdrawal plan. Although the yield is a modest 4.3 per cent from income dividends, over the years, the fund has made fairly liberal capital gains distributions. United Income's portfolio is on the whole high quality with about 80 per cent of assets invested in around 70 common stocks. The five largest holdings account for 20 per cent of assets. The fund's performance record for the ten years through 1973 was better than that of the Standard & Poor's Industrial Average.

BUSINESS MIRROR

Reaction Of Americans Eyed To Legal Ownership Of Gold

By JOHN CUNNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — All through history man has been dazzled by gold, attributing to it properties that justified veneration and, contrarily, the most heinous of human behavior.

Another episode began today, accompanied by the same hopes, prayers, fears and greed, as Americans for the first time in 41 years are permitted to own the metal in its plain unfabricated state.

Nobody knows what the future holds for gold, but they do know its past, that it always has been considered a repository of value, even when nothing else was, that it has always been acceptable in transcation — everywhere.

The immediate question now is at what price will it be acceptable. Almost never since it was banned in the United States has faith in paper currency been so low, and for that reason people might buy hundreds of millions of dollars of the metal.

But, as nobody can fail to observe, another factor is involved in the latest gold rush, and that is the attraction of wealth. Gold is being promoted not as a conservatory of wealth but as the possible multiplication of it.

For decades the ownership of gold was considered conservative. Now it is looked upon and promoted as an opportunity for capital gains.

It is true that gold has been a good investment over the past six or seven years, rising from under $50 an ounce to its present price around $200.

The intriguing question now is whether those who have held gold for the past few years will be inclined to act as insiders do in stocks, that is, sell and take their profits from the masses.

As yet, there aren't the compelling circumstances necessary for gold owners to feel secure in unloading their hoards. The world monetary order still is shaky. Countries are near bankruptcy. Inflation rages.

But a good investor doesn't live in the present; he observes the present and tries to determine what it leads to. And, despite the gloom, there are some indications that nations might begin to set their houses in order.

Some of the other consequences are equally impenetrable. Will people take money out of their savings accounts to buy gold? That is, will they take it out of circulation and, in effect, bury it in a can in the ground?

Money in a bank is "live" money, money in use, money doing things, such as financing housing or helping business expand. Money in bars of gold serves no similar purpose; in fact, it deprives industry of its needs.

Will it be merely a fad? Nobody knows how much gold really means to the American people, but many of the symptoms of a fad are present, including the popular fervor, the hucksters and the matching of amateur versus pro.

Bank of America Urges Caution In Gold Buying

Anyone may now buy gold, but don't let the glitter obscure the many risks involved.

That warning is contained in a Bank of America pamphlet called "Gold: Facts You Need To Know Before You Buy Gold," which are available at Bank of America offices.

"The quoted price of gold will have to rise 25 to 35 per cent for small purchasers to recover their buying and selling costs," says the report. "If you buy less than 50 ounces at $180 an ounce, for example, the price must increase to $225 or $240 in order to cover all costs of buying and selling."

Among risks mentioned in the report:

Purchase price may be 20 to 30 per cent over the quoted market price to cover costs of fabrication, handling, commissions etc.

At time of resale, assaying fees of $30 to $175 will be charged. There is also the threat of fraud, storage fees, insurance costs, and volatile price fluctuations.

"Deal only with a local firm or a financial institution of excellent reputation," says Bank of America.

Stocks Rise Sharply In Heavy Sales

NEW YORK (UPI) — Year-end bargain hunting pushed prices sharply higher in heavy trading today on the New York Stock Exchange.

Much of the activity took place in the oils, chemicals, rails, electronics, computers and some glamors. Analysts said there was some bargain hunting, portfolio readjusting and some tax-loss selling.

Gold and silver mining issues were mixed during the first day in 41 years U.S. citizens could legally buy gold. Bullion prices plunged on foreign exchanges because of uncertainty over U.S. reaction to the gold sales.

ASA Ltd. gained ⅞ and Homestake Mining ¼. Dome Mines lost 1 ⅛, Rosario Resources ⅛ and Hecla Mining and Campbell Red Lake ⅛ each.

Getty Oil, which recently made hydrocarbon discoveries in Alabama and Mississippi, and Halliburton climbed 2 ¾ apiece to pace the oils. Ohio Standard and Joy Manufacturing were pointsized gainers.

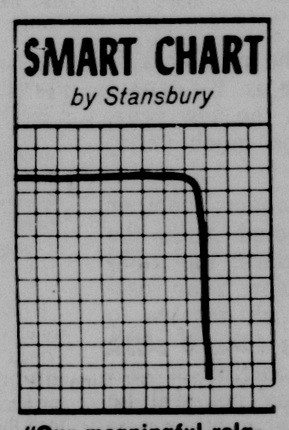

Chessie System gained 1 ⅛ and Union Pacific 1 ¼.

IBM rose 2 ¾, Texas Instruments 1 ⅝, Digital Equipment 1 ¼ and General Electric 1. Westinghouse Electric, which plans to sell certain operations to save money, was the most active issue, up ½ at 10 on 133,600 shares.

Among the glamors, Caterpillar Tractor and Ingersoll-Rand gained 2 ¼ apiece, and Procter & Gamble, Johnson & Johnson, Merck and Upjohn a point or more each.

Dow Chemical gained 2, Allied Chemical 1 ¼ and DuPont and Eastman Kodak ¾ apiece.

Prices were higher in active trading on the American Stock Exchange. Brascan Ltd. led the Amex actives, up ⅛ to 10 on 20,400 shares.

"Our meaningful relationship with the bank was less meaningful than we thought."

Mooney Named To Ortho Post

LOS ANGELES — Ortho Mattress Co. president Jerry Mickell has announced the appointment of Ed Mooney as upholstery merchandising manager. Mickell said Mooney will work in the design and merchandising fields to improve Ortho's upholstery line.

Formerly supervising merchandiser with Gold Key Furniture of Los Angeles, Mooney has 10 years experience in retail sales, product design, advertising and merchandising.

Ortho Mattress manufactures a complete line of convertible sofas and corner groups, as well as mattress sets, in its Los Angeles factory.

Nonsmokers Get Insurance Break

California nonsmoker home owners and tenants may now qualify for a discount on their fire insurance, according to Brian O'Hara of San Anselmo, local agent for Farmers Insurance Group of companies.

The discount will be available for all fire policies in households whose permanent residents have been non-smokers for the past two years.

According to company figures, O'Hara said smoking and matches are the apparent cause of 6.05 per cent of the dollar cost of all California home owners' losses.

New Cheese Shop Is Scheduled To Open This Week In Tiburon

A new cheese shop called Tiburon Cheese Co. is scheduled to open this weekend at 110 Main Street in Tiburon's Ark Row, next to Juan Creek Clock and Leather Shop.

Owner Jack G. Garcia, who took over the former site of Tiburon Cheese & Gourmet Foods, said he will have various cheeses, salami, sausages, some gourmet foods and eventually beer and wine. He plans to keep the shop open seven days a week from about 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Garcia worked for KGO-TV for three years as marketing director before buying the cheese shop from David D. Story of Tiburon, who established it last July. Garcia lives in Oakland but plans to move to Marin.

The new owner is remodeling the interior of the shop with wood paneling, light wood counter, and new equipment and will decorate it with stained glass lamp and plants. Moto Builders of Mill Valley is in charge of the remodeling work.

ARTHUR C. LATNO Jr. of San Rafael, Pacific Telephone vice president, has been appointed to supervise and coordinate the company's public relations, public affairs and regulatory matters effective tomorrow. Based in San Francisco, his responsibility covers California and Nevada.

Latno, who has been vice president-regulatory matters, becomes vice president-external affairs, in keeping with his broadened administrative duties. An employee of Pacific Telephone since 1952, Latno was named vice president in 1972.

Verhey Latno

ROBERT S. VERHEY of Tiburon was promoted to general manager, carton division, of Fibreboard Corp., San Francisco. Verhey, 31, will be responsible primarily for the firm's three West Coast carton plants, two recycled paperboard mills, and one New York carton facility.

Verhey joined Fibreboard in 1972 and was general manager, western carton operations, before the promotion. He graduated from Duke University in 1962, won his master of business administration from Dartmouth College in 1967, and was with Xerox Corp. and Memorex before joining Fibreboard.

HOUCK'S PROCESS of Marin, the furniture stripping and finish removal service in San Rafael, will celebrate the new year with its first anniversary and the announcement of its second shop, in Santa Rosa.

Houck's Process, established by Mike and Pat Kubicki of San Rafael last January, is located at 34 De Luca Place, near Bret Hart Super. Their Santa Rosa shop, called Sticks and Thrones, is operated by their partners, Charles and Phyl Rogers at 3161 Coffey Lane, behind Coddingtown.

The stripping process of their shops include everything from handstripping to vat dipping methods. Their finish removal service now includes rust removal and brass and copper brightening. Chair caning and refinishing services are also available, and the shops carry wood finishing products for the do-it-yourselfer.

Houck's Process of Marin also has architectural pieces for sale such as mantelpieces, french doors and wooden doors.

LAWRENCE R. SMITH of Minneapolis has rejoined Dancer-Fitzgerald-Sample Inc. in San Francisco as vice president and account supervisor and plans to move to Marin County.

Smith was with D-F-S in San Francisco from 1965 to 1969 and was most recently vice president at Swanson & Associates Inc., a Minneapolis company specializing in new product development.

WESTERN FURNITURE Co. at 1848 Fourth Street in San Rafael will have a sole owner in 1975.

Robert L. Thomas of San Rafael, who has been a partner in the business for the past 10 years, is taking over the furniture store from partner Jack Patterson of San Anselmo, who has operated it for 23 years. Thomas said Patterson will continue to help at Western Furniture on a part-time basis.

The new sole owner plans no changes.

A PLANT FAIR is underway at Great Western Savings & Loan Association at 999 Grant Avenue in Novato, from now through Jan. 10.

Carl Jotty, manager of Novato Florists, is presenting the special plant and flower display. Great Western Savings will give "How to Grow Plants" Sunset books to visitors.

SAN FRANCISCO FEDERAL Savings & Loan Assn. is holding a grand opening celebration at its new branch office at 200 Bon Air Shopping Center this week and next, through Jan. 10.

Manager J. Scott Kokjer announced a varied program including refreshments, free banks and balloons for children, free Sunset cookbooks, demonstrations on how to make decorative food garnishes and fancy napkin folding, an exhibit of exotic orchids from around the world, and free caricatures by Bill Bates.

Weather permitting, a giant hot air balloon will hover near the office daily from noon to 3 p.m.

D. H. RUPPERT, president of The First National Bank of Cloverdale, has accepted a request by the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency, Department of Treasury, to serve on the Regional Advisory Committee for the 14th national bank region.

Ruppert is a 25-year veteran with First National Bank of Cloverdale, one of the subsidiaries of Independent Bankshares Corp., San Rafael.

Old Woes Persist Into New Year

We all like to think that the start of a new year means a new beginning. As we replace the old calendar with the new, we symbolically sweep away the problems and frustrations that have plagued us through past months, to "start fresh."

Unfortunately, this symbolism has little meaning. Problems have little regard for the calendar.

MOST OF US, looking back on 1974, tell ourselves that "next year must be better." The year now closing had more than its share of bad news.

It opened with a gasoline shortage, with long lines of cars at service stations and rapidly mounting gas prices, coupled with warnings of shortage of electrical power and pleas to conserve energy.

The Watergate scandals meanwhile were reaching a crescendo. With the year little more than half gone, a president of the United States resigned his office rather than face an impeachment proceeding — the first time in our history such a thing had happened.

Inflation ran rampant throughout the year. Prices of almost everything went up at a rate that steadily eroded the real value of wages and salaries.

Then came widespread worker layoffs as inflated prices cut spending power, to add recession — and the threat of depression — to the economic woes.

Also, the threat of war persisted throughout the year — centered, as so often before, in the Middle East. Arab nations' use of their oil resources as a political lever added to the threat, encouraging jingoists to talk about war as a means of regaining cheap oil supplies.

IT WOULD BE nice if all these things were ended by simply replacing "December, 1974" with "January, 1975." But they're not.

Energy problems persist. Efforts have begun to develop new energy sources, so that we will not be so dependent on the oil of either Arab princes or American petroleum combines. But they have just begun. Much must be done during 1975.

We have a new president and vice president, but the aftermath of Watergate lingers in general distrust of the government. And the new administration has been fumbling, so far, in its efforts to reform and at the same time drive for solutions to economic problems. The forecast now is for another huge budget deficit — no change from 1974 or the years preceding.

We pin some hopes on the new Congress, with many fresh faces. But what most of the newly elected senators and representatives have been advocating sounds much like a warmed-over version of measures that previously have been tried and failed.

Inflation continues. Recession grows worse. And in the Middle East, the threat of war remains.

IN SHORT, the problems of 1974 remain with us. We cannot start anew with the new year. We have far too much unfinished business.

There is, however, another tradition connected with the change of calendars: the tradition of making New Year resolutions. Let us all resolve to strive harder in 1975 to solve the left-over problems of 1974 — that they may not still be with us when yet another new year rolls around.

"Take it and begone! We've suggered enough."

Moral Standards Say We Shall Not Kill

I feel sad to read in Jeanne Lezzini's letter of Dec. 26 that in making a decision regarding abortion she feels we should not consider our own moral standards, but the life of the child in the "real world."

I find this statement somewhat confusing as I don't see where the life of a child can be separated from our moral standards.

Before conception occurs is when we should be morally thinking about the outcome of our decision — the possibility of a new life being conceived. After conception, there is only the life of the child to consider — not the death which abortion would accomplish. Our moral standards do not allow us to take the life of another person under any circumstances.

If everyone could someday talk to a woman who considered abortion, reversed her decision and delivered her baby, they will find a woman filled with joy because she decided on the life rather than the death of her baby.

Exercise Responsibility Before Conception

In regard to abortion, I maintain that responsibility for an unborn child's life, and for a woman's body, should take place before a child is conceived, not after. Abortion is nothing more than a cruel means of birth control. There is a tendency to say, "Oh, well, if anything happens I can always have an abortion." Surely human life has a greater value than we accord it today with the use of abortion. Birth control is available. Use it. Exercise the responsibility that is yours now, rather than facing the option of abortion when two lives are involved.

Theory Of How Gold Could Pay U.S. Debt

The reasoning behind the sale of gold by the government is not difficult to comprehend. Gold is the medium by which governments either wipe out their debts or make them more easily payable.

The government owns X number of ounces of gold, worth at the present price X number of dollars. The gold is valued at X number of dollars because the law says so. And who makes the law. The Congress. Obviously, this law can be changed by a majority vote in Congress and if the bill is signed by the president.

Who controls the Congress? What did President Ford and the French president talk about at their recent meetings?

So the demand for gold, after Jan. 1 increases the price to hundreds of dollars. Congress then defines the gold dollar as X number of grains of gold based on the open market value. So, instead of the X number of ounces of gold held by the government being worth its present price, it is now worth its equivalent in the new price.

The government would then use this profit by issuing gold certificates and depositing them in the Federal Reserve Bank and then, by the simple expedient of drawing checks against these new deposits, the government could then pay off its direct and guaranteed indebtedness.

Abortion Arguments And Dred Scott Decision

I have been following with interest the letters from your readers concerning the unborn. The pro-abortionists were effectively answered not only with common sense but also with suggestions of positive solutions.

However, I found myself re-reading Ms. Lezzeni's letter with the feeling that I had read this type of argument somewhere else using the same terms that she used: "ill-equipped, unwanted" etc. With the help of a few books, I found my answer. The arguments used to defend abortion are very similar to those used to defend another Supreme Court ruling, the Dred Scott decision. Example: 1857 — If you think that slavery is wrong, then nobody is forcing you to be a slave-owner but don't impose your morality on somebody else! Today — If you think abortion is wrong, then nobody is forcing you to have one but don't impose your morality on somebody else! 1857 — Isn't slavery really something merciful? After all, every black man has a right to be protected. Isn't it better never to be set free than to be sent unprepared and ill-equipped into a cruel world? (Spoken by someone already free!) Today — Isn't abortion really something merciful? After all, every baby has a right to be wanted. Isn't it better never to be born than to be sent alone and unloved into a cruel world? (Spoken by someone already born!)

How apropos are the words of Santayana: "Those who cannot remember the past are condemned to repeat it."

Why Obey Speed Limit When Governor Does Not?

Why drive 55 m.p.h. when our illustrious governor, as a matter of record, in a car driven by a CHP member at 75 m.p.h., was stopped by the CHP in Santa Barbara, admonished and dismissed?

This creates an interesting precedent for citizens appearing in court for the same offense.

Or is the governor immune from the law?

Bowmen's Club Still Very Much Alive

Just for the sake of correctness, you reported Dec. 26 in your article that a young woman was found at the "Old Bowman's Club, a now-defunct archery range off North San Pedro Road."

Northwoods Bowmen's Club, Inc., an active club with about 60 members at this time, gave up this range location several years ago after two buildings were burned by vandals and the rent was increased to $1,200 per year. Northwoods now has a new range in the San Geronimo area.

Northwoods has been active in Marin County for 20 years and has participated regularly in civic activities and sponsors a scouting Explorer Post. We are not "defunct" as the article implied and are "alive and well in Marin County," enjoying the sport of archer.

More Stories About College Programs Urged

I read Drew Mendelson's story on the College of Marin's re-entry and enabler services program (I-J, Dec. 28) and I was very impressed with both the article's informative content and the public service rendered in the article being written.

I am sure the Marin County public would appreciate other such articles on the many other fine community college programs.

Veteran Loan Program Getting Another Review

By EARL G. WATERS

At a cost of $33,800, the Department of Veteran Affairs contracted for a study of the state's veteran home loan program with the Stanford Research Institute. The institute used nine pages to spell out the study objectives.

Although the program has been in existence since 1921 and has provided low-interest, long-term financing on homes for hundreds of thousands of veterans, a review of the operation from time to time would not be out of order. However, in the past two years the department and program have been scrutinized by at least two legislative committees, the auditor general, the legislative analyst, and the Department of Finance. These studies have been made without cost to the department and significant recommendations resulted.

While the department acted on some of the suggestions, its overall reaction seems to have been mostly negative and even resentful of the criticisms.

IN VIEW OF THIS, some suspicion must attach to the motivation for the new study. With no impugnity intended on the integrity of Stanford Research, a non-profit organization, such studies often have an amazing way of coinciding with the predetermined goals of the employing agency.

The sole purpose of the Depart Veteran Affairs is to contribut welfare of California veteran assist eligible veterans, their widow orphans, in obtaining those benefits established as rights by state and federal governments.

Having been engaged in carrying out these functions for so many years, one would think the most knowledgeable assessment of how well it is doing the job would come from the employee's of the department and the veterans themselves.

Since the loan program is carried out without any cost to the taxpayers, all expenses being borne by the participating veterans, public interest is limited.

If the employees cannot self-assess their performance, the logical place to turn would be to the veterans whom the department exists to serve. As a matter of fact the institute indicated in its study outline an intention to do just that.

WHICH RAISES the question of why it was necessary to hire the institute to make the study. It is a fair assumption that the veteran organizations, if asked, would have been more than willing to select a committee of qualified persons to conduct a study without any cost to the department.

It was in this manner that the program came into being in the first place. World War I veterans such as George J. Hatfield and Frank Belgrano, realizing the difficulties for veterans in obtaining homes, proposed a program wherein, using the state's credit, bonds would be floated to finance low-interest long-term loans in lieu of the "bonuses" which various states were granting veterans. This, they said, would be far more meaningful to the veterans and wouldn't cost the state a dime.

Long-Overdue Reform Of CIA Appears Surely On The Way

One more institution of the cold war — the Central Intelligence Agency — is surely on the way to drastic change. And about time!

We all know that centralized intelligence gathering is a necessary part of government responsibility in a world of grave adversary relationships. There has been little criticism, and quite a lot of praise, for the overseas intelligence-gathering operations of the CIA.

The trouble has been with its "dirty tricks" — and its direct interference in the domestic affairs of other countries. And now the trouble is with its alleged intelligence-gathering operations inside the United States, strictly in violation of the law setting up the CIA.

SOON WE MAY KNOW in more detail of the government's side in the charges that the CIA grossly violated its charter inside the United States. Already the stern injunction of President Ford that such activities must not go on is a partial admission that they have taken place in the past. It is already on the public record that the CIA took some part in drafting the nefarious Huston plan in 1970 for various illegal activities. Fortunately, the plan was soon aborted. But the attitudes behind it persisted in the administration and ultimately brought the Nixon presidency to the ground.

At least, following full investigation, Congress ought to set up more adequate supervision of the CIA. Two branches of government ought to be involved, with knowledge, in such grave activities. The present information available to Congress is limited to a few, and shrewdly scattered among divided committees. The long-proposed joint House-Senate Committee on Intelligence Oversight should be set up without delay.

THE ABUSE of domestic intelligence operations was once widespread in the United States, and not limited to the CIA. Horrifying details of the activities of military intelligence have come to light, and presumably have been stopped. In the 1960's, particularly, various branches of government pushed their spying on the antiwar movement deep into private activities which have long been sanctioned by the American Constitution.

This does not mean that domestic subversion should not be detected, exposed, and, when justified, prosecuted by the law. That is the role of the FBI, and of the courts. Nor need we be naive about the necessary techniques of detection. Distasteful as they are, impersonations and penetration by agents and use of stool pigeons have long been accepted. But the courts attempt to draw certain lines, such as against unauthorized wiretapping, and these should be enforced.

The United States will need international information gathering of a clandestine nature. It will need a strong FBI at home. But the sooner it is decided that CIA activities of direct interferences such as have been revealed in many parts of the world are far more harmful than good, the better it will be.

THE CIA HAS BEEN "blown" anyway. Books and articles by its former members have had a devastating effect. A very thorough housecleaning and redefinition is in order. Maybe, too, we can save a lot of money.

But it is not necessary to forget the essential patriotic role played during these last three decades by the cloak-and-dagger people. In wartime, as revelations continue to bring out, they performed heroically. In peacetime, the ambiguity began. In cold-war time the role was easily abused. It can only be benefited by rethinking.

We are emerging from a confused period. The fresh air is beginning to blow. The line between what is legitimate and necessary in a free society, and what is not, is becoming clear. A sense of proportion, which may be the most essential force in protecting freedom, is on its way back. So the CIA will be reformed.

Buckley And McCarthy Team In Attack On Campaign Law

By ARNOLD B. SAWISLAK

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A most unusual group of allies are contesting in court what an anonymous Englishman two centuries ago called "the holy mistaken zeal in politics."

Leading what they concede is "an odd coalition" will be Sen. James Buckley, the Conservative-Republican from New York, and former Sen. Eugene McCarthy, the liberal Democrat from Minnesota.

Their target is the 1974 federal campaign reform law, which they claim will absolutely shred the First Amendment and an assortment of other constitutional guarantees if it is permitted to go into effect.

Buckley, McCarthy, New York Civil Liberties Union chief Ira Glasser and Yale law professor Ralph Winter are joining in a lawsuit to overturn the campaign law that was Congress' response — after nearly two years — to the abuses uncovered by the Watergate scandal investigations.

THEY SAY, and their records certainly support the disclaimer, that they have no sympathy for the dirty work and shady practices that marred the financing and operations of the 1972 and some earlier presidential campaigns.

But these men, in vast disagreement on issues of public policy, are joined in the belief that reformers were so carried away by the wish to clean up the political process that they trampled the Bill of Rights in their haste.

Specifically, they argue that prohibiting citizens to contribute to political candidates through public financing of campaigns or setting limits to the amount of money citizens may donate or candidates may spend violates the First Amendment right of free expression.

They concede that it might appear to be an overriding need to keep "fat cats" and special interest groups from trying to buy elections with hundreds of thousands of dollars, but they insist that this may not be accomplished by limiting or forbidding anyone to express his political preferences with cash.

They ask, for example, how a citizen can be forbidden to buy a newspaper or broadcast advertisement supporting a candidate if that citizen cannot be forbidden from giving a public speech for the same candidate.

WINTER IS THE LEGAL mind behind the challenge, and he has argued that all efforts to control or disclose campaign finances flirt with unconstitutionality.

But Buckley and McCarthy believe some controls could stand — required disclosure of big contributions, for example. And they believe that the public, informed of huge donations from an individual or organization to a candidate, would be forewarned of the possibility that the candidate could be "in the pocket" of the big donor.

It is interesting that the federal law has had some type of control on campaign contributions or expenditures in varying forms for 50 years. But there has never been a Supreme Court test of the proposition that all such limits are unconstitutional invasions of the right of free speech and expression.

McCarthy was asked at a recent news conference why civil libertarians did not challenge campaign laws long before. Because, the former senator replied with a sweet smile, everyone knew the old laws were completely unenforceable.

By THERON NEWELL

Novato Planning Sometimes Doesn't Look Far Ahead

The other day, a garbage truck belonging to the Novato Disposal Service rolled backward down Romar Court and off a six-foot bank, knocked down a utility pole, and smashed into the side of a house.

Just a week before that, the same driver lost his brakes and rolled backward down the same steep street, sideswiping two cars.

Obviously it points out a need for better maintenance on the garbage trucks.

More than that, it points out the hazards of poor planning.

There was considerable infighting when apartments were proposed for the steep hillside above some single-family homes on Fourth Street in Novato.

Some of the problems were solved by putting concrete walls in front of the existing houses. It was over one of these that the garbage truck went.

One big problem with the short, steep street is that the garbage truck cannot turn around at the top and so must back down the street. It makes one wonder if fire trucks could maneuver if there were a fire in the apartments.

THE NOVATO PUBLIC Works Department has pulled some bloopers in recent year, too.

For example, where Seventh Street crosses Novato Boulevard to become Tamalpais Avenue, a driver cannot get into the center lane to go straight ahead. Instead one has to get into the right lane to go ahead and when he crosses the street, has to swing back to the center lane because the street narrows abruptly. All this in spite of the fact that the street was just widened.

The public works department had a break in the weather and got the intersection of South Novato Boulevard and Rowland Boulevard filled and resurfaced before the rains came. Then the new street immediately was cut up so that traffic signals and islands could be put in.

In the center of the southbound lanes of the new Novato bypass, south of the De Long Avenue interchange, there are regular chuck holes and bumps. And the highway has just been opened a couple of weeks.

It seems a shame that a federal highway cannot last more than two weeks without getting chuck holes in the middle of it.

THE BIGGEST JOKE is the widening of South Novato Boulevard at the Nave Shopping Center.

For many weeks there has been a three-foot deep trench where the outside lane was going. At last the curbs, gutters and sidewalks were put in. The trench was filled with crushed rock and the lane paved.

What is so ridiculous is that now the utility poles are out in the street, one lane from the curbing. The city has flashing blinkers at the base of the poles, but still someone might drive down the street and a hit a pole in the center of the two southbound lanes.

But what does one expect when one of the flashing blinkers used by the City of Novato at South Novato Boulevard and Rowland Boulevard is painted white and has the label "City of San Rafael" on it?

'Misunderstanding' On Reagan Car

SANTA BARBARA (UPI) — The California Highway Patrol said yesterday a "series of coincidences and misunderstandings" led to a situation last Friday in which CHP units tailed a car occupied by Gov. Ronald Reagan for 27 miles and brought it to a "felony stop."

Supervising inspector A. D. Majors said no further action is contemplated, although the arresting officers reported that the driver of Reagan's car and a followup vehicle were exceeding the 55 mile an hour speed limit.

Majors quoted officer David S. Allen, who stopped Reagan's vehicle, as saying: "All I intended to do was orally warn the drivers they were exceeding the speed limit." He said they were going a little over 60 when he first spotted them.

Allen, following the governor's caravan and two other CHP patrol cars, red lights flashing, joined the pursuit before Reagan's cars stopped at a signal in Santa Barbara and the governor stepped out.

Explaining the "felony stop," Majors said that officer Allen became disturbed when he received a radio report that the backup car resembled a vehicle that had been involved in a recent crime in the area.

Allen asked for a checkout on the license plate on the second car and, although it turned out to be a state-owned car, was told it was not on file.

There was no explanation why the CHP called in two other units and made the "felony stop" if Allen only intended to give an oral warning.

Reagan had said previously the station wagon in which he was riding was not speeding.

Hard To Cut Crime Rate While CIA Keeps Practicing

WASHINGTON — For some years now, Washington, D.C., has had one of the highest burglary rates of any city in the country.

We always assumed the crimes were committed by the underprivileged, unemployed and disaffected members of the population. So you can imagine our surprise when all of us picked up the New York Times the other day and read that there was some evidence that the CIA had been involved in breaking and entering and other second-story jobs in the capital.

No one knows how many break-ins the CIA were involved in, but it certainly does pose a problem as far as our crime rate is concerned.

MY FRIEND, George Washington Custer, called me as soon as he read the story. "Hey, man," he said, chortling. "You read where the CIA's been committing all the break-ins in our fair city?"

"The story didn't say that," I warned Custer. "It indicated that there was a possibility that the CIA may have been involved in some break-ins in the name of national security.

"What are they breaking into homes in Washington for? I thought they were supposed to spy on all those Communists in Russia."

"That's the point, Custer. In order to spy on Communists in the Soviet Union, it is sometimes necessary to break into people's homes in the United States. But I'm certain the CIA would not sneak into anybody's house unless they were certain they were friends of our enemies abroad."

"HOW WOULD THEY know that? Custer demanded.

"Because apparently the CIA kept a list of Americans that were suspect. They probably weren't permitted to rob your house unless you were on the list."

"How come the CIA were allowed to do this?"

"They weren't," I said patiently. "But when you work for the CIA you can do a lot of things you are not allowed to do. That's why you operate in secret."

"Well, let me ask you this. Suppose half the break-ins in Washington were made by the CIA and only half were made by the common robber? How come they never caught the CIA fellows?"

"The CIA crook has much better training for breaking and entering than the average man in the street. For one thing, he's a college graduate."

"Well, let me ask you another question. If the CIA is involved in a breaking-and-entering job, does that make it a street crime or a white-collar crime?"

"That's a good question, Custer. Why do you ask?"

"If it's a white-collar crime and it's been listed as a street crime, then maybe Washington's been taking a bum rap. How do we know the biggest crimes in this city have not been committed by the government?"

"THE BIGGEST CRIMES in any city are always committed by the government, Custer. You should know that."

"It still bothers me. Going into someone's home through a window sounds like something the White House would do — not the CIA."

"Maybe," I said, "but let me ask you this. What would you do if you had all those people working for you out in Virginia and could only afford to send a certain number of them abroad? Wouldn't you tell them to go out and break into a home in Washington?"

"But why?" he asked.

"Practice, Custer, practice."

Housing Starts Plummet Again

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — November housing starts in California were down 6 per cent from the previous month and 46 per cent below the level of a year ago, the Bank of America says.

Based on a seasonally adjusted annual rate, the bank reported yesterday there were 89,000 housing starts in November, compared with 95,000 in October and 164,000 in November, 1973.

Through the first 11 months of 1974, construction was begun on 120,122 actual units, 38 per cent fewer than the 194,917 units started in the first 11 months of 1973.

Sharpest drop was on apartment projects with more than four units, the bank reported. Only 40,159 such units were undertaken through November this year as opposed to 83,037 by the same time a year earlier.
